Cardinals Meet in Seclusion.

Extra Precautions Taken to Keep Record of Voting Strict Secret.

Prelates Cut Off from Rest of the World Till Task is Accomplished.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

ROME, Feb. 2.—Majestic stateliness attended the solemn immuring in the Vatican today of the sacred College, comprising for the present fifty-three cardinals. Every detail of the sacred rites was observed, and although the time fixed for the closing in of the cardinals was 5:30 this afternoon, so long was the ceremonial that darkness had enshrouded the huge basilica of St. Peter's and the Vatican palaces before the doors were finally barred and bolted, and the conclaves were complete for the grave task of the election of a new Pontiff.

The fifty-three cardinals present in Rome are now in the Vatican, from Cardinal Marini, who is suffering from influenza, was content there. He did not participate in the ceremonies of the afternoon, but remained in bed, resting preparatory for tomorrow, when the first ballot will be taken.

STRICT SURVEILLANCE.

At the huge bronze doors surveillance of those passing within was of strictest nature. A giant Swiss-Gurion sergeant of the guard allowed nobody to enter unless provided with a white pass issued by the Pope.

JAPS MAKE CONCESSION TO CHINESE DEMANDS.

Arms Conference Expected to End Saturday Following Plenary Session to Adopt Treaties.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—Japan met China part way today on the latter's request for abandonment of the celebrated "twenty-one demands" program of 1915. Taking the center of the stage as the final scene of the Arms Conference began, the Japanese announced their government was ready to give up Group 5 of the "demands," which China has held was calculated to rob her of her sovereignty, and to make further concessions regarding economic privileges and political and military preferences in Manchuria and Mongolia.

Tomorrow China is to reply in a statement that is expected to end the Far Eastern questions, and on Saturday the Washington conference probably will adjourn sine die after a plenary session for formal adoption of the Far Eastern treaties.

JOINT DECLARATION.

Consideration of the "twenty-one demands," the last topic remaining on the Far East agenda, began in the Far Eastern committee after hope of an adjustment of the Chinese Eastern Railway situation had been abandoned and a resolution adopted merely declaring arrangement for "better protection" of the road should be worked out in the near future through diplomatic channels. The powers other than China appended a joint declaration of China's responsibility for fulfillment of her obligations to foreign stockholders of the road.

Japan's statement on the "demands" was presented by Baron Shidehara, who argued that the Chinese request for abrogation of the treaties and agreements resulting from the 1915 program could not be supported by a plea of LIQUOR ACT DECLARED NOT VALID.

Van Ness Measure in New Jersey Unconstitutional, Court's Decision.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

TRENTON (N. J.) Feb. 2.—Declaration today by the Court of Errors and Appeals that the severe State Prohibition Enforcement Act was unconstitutional brought both wet and dry forces to their toes. Developments of the afternoon included:

Announcement by the Anti-Saloon League of New Jersey that a substitute for the Van Ness Act immediately would be introduced.

Orders from Assistant State Prohibition Director Surtees to prosecutors that evidence of violations of the Van Ness Act immediately should be transferred to Federal prohibition authorities.

Reports that saloon owners, especially in Atlantic City, had shown marked activity since the court decision had become known.

Declaration in Jersey City by Gov. Edwards, elected on a wet platform, that it was up to the prohibition forces to worry, not him, and that he did not think they would "be able to put over anything as radical as the Van Ness Act."

Speculation ran high on the fate of those already apprehended for violation of the act.

From Atlantic City came word that County Prosecutor Gaskill had expressed belief that ten men indicted there would not be brought to trial unless the Federal authorities took over the cases.

CRISIS IN GERMANY.

Railroad Strike Effective.

Coal Shortage Acute and Industries Are Forced to Slow Down.

Nation Virtually Isolated; Marooned Foreigners Seek to Escape.

BY GEORGE SELDES.

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BERLIN, Feb. 2.—With the first day of Germany's railroad strike not quite over, all wheels throughout the nation are ceasing to move. Almost every railroad has ceased to operate and the coal shortage, which already has been affecting the nation, is reaching an acute stage. Nearly all industries are being forced to curtail their activities and as a result the country is facing one of the most serious crises since the founding of the republic.

Today Germany virtually is isolated by land from the rest of Europe, not even the international expresses being permitted to leave the stations at Berlin. Thousands of foreigners are marooned and are wondering how they can reach the seaboard.

AMERICANS DESPERATE.

Inasmuch as the Entente stopped all airplane traffic in Germany some months ago, Germany today is resorting to wagons and automobiles for transportation. Desperate Americans are paying hundreds of dollars for taxis to take them to Bremen and Hamburg, where they had booked passage for the United States.

Without claiming that their position is right, government officials are taking the most remarkable measures ever known here to break the strike. Under President Ebert's proclamation yesterday, which establishes a condition just below martial law, the police today arrested two of the committee of thirty-five, who voted to strike and the rest are in hiding "for their self-protection," as they announce.

STRIKE FUND SEIZED.

Government agents likewise raided the strike headquarters and confiscated the hundreds of thousands of marks in the treasury on which the strikers had hoped to subsist. The police and militia are everywhere guarding and patrolling the railroad property, especially in Saxony, where, if anywhere, the strike might take a revolutionary turn.

While the strike apparently is completely successful, the government is making no effort to compromise. The officials admit that the workers are entitled to the higher wages demanded, but claim the Entente budget makes impossible an increase in pay. The locomotive brotherhood, which called the strike, has demanded an increase in wages commensurate with the increased cost of living, pointing out the devaluation of the German mark and the fact that wheat and meat, which are largely imported, make necessary at least a 40 per cent increase over the wages of a year ago when marks were sixty to the dollar.

Delays to trains or entire stoppage of service have been reported from all sections. In the Essen, Elberfeld, Mumster and Erfert districts, traffic is at a complete standstill.

The strike has extended to Cassel and Chemnitz. Traffic between Berlin and Leipsic has been stopped and Berlin's city and suburban lines are at a standstill.

TAYLOR MURDER SUSPECT TRACED TO, FROM HOUSE.

Asked Oil Station Man the Way to Slain Director's Home; Seen Leaving, Boarding Car.

Tracing the movements of a man suspected of being the slayer of William Desmond Taylor, internationally known film director, who was shot to death in his Alvarado-street apartments Wednesday night, investigators for The Times last night located four witnesses who saw the man before and after the tragedy. Actuated by motives of revenge due to jealousy, the police believe, the murderer fired the fatal shot as near as can be calculated a few minutes before 7:45 p.m., as Mr. Taylor was seated at his writing desk or just as he returned and closed the door when he returned from escorting Mabel Normand, actress, to her car.

Between 7:45 and 7:50 p.m. just after the report of the revolver was heard, Mrs. MacLean, wife of Dougias MacLean, the actor, who lives near the Taylor home, saw a man leaving the Taylor apartments. He was described as being about five feet nine or ten inches tall, of medium build and roughly, but not shabbily, dressed in dark clothes and a plaid cap.

Shortly before 6 o'clock a man answering this description stopped at the Hartley service station, Sixth and Alvarado streets, and inquired where W. D. Taylor resided. Floyd Hartley, 331 South Bonnie Brae street, and L. A. Grant, in charge of the station, were in the place at the time.

The circumstances recited by both of these witnesses tally in the minutest detail. The inquirer was 26 or 27 years old, stood 5 feet 9 inches, weighed about 165 pounds, wore a dark suit, probably of blue serge, and a light hat or cap. He had dark hair and was of medium complexion.

They directed him to the Alvarado Terrace Apartments and he left the oil station. He walked toward the apartments. That was the last they saw of him.

SEEN BY CARMEN.

Maryland street runs east and west at the rear of Mr. Taylor's apartment. It is a street car line on the West First-street car line, but passengers board cars there at only rare intervals, possibly a few months.

H. W. Desmond, conductor, and H. S. Woodard, motorman, of that a man answering the description handed their car at either 7:34, or 8:37 p.m. were not certain which trip it was, but took notice because of the frequency with which passengers are taken on the Maryland-car stop.

"I took particular notice of this passenger on that account," said Conductor Desmond. "It was on inbound trip. This fellow was about five feet and ten inches tall, fairly well dressed, as I remember, weighed about 165 pounds, and his hat or cap was of a light color. I remember that he wore something tan, but I don't know whether it was his coat or vest. I can't remember where he got off, but I think I would know him again."

DESCRIPTIONS TALLY.

Motorman Woodard recalled that Mr. Grant, in charge of the oil station, had mentioned the circumstance of a man inquiring for Mr. Taylor, and of the similarity in descriptions. The descriptions given by Mrs. MacLean, Mr. Woodward and Mr. Desmond tally so closely that authorities believe there is little doubt but what the three people saw the same man.

It is believed that the slayer had no automobile. Persons residing in the vicinity have taken special

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—The first counterfeit 2-cent postage stamps to come to light in twenty-seven years were discovered here today by a collector. It is an engraving said to be the first in stamp counterfeiting history. Two spurious issues which were circulated in 1898 were typographed.

The new counterfeit to the casual glance seems familiar enough, but comparative examination quickly exposes poor workmanship and reveals many points at variance with the original. The head of George Washington is shorter, the nose has a hook, the eyes seem to glance furtively to the side instead of straight ahead, and the queue appears carelessly knotted.

NEW IRISH FUSS STARTED.

North and South at Loggerheads Over Boundaries and Free State is Making Threats.

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

DUBLIN, Feb. 2.—The Irish Free State is on the verge of an open break with the Ulster government over the boundary question. The crisis developed this afternoon at the resumption of the negotiations which began so auspiciously in London between Sir James Craig and Michael Collins.

At the end of a three-hour conference the Ulster Premier and the head of the provisional government found themselves perhaps hopelessly apart on the problem of readjusting the border line.

Mr. Collins insisted on incorporating in the southern government comparatively large areas which had been regarded as absolutely vital to the existence of the north.

TO FORCE ISSUE.

It is learned from an authoritative source that the provincial government plans to use every agency to compel the north to yield on this issue. It hesitates to re-establish the boycott against Belfast, which was removed only a few days ago, and to refuse to cooperate in operating the railway, telephone and other government services.

The southern leaders seem confident that they have it in their power to render Ulster almost impotent.

One high provisional official asserted that Ulster must come across on this issue, and that the south is going to make it do so.

OFFICIAL STATEMENT.

An official statement was made by Col. Spencer, secretary of the Ulster Cabinet. It says:

"The discussion between Michael Collins and Sir James Craig was almost entirely confined to the subject of the boundary commission.

"Owing to the fact of Mr. Collins's stand on the boundary commission and the Irish delegation's agreement with Prime Minister Lloyd George that large territories were involved in the commission, and not merely the boundary line, as Sir James Craig was given to understand privately by several British ministers and from statements by Mr. Lloyd George, in the House of Commons, no further agreement was reached."

The photodiagram reconstructs the actual slaying, according to the police theory. Taylor was shot by a man, who lurked in the shadows between the door and the piano at the right, as he reentered the house from the curb.

FRIENDS EXPRESS SORROW.

From all quarters of the motion-picture world, from many of the biggest producers in the profession, came testimonials of William Desmond Taylor's worth as a friend. Two of his closest friends issued statements on the film director's murder. One was Jesse L. Lasky, first vice-president of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, and with whom Mr. Taylor was closely associated.

"I have lost a friend," said Mr. Lasky, "a man who won that place, not only for his own personal qualities, but also for the manner in which he discharged his professional duties. William D. Taylor's loyalty to the firm he worked for was proverbial. Never had he been late to any engagement; never had he balked at a task because it was too hard. And when a slump in the industry demanded personal sacrifice, William D. Taylor was the first to offer himself. A man of finer ideals I have never known.

"The Lasky studio plans to adequately recognize Mr. Taylor's funeral. The exact nature will be determined when the Motion Picture Directors' Association announces the date of burial.

"The Famous Players-Lasky Corporation proposes to enter actively into the plans for the detection of the murderer. Resources of time and money will be drawn upon to hasten the time when the murderer of our friend is brought to justice."

Charles Eyton, general manager of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, was one of Mr. Taylor's oldest and firmest friends.

"Through a cowardly assassin's bullet I have lost the best friend I have ever had. I have known Bill Taylor for nine years and we have worked side by side for the Mabel Normand Explains Call on Friend and Says He Helped Her Into Her Car When She Left.

BY GRACE KINGSLEY.

Mabel Normand, seen at her home at Seventh street and Vermont avenue yesterday, was much agitated over the murder of her old friend, William D. Taylor. She gave a clear and frank statement of all her movements Wednesday afternoon and evening. J. A. Waldron, the Mack Sennett studio manager, was with her all day, answering phone calls and receiving messages, Miss Normand stated.

Continuing, she stated that she spent the afternoon downtown, attending principally to income tax matters and to her banking. She then called her home from the bank at Sixth and Main streets and asked if there were any messages for her. Her maid said: "Mr. Taylor has been trying to get you all the afternoon, and we told him that you were out. We told him you were downtown."

"He had been trying to get some books for me that I wanted," said Miss Normand. "We always discussed books a great deal. He told the maid he had got one of the books at Parker's and was sending it by his chauffeur. He said that he had obtained the other book I wanted at Robinson's, and left word with the maid for me to stop at his house and get it.

"I went and bought 5 cents' worth of peanuts, but the man didn't have any change; so I went to the drug store in the Pacific Electric Building and got the change. I bought a lot of magazines and papers, among others a Police Gazette. I ate the peanuts on the way, and we drove out to Mr. Taylor's, and when I got out I told my chauffeur to clean the car. Then I went up on the steps. I heard Mr. Taylor talking to somebody over the phone, underneath the stairs, and I hesitated about going in until he had finished. Then I entered. He had been talking to Mrs. Marjorie Berger, who has charge of the income tax business for many of the picture folk, including myself.

"He came in and said, 'Gee, I am glad to see you.' I said, 'I just came up for the book.'

"I arrived at his house about five minutes after 7. We talked about books. I looked around the drawing-room, and told him I thought he had changed his house furnishings. He said, 'You haven't been here for so long you forget. I hadn't been to his house before in two months. He said, 'The Victrola is the only thing new.'

"His servant, Henry, had been arrested for some sort of nuisance, and he was saying that perhaps he would have to go down to court tomorrow (that's today) to see about it. Henry came in, and I said to Mr. Taylor, 'Have you had your dinner?' He said, 'Yes, have you had yours?' I said, 'No, but I am tired, and I'm going home now. I have a studio call for 7 o'clock tomorrow morning.' I've been going to bed very early every night—haven't been anywhere since I began work on my present picture.

"We were talking about the cameramen's ball next Saturday night, and he said he had a box, and I said I had one. He asked me whom he was going to take, and wanted to know whom I was going to take.

"Henry went out and talked to my chauffeur as my chauffeur cleaned up the car. Henry was telling my chauffeur what a nice man Taylor was to work for.

STOOD OUTSIDE DOOR.

"Finally Mr. Taylor said 'Well, if you're tired why don't you go home and rest and I will call you up this evening.' I asked Mr. Taylor who lived in the different bungalows in the court, and he told me. We stood outside two or three notice of machines parked there "because the noise kept them awake," and they do not recall having seen any cars parked on Maryland street that night. This lends confirmation to the theory that the killer boarded a West First-street car.

Mrs. J. H. Tandy and her three sons reside directly across from Mr. Taylor's apartment, at 360 South Alvarado street. The occupants of the house were awake until after 9:30 p.m., and observed no automobile nor saw anyone loitering in the vicinity.

Persons residing at 401 Westlake avenue, the house adjacent from Mr. Taylor's apartments, give similar information.

Several hours were devoted yesterday to questioning Mabel Normand, well-known motion-picture actress and asserted fiancee of Mr. Taylor. Miss Normand is the last person thus far found who saw him alive. Her chauffeur, William Davis, also was questioned.

Their stories were that Miss Normand left the Taylor apartments, 404-B South Alvarado street, at 7:45 p.m. Wednesday. Mr. Taylor accompanied her to the automobile.

Immediately after checking up on this phase of the case the police started a search for the man Mrs. MacLean saw leaving the apartments between 7:45 and 7:50 p.m. soon after the report of a pistol shot was heard.

While a search was under way for this man, the police also were making energetic efforts to find E. F. Sands, former secretary of Mr. Taylor, who was accused several months ago of forgery by the latter. Since a warrant was issued for the arrest of Sands on the asserted forgeries no trace of his whereabouts has been found.

TO CAPTURE SLAYER.

The tremendous resources of the Famous Players-Lasky organization were offered the police yesterday by Jesse L. Lasky, first vice-president of the company, for the capture of the assassin of the film director. Unlimited supply of money, time and effort was promised to the detectives, and every possible assistance will be given them by Mr. Taylor's friends and former associates, the officers are told.

News of the murder stirred the motion-picture colony. Several intimate friends rushed to the police station to question the servants, among them being Mary Miles Minter, who became almost hysterical.

NOTHING TAKEN.

The revenge and jealousy motive as a theory was strengthened by the fact that none of the valuables in the apartments or in Mr. Taylor's clothing was disturbed. About $78 in money was in his pocketbook, a two-carat diamond ring was not taken, and his platinum watch also was left.

Detective Sergeants Herman Cline, Murphy, Cato, Cahill, Zeigler and Wallace, checked many clews. Among one of the leads furnished the police was a report that a man, eager to see Mr. Taylor, had inquired two days before at the Morosco Theater for his residence address, and insisted on getting it at once. The actions of this man aroused suspicion.

An autopsy performed at the Ivy Overholtzer undertaking establishment showed that Mr. Taylor had been shot from the back with a .38-caliber revolver. Only one bullet was found. It entered on the left side toward the back about six inches under the arm pit. The course of the bullet indicated it had gone upwards and it was extracted in the fleshy part of the neck on the right side just below the ear. Both lobes of the left lung had been punctured.

SAW MAN THERE.

The nearest approach to an eyewitness account of the crime was furnished by Mrs. MacLean. About 7:45 p.m. she heard the shot and when she looked out the window she saw a man she described as roughly dressed, wearing a plaid cap, open the door of the Taylor apartment. The porch light was turned on, as were the lights in the rest of the house, she stated.

This man paused as he came out of the door, looked around as if talking to some one inside and then left. He walked to an alley that leads to Maryland street, passing between Mr. Taylor's house and that of Mrs. MacLean.

The murderer, it is believed, lurked in the shadows back of the Taylor flat and in the narrow alley between it and the garage, waiting for his opportunity.

This theory of the police was reinforced last night by the discovery of six cigarette stubs in the immediate vicinity of the back door of the Taylor flat and in the alley facing the east windows of the murdered man's apartment. A maid at the MacLean home also said she heard some one lurking in the alley about 7:15 p.m. and heard the fatal shot about thirty minutes later.

The man who smoked the cigarettes was very nervous. The half-smoked cigarettes show that. They were scattered around. One was barely touched. Evidently this one was the last one smoked by the man while waiting. It was found in the alley, leading the detectives to believe that the man threw it away almost immediately after lighting it, and that he watched Mr. Taylor leave the house.

LAY IN WAIT.

The back door of the Taylor flat opens on the sidewalk of the south side of Maryland street, just east of Alvarado. Between the east side of the structure where the Taylor flat is located and the garage used by occupants of the flats in the court is a narrow, cement-paved alley. This alley, too, leads into Maryland street. A large tree, affording ample protection from the light on Alvarado street at night, blocks the view of the house. It is in the shadow of this tree, the officers believe, that the murderer lay in wait, smoking his cigarettes. More than half a dozen of matches were found on the lawn between the curb of Maryland street and the back window of the Taylor flat.

The opportunity for him to enter the house came, the police believe, when Mr. Taylor escorted Miss Normand to her automobile. During the few minutes required for this, the murderer slipped into the open door and waited behind it for the return of Mr. Taylor, the officers think.

Mrs. MacLean, who knows Sands, stated the man who left the Taylor apartment did not look familiar to her. The investigators, however, have not relaxed their efforts to find Sands in order to question him in the hope he may be able to aid them in solving the mystery.

Mr. Taylor left the Famous Players-Lasky studio, where he was a director, at 4:30 p.m., Wednesday, according to Barrett Kelsling, publicity man.

From the story related by Henry Peavey, negro houseman, who found the body, Mr. Taylor came immediately home, ate dinner and was visited by Miss Normand.

Los Angeles and New York film colonies were deeply affected by the news of the murder. Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle, awaiting the verdict in his manslaughter trial in San Francisco, said:

"Mr. Taylor's death comes as a great shock to me. We were good friends and never a whisper of scandal arose about him. He was one of the finest fellows on the lot."

Detective Sergts. Cline, Wynn and Murphy questioned several friends of Mr. Taylor late last night in an effort to obtain any information that may aid in solving the mystery.

Detective Sergeants Cato and Cahill, both personal friends of Mr. Taylor, left the police station late last night to question a former sweetheart of Mr. Taylor. They declined to divulge her name.

Mary Miles Minter, who was directed in several plays by Mr. Taylor and who holds high regard for him, declared yesterday she could think of no enemies or persons who would have a motive in killing him.

She denied reports she had ever been engaged to marry him, saying she was extremely sorry she never had been, because she admired him greatly as a man.

Man Who Found Body is Sought in Police Court.

While the police were endeavoring to solve the mystery of who murdered William D. Taylor, motion-picture director, his colored houseman, Henry Peavey, who discovered the body yesterday morning, was slated to appear in Police Court to answer a charge of vagrancy.

The case, slated for Judge Chambers's court, was called, but on account of Peavey's absence was put over, the date to be set later. Peavey's arrest followed asserted acts of indecency several days ago in Westlake Park.

DRINKS THE EVIDENCE.

Portions of Gin Concoction Found in Director's Home.

Among the mute evidences of what had taken place in the home of William D. Taylor Wednesday night, when he was shot, was an expensive silver and cut-glass drinking service. On it were a decanter, a shaker used in mixing drinks, and two large glasses with portions of a drink left in them. Cigarette stubs littered the tray. In the glasses was orange pulp, apparently left from an orange and gin concoction. This service was found on the dining-room table. The body was in an adjoining room.

SERVANT FINDS BODY ON FLOOR.

Steel Bullet Overlooked in First Examination

Mabel Normand Says She Left Early in Evening.

Overturned Chair is Only Evidence of Struggle.

The discovery of the murder of William Desmond Taylor was made about 7:30 a.m. yesterday when Henry Peavey, colored house man employed by Taylor, came to work. Peavey says he opened the front door and was first attracted by the body lying on the floor of the living-room, when he saw Mr. Taylor's feet. The body was feet toward the door and over the legs was a chair that apparently had been overturned.

Peavey declares he called to his employer and then decided he was dead.

"I ran from the house," Peavey said, "and the folks around here say I made a commotion. The neighbors came running and later they took the body away."

Peavey last saw Mr. Taylor alive Wednesday night about 7:30 o'clock, he said. He had prepared dinner for him and just as he was serving dessert, Mabel Normand, well-known film actress and said by friends to have been his fiancee, came to see Mr. Taylor.

This visit began about 7 o'clock, Peavey stated. When he left the home at 7:30 p.m., Miss Normand was still there.

FIRST REPORT.

A physician was called and at first is was believed the death was of natural causes, probably brought about by a hemorrhage. It was not until a considerable time after the remains were taken to the Ivy Overholtzer undertaking establishment that discovery was made that Mr. Taylor had been shot.

The wound was in the back, entering at the left side in a line under the heart. A steel jacketed bullet apparently had been used and the wound had practically closed up, thus making detection at first difficult.

Peavey said he had been in the employ of Mr. Taylor for about six months. Mr. Taylor had lived in the apartments at the Alvarado courts about two years.

The scene left in the magnificently appointed apartment occupied by Mr. Taylor showed little the signs of a struggle. The overturned chair was the only indication of a struggle or of the haste of the assailant to escape.

The door, which has a night latch, was locked from the outside, but the latch was set so that no key was necessary to accomplish this.

A writing desk was situated near the door, against the front wall of the room. On this desk were many papers indicating that Mr. Taylor had been preparing his income tax return for this year and adjusting other business.

Some scenarios also were scattered about. On top of the desk was a picture of Mable Normand. In a place of honor on the top of the upright piano was a photograph of Miss Normand. Three, in all, were conspicuously displayed.

FILM STARS' PHOTOS.

Photographs of many persons known throughout the world as film stars also were displayed in the rooms of the apartment. About the border of the living-room and dining-room Mr. Taylor had placed a solid border of autographed and framed photographs.

Among them were pictures of Mary Pickford, whom he had directed in three pictures before enlisting in the World War. On this picture was written, "To my nice director, William Taylor, the most patient man that I know, with sincere friendship, Mary Pickford."

In a prominent place was Mary Miles Minter's photograph. This bore the following expression of admiration: "For William Desmond Taylor. Artist, gentleman, man! Sincere good wishes, Mary Miles Minter. 1920."

Soon after the news of the murder had spread, Mary Miles Minter and her mother rushed to the house to see if they could be of any aid. Miss Minter declared that Mabel Normand had been engaged for about six months to Mr. Taylor. The grief of Miss Minter was shown by the tears which she shed while viewing the scene where her friend had been shot.

FRIEND VISITS APARTMENTS.

Later in the morning Frank O'Connor, formerly an assistant director under Mr. Taylor and for many years a close friend, visited the apartments. He sounded high praise for Mr. Taylor.

Charles Eyton, general manager of the Lasky studio, was present when the undertaker removed the valuables from the person of Mr. Taylor.

L. P. Waterman, deputy public administrator, was called and assumed charge of the property.

Detective Sergeants Zeigler and Wallis, assigned to the case when the first report of the death was made to the police, interviewed Miss Normand and obtained a statement from her, they reported, that she had left the apartment some time around 8 o'clock. She was not sure of the time, but placed it at approximately 7:45 p.m.

In the court where Mr. Taylor lived there are sixteen apartments. It is composed of eight two-story white stucco buildings. E. C. Jessurun, proprietor of the court, responded to the alarm raised by the negro houseman.

HANDLED STARS OF SCREEN.

Slain Man Directed Many of Most Celebrated Actors and Actresses in Their Cinema Careers.

William Desmond Taylor nationally-known motion-picture director employed under a two-year contract with Paramount of the Lasky studio, was 45 years old. For three consecutive terms he had been president of the Motion Picture Directors' Association and his last term was just at a close when he was murdered in his apartment on South Alvarado street, Wednesday night.

He was born in Ireland and when 16 years old he ran away from home to enter stage life in London. His father, who was a wealthy landowner, brought him back home and finally gave him a half interest in a large ranch near Harper, Kan. He endeavored to dissuade his son in this manner from entering theatricals.

Farm life however, held few charms for Mr. Taylor and he eventually left Kansas to engage in his chosen profession. His rise in the motion-picture world was rapid.

Before the World War he directed Mary Pickford in three plays, "Captain Kidd, Jr.," "How Could You, Jean" and "Joanhan Enlists." Following this last named production, Mr. Taylor felt the call of his country in the war and enlisted among the first when the Canadian army recruiting offices were opened here.

He became a captain in the British army and held that title in reserve when he died. He was among the first 100,000 that sailed overseas from Quebec.

Upon returning to the United States after the armistice, Mr. Taylor was engaged as a director by Artcraft Realart and last by Paramount. He came back here more than two years ago.

Among the film celebrities he has recently directed is Betty Compson. During the last two weeks he has been busily engaged in attempting to select a story to film for her as the lead.

He also was expecting according to Ted Taylor, publicity man for him, to start next Monday directing a play in which Agnes Ayres was to play the lead.

He took active interest in the affairs of the Los Angeles Athletic Club of which he was a member.

DIRECTED MANY STARS.

During his motion-picture career he directed many of the most celebrated screen stars in the profession. The list includes Mary Pickford, Mary Miles Minter, Betty Compson, Constance Talmadge, George Beban, Dustin Farnum, Wallace Reid, Florence Rockwell, Myrtle Stedman, Edna Goodrich, Vivian Martin, Kathlyn Williams, Jack Pickford, Louise Huff, House Peters and Elsie Ferguson. He had been planning to begin the production of a motion picture, "The Ordeal," starring Agnes Ayres, next Monday, at the Lasky studios. He was also attempting to select a story in which he later planned to star Betty Compson.

Mr. Taylor was born in 1877 at Mallows, County Cork, Ireland. His mother was Irish and his father was a colonel in the British army. The father had hoped that his son would enter the army, and sent him to Clifton College in England for preparatory work in engineering. Before his military examination, he was disqualified from service because of eye trouble. He then went to France and Germany for further study of engineering.

At the age of 18 he entered the theatrical profession by taking a small part in Charles Hawtrey's company, "The Private Secretary," at Manchester, Eng. His father, desirous of keeping him off the stage, bribed him to forsake a theatrical career by giving him a half interest in a farm at Harper, Kan., where he worked for two years.

BEGINS ACTING AGAIN.

He again returned to the stage in a juvenile role with Fanny Davenport's plays, "La Tosca," "Gismonda," "Fedora," "Cleopatra" and "Joan of Arc." Miss Davenport died and there came the Klondike rush. Taylor hit the long trail, arrived in Alaska after a nine months' trip, made a small fortune in gold mining and lost it later by speculating in other gold mines.

After this failure, he returned to acting, and played a juvenile role with Sol Smith Russel in "The Poor Relation." He played a season with a stock company at Castle Square, Boston, then played a leading role in "Mme. Sans Gene." He filled further stock engagements in New York, Chicago and Seattle.

ROUGHS IT IN ALASKA.

Quest for virgin gold again lured him to Alaska, where he spent two years "roughing it." Upon his return he joined Harry Corson Clarke's company for a tour to the Hawaiian Islands. Again he headed toward the Klondike, and stopped on the way to build a Grand Trunk terminus at Prince Rupert, B. C., And a paper mill at Swanson Bay, B. C.

In all of his ramblings, Mr. Taylor went alone. For an entire winter at one time he was snowed in alone in Alaska. On one of his visits there an insane miner attempted to kill him. It was during this last trip that the new art of motion pictures was beginning to establish itself. Ten years ago, upon his return from his last trip to Alaska, he played his first motion-picture role for the old Kay Bee Company in a film called "The Iconoclast." He remained with Thomas H. Ince for nine months and then joined the Vitagraph company, starring in "Capt. Alvarez."

He directed his first picture for the Balboa company. Later he directed the serial "Diamond from the Sky," for the American Film Company. In 1914 he signed a contract to become a director for Famous Players-Lasky. With the exception of two years, during which he served in the war, he had remained with this company.

ENLISTS AS PRIVATE.

Mr. Taylor, at the outbreak of the war, enlisted in the Canadian army when the recruiting offices were first opened in Los Angeles and was one of the first 100,000 that sailed overseas from Quebec. He enlisted as a private and rose to the rank of a captain, commanding a truck train running from Dunkirk to the British front.

He took an active interest in the affairs of the Los Angeles Athletic Club, of which he was a member.

From friends it was learned that he had twice married and on both occasions is understood to have been divorced. A young daughter, said to be Ethel Daisy Taylor, is attending a school in New York, it was declared.

TAYLOR WAS VICTIM OF ROBBERIES.

Twice in Past Year Cinema Director Reported Loss Money and Clothing.

Twice within the last year, William D. Taylor, motion-picture director shot to death in his apartment Wednesday night, was the victim of robberies. For the first a charge of forgery has been made oue for the apprehension of E. F. Sands, former secretary and valet employed by Mr. Taylor.

Forgeries amounting to several thousands of dollars and robbery, involving clothing and valuables, were charged against Sands in a report by Mr. Taylor to the police.

When Mr. Taylor returned from a trip abroad last summer he declared he found his former secretary had forged many checks on his bank account, had charged many bills for expensive lingerie and woman's clothing to him and had looted the apartment.

Attempts to arrest Sands have failed through a period of several months. Sands is said to have been employed for about a year by Mr. Taylor and when the latter went to Europe he intrusted his checkbook with him, signing several checks with which to pay bills soon to fall due.

In addition to these checks, Sands is said to have forged several others.

Following this episode, Mr. Taylor again was the victim of a robbery last December. In a report to the police he stated on the night of December 4 some one had forced an entrance to his apartment and stole jewelry worth $1000. A large quantity of specially made cigarettes also was taken. A week later a stub from one of these cigarettes was found on his front doorstep and Mr. Taylor believed the robber had returned and perhaps had been frightened away.

Later he got a letter, signed "Alias Jimmy Valentine" in which the writer inclosed pawn tickets for the jewelry. Mr. Taylor recovered his jewelry by these tickets, explaining to the police that the handwriting of the letter from Stockton was similar to that of Sands'

The text of the letter received by Mr. Taylor follows:

"So sorry to inconvenience you even temporarily. Also observe the lesson of the forced sale of assets. A merry Xmas and a Happy New York.

[Signed] "ALIAS JIMMY V."

Inclosed in the letter were two pawn tickets for several suits of Mr. Taylor's clothes, silver plate, jewelry and household goods.

This letter was received the day before Christmas.

HOUSEMAN TELLS OF DISCOVERY.

Incidents Leading Up to Tragedy Related by Man Who Lauds Dead Master.

Henry Peavey had been employed about six months by Mr. Taylor as houseman and valet. He never slept in the house, leaving after the dinner, if his master ate at home and returning the next morning.

"I had turned back the covers on Mr. Taylor's bed, put some ice water on the table and finished the supper things," Peavey related. "The income tax lady called on the telephone, and then Miss Normand arrived in her automobile. They sat in rocking chairs and talked about some book. Mr. Taylor was always reading books. He sometimes told me he had read until 2 or 3 o'clock in the morning. Once when he was making a picture he showed me a pile of books, and said, 'I've got to read all these.'

"Well, I motioned to Mr. Taylor and he said, 'You may go now, Henry.' That was about 7:30 o'clock. On the way to work in the morning I stopped at a drug store and got a bottle of milk of magnesia. I often got that for Mr. Taylor. I'd just buy it with my own money and every once in a while tell him how much I had spent. He was a good man. He never asked me what I had spent money for; just how much I had spent to keep him comfortable. As soon as I opened the door I saw his feet. I said, 'Mr. Taylor, Mr. Taylor.' Then I peeped in and saw his face, and I knew something had happened. I started to yell and all the people in the court came out. I ran to the landlord. No, sir, I didn't go into the house. No, sir.

"Mr. Taylor had few friends call. I can only remember his having people for dinner two or three times since I have been with him. At night he would stay home and read. He went out little and drank very little. He was a very good man."

MOTHER SAVES BABES FROM BURNING HOUSE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

The children were on the second floor when the flames broke out, and Mrs. Sproul hurried them to safety. Damage to the amount of $5000 was caused.

PHONE USED TO BADGER TAYLOR

Mysterious Calls at Night Preceded His Murder.

Strange Episodes Recalled by Scenario Writer.

Attempts to Break Into His House Also Related.

Mysterious telephone calls in the dark hours of the night foreshadowed the murder of William D. Taylor.

On several occasions Mr. Taylor heard someone attempting to break into the house and one night he went downstairs from his bedroom, gun in hand, but the intruder fled when he heard Mr. Taylor coming.

This important information was given last night by Julia Crawford Ivers, for eight years scenario writer for the slain director and a close associate of his in the film industry.

"A few weeks before Christmas Mr. Taylor told us at the studio that he was considerably annoyed and mystified by telephone calls late at night. He said he would answer the phone only to find there was no one at the other end of the wire when he responded," Mrs. Ivers said.

"These calls kept on coming at regular intervals, always with the same results. Mr. Taylor said he had not the slightest idea who was calling him, or what the purpose was."

Harry Fellows, Mr. Taylor's assistant, confirmed the story. Mr. Taylor told him of these phone calls, he said.

"I know of no one who could have harbored any animosity toward Mr. Taylor," Mrs. Ivers continued. "Everyone associated with him respected and loved him. He was the essence of gentleness and a perfect gentleman."

Mrs. Ivers then told of the difficulty Mr. Taylor said he had with his valet-secretary, Sands.

"There never was a more devoted man serving another than this man Sands during the first year and a half of his service for Mr. Taylor. Mr. Taylor trusted him with everything. Then he went to Europe and left Sands in charge of the house. Following the two robberies in his home, Mr. Taylor became convinced that Sands was the man, and warrant for his arrest was issued.

"Sands read everything he could find. He used to study into the late hours of the night, and when Mr. Taylor told me of the various actions attributed to Sands, we all decided the man must have become deranged if he was the one who committed the forgeries."

entire period without an argument or unfriendly word. In all the nine years I have yet to find a man, woman or child who was not his friend.

"He never blazoned his deeds from the housetops, but his charities were many and he had a heart of gold. I know of no man who had more friends. Bill Taylor and his good qualities were a household word in the profession. The thousands of friends who are mourning with me are one in the statement that Bill Taylor was a 100 per cent real man."

Mr. Eyton was the first outside person to reach the dead man's home yesterday morning. He aided the police authorities in uncovering the facts of the murder and in making an inventory of his effects.

MABEL NORMAND TELLS OF VISIT.

minutes talking. He had left his door open. He put me in the car, and as he saw the peanut shells, and the pile of books, he laughed and said: 'Here you are with Nietzsche under one arm and Freud under the other and the Police Gazette close by. You certainly are going in for heavy reading this winter.' I said 'Yes, I wish I could get hold of Joe Miller's Joke Book; that would complete the set.' Then he said 'Good-night, I will call you up in about an hour.'

"I went home, had my dinner at once and was in bed and asleep by 8 o'clock. I didn't have to go to the studio this morning because there was something the matter with the set.

"Edna Purviance called me up this morning and said 'Have you heard the terrible news? William D. Taylor's valet is running up and down the court screaming he is dead. They say he died of heart failure.' Afterward I learned that he had been murdered.

MYSTERIOUS CALLS.

"I hear that Mr. Taylor told Mrs. Berger he wished that he had called off the warrant he had against Sands. I understand that he felt apprehensive of harm from him. There were, I hear, all sorts of mysterious telephone calls and all that. Sands was one of those servile human beings, apparently all devotion to Mr. Taylor."

Miss Normand says that Edward Knoblock had Mr. Taylor's house while Mr. Taylor was in Europe last summer, and that Mr. Taylor had Mr. Knoblock's London house. Sands apparently stayed right along in Mr. Taylor's service in Los Angeles, and also assisted Mr. Knoblock. Two or three days before Mr. Taylor was to arrive from London, Sands told Mr. Knoblock that he thought he would take two or three days' leave of absence, but would be back soon. He never showed up again.

When Mr. Taylor arrived from London, he said he found that Sands had stolen everything, had forged his name to checks and had gone to Hamburger's and bought lingerie. He had a sweetheart here, Miss Normand doesn't know who she was.

A few weeks ago Mr. Taylor's house was robbed again. Then from Stockton he kept getting anonymous letters, and he received a pawnbroker's ticket, showing that things had been pawned in the name of a Mrs. Tennant, who is Mr. Taylor's sister-in-law. The way Mr. Taylor knew it was really Sands was because he had always spelled Mrs. Tennant's name wrong, and the wrong spelling was on the ticket.

"Mr. Taylor knew that Sands wasn't out of California by this fact," said Miss Normand.

Mrs. Marjorie Burger said that Mr. Taylor had told her often that he had been getting mysterious phone calls. He talked so funny saying that he had wished sometimes that he had dropped prosecution. Mrs. Burger said: "Why don't you get somebody to watch?" But he said, "Oh, no."

As for Mabel Normand's reported engagement to Mr. Taylor; she said, "We have always been great friends. We love to talk over books and that sort of thing. He's the sort of man who can come to the house, sit and read while I play the piano, and talk informally over our work and over our books."

Miss Normand admitted that Mr. Taylor had asked her to marry him, but that phase of the friendship had been over for some time. They were just good pals, she said.

Miss Normand and Mr. Taylor were seen out together a great deal at one time; but of late have hardly been seen such, she said.

Directors Ask Reward Offer for Murder

The Taylor murder caused a special meeting of the Motion-Picture Directors' Association last night at the Markham Building, Hollywood, at which the trustees were asked to offer a substantial reward for the arrest and conviction of the murderer. The next meeting of the trustees will be on Thursday.

The resolutions adopted at the meeting last night also lamented the loss of Mr. Taylor to the cinema industry. The association itself on record as believing William Desmond Taylor was a man whom every man could trust, that he was gentle, kind and considerate in his work and always thoughtful of his subordinates, that he was ever ready to help a brother director with advice or more substantial help; that his work and his life were clean and worthy and that he stood for the highest, both as man and director, that he was a cultured, refined gentleman whom it was a pleasure and an honor to know, and that all who knew him will remember him with a personal affection which it is given few men to win.

FIRST MURDER THEORY ADVANCED BY POLICE

The first theory of the murder of William D. Taylor, motion-picture director, evolved by the detectives assigned to the case, was as follows:

Mr. Taylor, just finishing dinner, was visited by Mabel Normand. They discussed a scenario and several other matters relative to motion pictures. Some time shortly after 7 p.m. Henry Peavey, negro houseman employed by Taylor, left the apartments for the night, leaving Mr. Taylor and Miss Normand.

About 7:45 p.m. Miss Normand left the apartment, according to her statement. She was accompanied to her automobile at the curbing by Mr. Taylor. Her chauffeur was waiting for her and drove her home, which she reached about 8 o'clock.

It was during this absence from the house by Mr. Taylor that the slayer entered the apartment through the door that had been left open, the theory goes. When Mr. Taylor entered the door on his return he was immediately attacked, being shot from the back, probably as he closed the door.

The assailant left immediately. The shot was heard about 7:45 p.m., according to the report given by Mrs. Douglas MacLean, wife of Douglas MacLean, motion-picture actor. Her maid also heard the report.

Mrs. MacLean went to the front of her apartment and saw a man leaving by the front door of Mr. Taylor's home. He closed the door and looked around back of him. Then he walked between the Taylor house and the one adjoining on the west, going north by the alley entrance to Maryland street.

The description of this man given to the officers, however, was an American, medium height but heavily built, and wore a plaid cap.

NEWBERRY CASE CAUSES CLASH.

Spencer Comes to Defense of Michigan Senator.

Reed Misstates Facts, Claim of Colleague.

Quotes Roosevelt Letter on Henry Ford.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—Issues involved in the Newberry case were echoed in the Senate today as the two Senators from Missouri—Mr. Spencer, leader of the Republicans in the fight which declared Senator Newberry entitled to his seat, and Mr. Reed, who bitterly attacked the Michigan Senator several days ago—met in debate.

Senator Spencer, speaking in reply to his colleague's recent address, declared with reference to that speech that "villification is not evidence and vituperation cannot be substituted for facts in the senate." He accused his colleague of "glaring mis-statement of facts whenever he left for the moment the realm of vituperative fancy," and in support of the vote to declare Mr. Newberry entitled to his seat over the protest of his Democratic opponent, Henry Ford, quoted a letter written by the late Theodore Roosevelt, in October, 1918, as saying the Detroit manufacturer "would be signally out of place in the American Senate so long as that body is dominated by men who zealously believe in American ideas and faithfully endeavor to serve the American people."

REED MAKES REPLY.

Senator Reed, in reply, said in the controversy he intended to keep close to "the written confession by the majority (Republican party)" in the resolution which the Senate adopted declaring Senato Newberry entitled to the seat, but condemning excessive campaign expenditures.

No man could vote for the resolution and in the same breath seek to justify the beneficiary who was "condemned" by the resolution, Senator Reed stated, unless he was a "man of nerve that would do credit to a first-class orthodox devil."

SEES ONLY ONE COURSE.

Michigan had not "ratified" or "confirmed the crime," he continued, analyzing the vote to show Senator Newberry received a majority of 4000, whereas the other candidates on the ticket received majorities of 150,000.

"Such an election is not a ratification, but a condemnation," he asserted. "If the election was considered a ratification, then the Senate has adopted a resolution which was an act of infamy, because you condemn that which you say had been through the fire of purification."

Senator Reed said there was only one course open for Senator Newberry and that was to refuse to accept the result.

"A man might just as well say that he was the receiver of stolen goods," he continued, "but he did not know they were stolen when he accepted them, but that, although they were stolen, he would keep them."

can notice that his fingers shake when he rolls his brown paper cigarettes, and that he spills the tobacco. One can see him, too, pacing up and down the corridor outside the courtroom, at intervals.

The jurors obtained a transcript of the evidence today.

At 9:30 p.m. the jury was locked up for the night on account of a slight attack of illness suffered by Juror Lee Dolson. The jury has been out nearly thirty hours. They will return to court at 9 a.m. tomorrow.

Milton T. Cohen, Los Angeles, a member of the defense counsel staff, said that the defense would insist on a third trial in the event of a disagreement. The District Attorney would make no comment.

ENDURANCE CONTEST.

The jury deliberation was proving to be somewhat of an endurance contest for the defendant and spectators, but Arbuckle appeared jovial and carefree throughout the day. Approximately half of the spectators who had appeared with the jury when it first returned from its hotel today, stayed throughout the day. The others disappeared, confident that no verdict would be returned until tonight at least.

GETS TRANSCRIPT.

The jury was heard from but once during the morning and afternoon. This was when it asked for complete transcript of the trial on the ground that the jurors wished to refresh their recollection on certain points. The request was complied with without the appearance of the jury in court. It indicated a long session, according to the court officers and counsel familiar with such requests.

Why Are Some Women Popular

Some beloved and successful, while others drag out a negative existence, of no use to themselves or anyone else? Except in a few cases the answer is to be found in a state of freedom from the trouble known as "female." The well woman radiates cheerfulness and serenity, while the ailing one is irritable because of her lack of these qualities. It is not necessary, however, to harbor aches and pains, or the "blues" that make one a burden to society. The use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has brought relief to many women, and given them a new lease on life.—[Advertisement.

Blackheads Go Quick By This Simple Method

Blackheads—big ones or little ones—coarse or hard cases—on any part of the face go quick by a simple method you can do yourselves them. To do this get two ounces of calcinite powder from any druggist—sprinkle a little on a wet sponge—rub over the blackheads for a few seconds—and then wash off. You'll wonder where the blackheads have gone. The calcinite and the hot water have just softened them. Pinching and squeezing only open the pores of the skin and leave them open and unsightly, unless the blackheads are removed, but they will not come out. The simple application of calcinite and water dissolves them right out, leaving the skin soft and the pores in their natural condition. You can get calcinite powder at any drug store and if you are troubled with these unsightly blackheads you should certainly try this method.—[Advertisement.

SHIP SUBSIDIES MAY BE URGED.

Advocates Say It's the Only Thing for Trade.

Officials' Recommendations Given Harding.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—President Harding has received shipping officials' recommendation for legislation to aid the American merchant marine, along with the recommendation of Walter F. Brown, layman chairman of a joint Congressional committee as to the best means to reorganize government departments with a view to efficiency and economy.

MUST HAVE SUBSIDY.

Congress is to soon receive the shipping report and with it the President's approval or disapproval of the recommendations. It is not known definitely, but rumor has it that the President will inform Congress that the only way to put the American merchant marine into condition to sail the smooth sea of prosperity in to give it a subsidy. It is believed that shipping officials' reports recommend a subsidy.

It is possible that the President will address Congress in person on the subject of the merchant marine.

If Congress votes a subsidy a struggle of years will have been brought to an end, although how long the end may last nobody knows. Several assert that even when subsidized by the government American ships cannot make money on the high seas.

PROFIT UNDETERMINED.

If there shall be a subsidy, or, as its advocates prefer to call it, a subvention, for our ships it must be a liberal one in order that it may meet the great sums that it costs to run American ships. Foreign vessels get along comfortably with their crews and their maintenance on comparatively small sums. Unquestionably a subsidy will set American ships sailing, but whether the end will be profit or not remains to be seen.

During late years several members of Congress and students of general trade and economic subjects have come to the belief that a ship subsidy is the only means possible by which American ships can be restored to the high seas and kept there.

Congress, it is said, dislikes the word subsidy, and it is predicted that a subsidy will have a somewhat rocky time in the Senate but the chances seem to be in its favor.

POSTPONE ROAD CEREMONY.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ANCHORAGE (Alaska) Feb. 1. (Delayed in Transmission.) Although ends of steel on the Alaska government railway will be brought together by the completion of the Riley Creek bridge February 10, according to estimates of engineers, the ceremony of driving the "golden spike," which had been originally planned for that time, will be deferred until some time during the proposed Alaska trip of President Harding and Secretary Fall next summer, it was announced today.

A scarcity of rolling stock will make it impossible to run at the present time the excursion from all towns along the road originally planned.

SECRET MEETING TO NAME POPE.

sued by Prince Chigi, marshal of the conclave. To the insistence of those furnished with passes of a different type, the sergeant gruffly retorted in Italian:

"Here I command; you cannot pass."

Two privates stood at attention ready to execute any order he might give.

As each of the cardinals who have been named as most likely to succeed Benedict XV passed there were whispers from the privileged few permitted to witness the final closing of the doors. Cardinals Maffi, Gasparri and La Fontaine were particularly noted, but when Cardinal Laurenti, who was last in the procession because the last to be created cardinal, appeared, there seemed to be special importance attached to his passage into Pauline Chapel, and later into the Sistine Chapel, and it was wondered whether the last should be first when the final choice was made.

FULL CEREMONIAL.

The conclave's isolation from the world was carried out with full ceremonial. Shortly after lunch the cardinals met in the Pauline Chapel, where "Veni, Creator" was sung. A procession then formed, led by Cardinal Vannutelli, dean of the Sacred College, passing through the Sala Regia to the Sistine Chapel, where the hymn was concluded. The cardinals entered the Sistine Chapel, and behind closed doors the oath was taken to maintain secrecy.

Prince Chigi, surrounded by subchiefs, in full dress uniform, with an escort of Swiss guards, had meanwhile left his official residence and proceeded to the majordomo's apartment in the Sistine Chapel, where he was admitted into the presence of the cardinals. There, with his staff, he took the oath to maintain secrecy and the absolute closing in of the conclave, under pain of excommunication.

OATH OF SECRECY.

The Camerlingo, Cardinal Gasparri, and Cardinal Bisleti, the first deacon, surrounded by an escort of Swiss guards and acolytes, marched to the consistorial hall, where attaches of the conclave, including the clerk of the household and those who are to be in attendance on the cardinals, assembled. Again the oath of secrecy was administered.

The masters of ceremony then proceeded throughout the sacred palaces, along the spacious halls and corridors and up the staircases into innumerable glass-inclosed loggias, crying out "Extra omnes," exhorting all strangers within the Vatican to withdraw outside the precincts in which the conclave is to be held.

Assured that all strangers had departed, they reported to Cardinal Gasparri that all was ready for his inspection. After an inspection, he repaired to the principal entrance leading into the courtyard of St. Damaso to assure that the gates were locked and all passage was rendered impossible.

GUARD MAINTAINED.

Prince Chigi, who now took up a position outside the entrance, locked the double doors from without, and them, with the captains of the guards at the top of the Pius IX staircase, went on watch for the duration of the conclave. The camerlengo communicated to the cardinals officially that they were locked in and the members of the Sacred College donned special conclave robes of violet ready to begin their deliberations.

The balloting is not expected to consume more than two days, and the next Pope, in the concensus of opinion in Vatican circles will come from among the moderate section of the Sacred College. Neither the "irreconcilables" nor the peace party which favors closer relations with the Italian government, is understood to have a chance to elect its candidate, the Moderates holding the balance of power.

CROWDS WAIT VOTE.

Crowds gathered today in St. Peter's Square to watch for the telltale smoke wreaths from the chimney of the Sistine Chapel, where the conclave sits. A ballot is taken on the morning and evening of each day the conclave is in session and these smoke puffs are the only indication to the watchers as to the progress made. When no election is effected, a little straw is burned with the voting papers, causing the smoke to assume a dark color. When a choice is finally made, the ballots burning alone emit a wisp of light smoke.

Until the election, the only communication between the approximately 250 persons in the Vatican and the outside, is through the rota or turning box at the entrance of the courtyard and such communications as are made in this way are not allowed to come to the attention of the cardinals. Penalty for violation of this secrecy is excommunication.

Monsignor Mahoney, spiritual director of the American College, has gone to Naples to meet Cardinal O'Connell, archbishop of Boston who is a passenger on the steamship President Wilson, which is not due till Saturday. As in 1914, when Pope Benedict was elected, Cardinal O'Connell may arrive too late to participate in the conclave.

SHORT MEET EXPECTED.

The confidence that the conclave would be of short duration is shared by Cardinal Gasparri, who, in making provisions yesterday for the sustenance of the cardinals, only provided menus for today, tomorrow and Saturday. Others who believed the election would be brief, pointed out that the cardinals generally were in favor of a continuation of the late Pontiff's policy and that there was therefore nothing else to do but choose a man who would follow that program.

As the conclave convened, it appeared that the "irreconcilables," headed by Merry del Val, and the "peace party" under Gasparri could each count on about twenty votes, the remaining twelve constituting the moderate section. The candidate of Merry del Val's group was said to be Cardinal Lafontaine, while either Cardinal Gasparri, Maffi or Ratti was said to be acceptable to those favoring a rapprochement with the Quirinal. Cardinal Laurenti was mentioned as a candidate who might be put forward by the moderates and fully satisfy both factions. Cardinal Marini has influence and will be unable to attend the conclave.

EXTRA PRECAUTIONS.

Major excommunication and instant dismissal from the Vatican household is the penalty which will be inflicted upon any person in attendance at the conclave if found guilty of imparting information concerning its deliberations or votes to persons outside before the result is officially announced. Cardinal Gasparri, the camerlengo, served notice to this effect today to all concerned.

The cardinal's instructions came after the reported discovery that one newspaper correspondent had practically completed arrangements to don a waiter's uniform and for a large monetary consideration had induced a designated waiter to allow the journalist to enter the conclave in his stead. The correspondent is said to have first opened negotiations with a barber, but this plan was abandoned, it was reported, because his unskilled tonsorial efforts might prove dangerous for the cardinals.

RECALL LAST ELECTION.

Cardinal Gasparri's arrangements to prevent a leakage of news are most severe. He is determined to avoid a recurrence of circumstances that attended the conclave of 1903, which elected Pius X, when the exact number of votes on each ballot was immediately known outside the Vatican. Austria's veto against Cardinal Rampolla, who was a candidate at that time, also was printed the same evening it occurred.

Cardinal Gasparri's orders conclude by stating that any party or parties found implicated in any attempt to illegally obtain news prematurely will be tried by Vatican justice before Monsignor Samper, major domo of the palace, who, under extraterritorial rights of the Vatican, is empowered to administer civil and criminal justice.

PRAYERS ARE HELD.

The celebration of mass in the Sistine Chapel, with prayers for the enlightenment of the cardinals in their choice of a new Pope, was the last public ceremony attended by the cardinals before entering the conclave.

Cardinal Vannutelli, dean of the Sacred College, officiated.

The attendance was restricted to the cardinals, the officers of the Swiss guards and the members of the Vatican household.

A photographer who contrived to gain entrance to the chapel was ejected, taken to the commissariat of the Vatican, and later expelled from the premises.

Peace was the keynote of the address delivered before the Sacred College by Mgr. Galli, director of the Vatican museum. In his exhortation for the election of a Pope, he said:

"The election of a Pontiff at the present moment has a particular significance. The world's upheaval, in which humanity finds itself, requires a Pope who will bring to the world true peace—peace which men by themselves cannot find, because they forget God, for through God alone can come true peace."

ROME CABINET QUITS.

Causes which combined to induce the majority in the chamber to withdraw its support from the Bonimo government were of both foreign and domestic origin. Many Deputies had expressed disappointment over failure of the Italian delegates to have Italy included in the four-power Pacific treaty and there was disappointment over Italy's being excluded from the Anglo-French treaty, which was drafted during the meeting of the Supreme Council at Cannes.

The decision to resign was reached at a meeting of the Cabinet last night and this decision was confirmed by another session today. Signor Bonimo intended to go to the Quirinal late today to present the resignation of his Cabinet to the King.

The situation in the chamber is so unsettled that it was difficult for anyone to predict whom the King would summon to form a new Cabinet. Former Premier Orlando, however, is supported by the Nationalists the Fascisti and the Deputies of the Right and Center generally and it was thought possible he might be called.

CHICAGO, Feb. 2.—Three robbers who had bored through the concrete wall and gained entrance to the Argo State Bank early today were frightened away by a scrub woman as they were about to blow open the safe containing thousands of dollars. The robbers obtained $1000 in silver which they took from a wooden case near the large safe.

CONCESSION IS MADE BY JAPS.

Agree to Give Up Group Five of Demands.

Arms Conference Expected to End Saturday.

invalidity, because the agreements made were entered into by China in the exercise of her full powers as a sovereign state.

CONCESSIONS ANNOUNCED.

Three concessions were announced by Baron Shidehara, one relating to group five and the other to the situation in Manchuria and Mongolia. Japan was ready, he said, to withdraw the reservation attached to the Chinese-Japanese treaty of 1915, under which she retained the right to press further in the future the unaccepted group five. One of the other concessions will open up South Manchuria and Eastern Inner Mongolia to the international consortium and the other asserts Japan has no intention of insisting that Japanese advisers be employed in these territories in political, financial, military or police matters.

In his statement to the Far Eastern Committee, Baron Shidehara declared the title "twenty-one demands" usually used to describe the Japan 1915 program was misleading. It should be pointed out, he said, that group of demands was eliminated from the final agreements reached while other of the Japanese proposals were modified materially.

DANGEROUS PRECEDENT.

"It is presumed that the Chinese delegation has no intention of calling in question the legal validity of the compacts of 1915, which were formally signed and sealed by the duly authorized representatives of the two governments and for which the exchange of ratifications was effected in conformity with established international usages. If it should once be recognized that rights solemnly granted by treaty may be revoked at any time on the ground that they were conceded against the spontaneous will of the grantor, an exceedingly dangerous precedent will be established with far-reaching consequences, upon the stability of the existing conditions in Asia, Europe and everywhere.

"Having in view, however, the changes which have taken place in the situation since the conclusion of the Sino-Japanese treaties and notes of 1915, the Japanese delegation is happy to avail itself of the present occasion to make the following declaration:

TELLS OF AGREEMENT.

"(1.) Japan is ready to throw open to the joint activity of the international financial consortium recently organized, the right of option granted exclusively in favor of Japanese capital, with regard first, to loans for the construction of railways in South Manchuria and Eastern Inner Mongolia, and, second, to loans to be secured on taxes in that region; it being understood that nothing in the present declaration shall be held to imply any modification or annulment of the understanding recorded in the officially announced notes and memoranda which were exchanged among the governments of the countries represented in the consortium and also among the national financial groups composing the consortium, in relation to the scope of the joint activity of that organization.

SURRENDERS RIGHTS.

"(2.) Japan has no intention of insisting on her preferential rights under the Sino-Japanese arrangements in question concerning the engagement by China of Japanese advisers or instructors on political, financial, military or police matters in South Manchuria.

"(3.) Japan is further ready to withdraw the reservations which she made in procuring the signature of the Sino-Japanese treaties and notes of 1915, to the effect that Group 5 of the original proposals of the Japanese government would be postponed for future negotiations."

MIDDLE WEST SEEKING HELP.

Illinois Senator Makes Plea for Aid.

St. Lawrence Waterway Real Need, is Claim.

Declares New York Barge Canal Too Small.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—Senator William B. McKinley of Illinois appealed to the Senate today to break bonds on "the landlocked Middle West" by construction of the St. Lawrence waterway recommended by the international joint commission.

The Illinois Senator declared that the whole transportation system of the country must be reorganized with the projected waterway as a key to the reconstruction program.

The New York barge canal Senator McKinley declared to be entirely inadequate. It could not take care of one-twentieth of the freight that moves from the midwest to the seaboard, he said, and is admitted by New York authorities to be impractical for the great purpose contemplated for the St. Lawrence waterway project.

"For more than a generation," said Senator McKinley, "the Middle West has made repeated efforts to gain a nearer way to the sea. 'It is the age-long desire of a land-locked people.'

RAILWAYS INADEQUATE.

"For fifteen years the growing inadequacy of railway transportation for moving the products of a continent has been apparent. The breakdown of the machinery of transportation in 1920, following the strain of the war period, was not a new phenomenon, but an accentuation of the situation that had existed for years during every season of crop movements. The necessary increase in railroad rates still further emphasized the needs of the deep interior. In order to establish rates which would enable the railroads to live, it was necessary to adopt schedules which would not permit the traffic to move. The country had come to an impossible situation in the problem of transportation, which conditions the industrial life and productive power of the nation. It is a situation that can be cured only by reshaping the national transportation struggle so that from every producing section, by a relatively short rail haul, the nation's products may be carried to the universal water base. What has been for a generation the instinctive desire of the West to find a nearer road to the sea and to the markets of the world is now an economic necessity for the nation.

NATURAL OUTLET.

"The movement from the Middle West to the seaboard is about 200,000,000 tons in what we may consider a normal movement. The barge canal, which at its utmost capacity can carry about 10,000,000 tons a year in each direction, cannot in any large way meet this situation. Upon every consideration we are compelled to conclude that the enlargement or rebuilding of the New York barge canal to furnish a ship channel is not practicable and in this conclusion we are confirmed by all the authorities of the State of New York. All engineering opinion agrees that the St. Lawrence route is the natural outlet, the line of least resistance, that the improvement is feasible, and that it can be accomplished at a moderate cost.

"When the Great Lakes are thus joined to the sea, a development will be made possible upon an entirely new scale of that great rich country from the Alleghany Mountains to the Rockies. New access will be given to the markets of the world from the deep interior and new communications will be established between both coasts and the great central plains."

CONFERENCE PLANNED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

DULUTH, Feb. 2.—Writing that "we now are dealing with a known situation when up to this time we have been feeling our way," Charles P. Craig, executive director of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Tidewater Association, has notified members of the Council of States to be present at a conference called by the executive committee for February 9 in Chicago.

Governors from at least half of the eighteen States in the council are expected to be present.

The eighteen States, which belong to the council include: Iowa, South Dakota, Nebraska, Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, Utah, Idaho and Oregon.

The conference was called to plan and direct the final stages for the campaign to encourage governmental authorization of funds to improve the St. Lawrence River so that ocean-going ships may penetrate through to Duluth, thus opening a new route to the sea.

RACE FEELING NOW STRONG AT SHENSI.

YOUNG CHINESE DISGUSTED BY ARMS MEET, STAGING DEMONSTRATIONS.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

PEKING, Jan. 12. — Strong antiforeign feeling as a result of the Washington conference, fostered by students and reported to have been secretly abetted by the Military Governor Feng Yu-Hsiang, which ran high at the beginning of the year in Shensi Province for the first time in the history of antialien outbreaks there, was directed against Americans, as well as other outsiders.

Returned travelers say that during Christmas week foreigners in Shensi were in a dangerous position, but that since that time the feeling has died down.

Students marched through the streets shouting "Down with Japan. Down with America. Kill all foreigners," and distributing posters and handbills calling on the populace to drive out and massacre the aliens, particularly Americans. The belief that the United States had given way to Japan at the Washington conference and a strong feeling against the four-power treaty are given as reasons for the outbreak.

ARMY RULES IN CHICAGO JAIL.

Escape of Tommy O'Conner Brings Rigid Regulations and Change.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Feb. 2.—A virtual military regime was inaugurated in the Cook County Jail today with the acceptance of the post of jailer by Capt. Wesley Westbrook of the Chicago police department. The change from a civilian to a police-military man is a direct result of the escape of Tommy O'Conner, condemned murderer, which caused a grand jury investigation.

"We'll make the jail a jail, not a boarding-house," Westbrook said.

TRIBUTE IS PAID TO SHAUGHNESSY.

SECOND ASSISTANT POSTMASTER GENERAL DIES OF HURTS IN DISASTER.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—Flags of the Postoffice Department and other public buildings were at half mast today in tribute to Second Assistant Postmaster-General E. H. Shaughnessy of Chicago, who succumbed early this morning to injuries inflicted in the Knickerbocker Theater disaster last Saturday night.

Mrs. Shaughnessy, herself stricken at Garfield Hospital with broken ribs, and her daughter, Ruth, at the same hospital, with both arms broken, were notified.

With Mr. Shaughnessy at the time of his death were his father, Thomas F. Shaughnessey of Newark, N. J., and two sisters, Mrs. Irene Kretchner and Miss Margaret Shaughnessy, both of Chicago. Interment is to be Saturday afternoon at Arlington National Cemetery with full military honors, Mr. Shaughnessy having served as lieutenant-colonel in the Transportation Corps during the war and having been awarded the Distinguished Service Medal for his work done with the American Expeditionary Force. He also was president of the Veterans' Society of the Thirteenth Engineers in Chicago.

Honorary pallbearers at the funeral will be Maj. Bliss, Gen. W. W. Atterbury of Pennsylvania, and Capt. McMorris, who were associated with Mr. Shaughnessy overseas; Capt. David S. Barry, Jr., Gen. George Van H. Mosely and Dr. Work.

BRICKLAYERS' UNION PLANS BAY CITY KILN.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 2.—Operation of a brick kiln in or near San Francisco by the International Bricklayers' Union of America is under consideration, it became known today. Several officials of the union asserted at a meeting that brick can be made and sold at a fair profit for about half what is being charged here at the present time and because of high local prices very little brick construction is going on here, there being only about 200 bricklayers in San Francisco compared with 971 in Los Angeles. The latter, it was stated, are being paid $1 a day more than in San Francisco. The union already has a brick kiln in operation at El Paso.

SOUTH AMERICAN NATIONS RECOVER.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—Marked improvement in economic conditions in South America is seen by Secretary Hoover.

The Latin-American countries, Mr. Hoover said today, have had no deep seated shocks to overcome in their post-war recovery. Reports indicate, he said, South American countries are gradually absorbing their surplus stocks of goods, and it would seem that they were going to make their recovery faster than other nations.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 2.—W. H. He will be succeeded here by W. H. Armstrong, now stationed at Seattle.

Mr. Tidwell has been a Treasury Department special agent for over thirty years and during his twelve years in San Francisco he is credited with raids which resulted in the seizure of narcotics valued at more than $4,000,000.

WISCONSIN FARMERS COMMEND PRESIDENT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

MADISON (Wis.) Feb. 2.—The Wisconsin Farm Bureau Federation at its annual meeting today passed a resolution exonerating President Howard of the national federation of charges that he had made agreements with the railroads at a secret conference which were detrimental to the farmers.

The resolution commended him for his service in bringing about a reduction in freight rates.

FRICK'S ESTATE PAYS HUGE SUM IN TAXES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PITTSBURG, Feb. 2. — Over $9,000,000 has been paid by the executor of the estate of Henry C. Frick, the former coal and steel capitalist, in Federal and State inheritance taxes. This was shown in the first account filed today in the Orphans' Court here.

The value of the estate was estimated at $94,019,163.

SERVICE MEN'S AID APPROVED.

California to Buy Land for Veterans.

Welfare Board Sanctions 150 Applications.

Will Award Certificates in Near Future.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 2.—The California Veterans' Welfare Board, which is meeting at the Capitol, late today will have tentatively approved 150 applications of ex-service men who are seeking State financial aid for the purchase of property under the Farm and Home Purchase Act, it was announced at noon today by Ralph Smith, secretary of the board. Smith said that approximately 75 per cent of the applications thus approved are for the purchase of homes, and the remaining 25 per cent for farms.

INVESTIGATE THEM.

With the tentative approval of these 150 applications, the board then will begin the work of personally investigating the applicants themselves. To meet the men, meetings will be held in various parts of the State.

When applicant has been approved after personal investigation by the board, he will be given a selection and purchase certificate which will entitle him to select the home or farm he wishes to buy. The certificate will be good for ninety days.

After the selection is made by the veteran, the property is inspected and appraised and purchased for the successful applicant. In the case of a home the welfare board can spend $5000 and $7500 in the case of a farm. A payment of 10 per cent down will be required of a veteran for a home, and 10 per cent for a farm, the balance of the purchase price to be spread over a period of forty years, at 5 per cent interest.

According to Smith, the board plans to begin buying farms and homes for veterans by the end of this month.

PLANS CO-OPERATION.

As the board that will appraise the land to be purchased for the veterans will be composed in each case of an inheritance tax appraiser, State Controller Riley is planning to co-operate with the welfare board in the matter of obtaining just appraisements.

Riley lays special stress upon the seriousness of an overappraisement which would place an unjust burden on the applicant, as the land must be paid for by ex-service men at the appraised value determined by the appraisement board.

Although the Veterans' Welfare Act provides that the veterans must pay the expenses of the inheritance tax appraisers in appraising lands, the appraisers at their annual convention last August voted unanimously to preform the service for the ex-service men free of all charge.

OPIUM SMOKERS ARE NOW MORPHIA USERS.

CHINESE FORBIDDEN ONE DRUG TAKE UP ANOTHER, SAYS ASSOCIATION.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

PEKING, Jan. 12.—China, barred under the law from smoking opium, is fast becoming a nation of morphia users, with results more menacing to its people than the opium evil of other days, according to a statement from the Anti-opium Association.

This is declared to be particularly true of Manchuria, where the drug sale is said to be in hands of Japanese retailers and a mixed gang of many nationalities which smuggles drugs from Siberia and North Manchuria is reported to have cut prices to a very low figure.

Russians, Japanese, Chinese, Greeks, Turks and ondescripts of many nationalities numbering about 1000 are reported to be operating on a tremendous scale with many minor officials of the railway in their pay. Foreign women, associated with the band of smugglers, are said to be carrying the drug from Manchuria to Peking, where it is retailed in the tea houses and other resorts.

Officers of the Antiopium Association assert that it is virtually impossible to check the trade on account of the attitude of the Chinese government, which has refused to move in the matter.

Officers of the association declare that they are eagerly awaiting the visit to China of the opium commission of the League of Nations whose investigations are expected to result in curtailment of the drug business.

WANTS CHRISTIANS IN ASIA PROTECTED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—Declaring that more than 1,000,000 Greeks have been driven from their homes in Asia or have been murdered by the Turks during the last five or six years, Senator King Democrat, Utah, today introduced a resolution which would have the United States, if it enters the Genoa conference enter on the Agenda that the Treaty of Sevres, guaranteeing the protection of Christians in Turkey, would be discussed.

FUND LEFT BY WILL TO BEAUTIFY CITY.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BOSTON, Feb. 2.—A fund of $5,000,000, the net income of which is to be used for creating in this city works of public utility and beauty for the use and enjoyment of citizens, is provided for by the will of George R. White, which was filed today.

The donor, who was the city's largest taxpayer for many years, directed that no part of the income be used for any purpose for which it is the duty of the city to provide.

CORN IS BURNED UNDER BOILERS

Steamer Forced to Use Forty Tons of Grain When Coal Burns Out.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NORFOLK (Va.) Feb. 2.—Forty tons of corn was burned beneath the boilers of the Norwegian steamer Samnager, which arrived here yesterday, when all its coal was exhausted in the recent storm off the coast. The steamer came in five days overdue from New Orleans. The corn was efficient, but expensive, the master said.

Groundhog Day in New York is a Real Puzzler.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—Whether the flowers will bloom in the spring early or late in New York tonight remains a disputed question, although Ground Hog Day has come and gone.

It all depends on what time the quadruped prognosticator took his stroll. If he emerged early in the day he did not see his shadow. Superstitious persons and some who say they are not agree that an early spring is assured.

If he waited until noon, when the sun was out in force, he saw a well-defined shadow and returned to his hole.

MRS. ASQUITH SEES NO GAIN FROM WAR.

DECLARES WOMEN SO FAR HAVE ACCOMPLISHED NOTHING IN POLITICS.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—Before departing for Boston to continue her lecture tour Mrs. Margot Asquith, wife of the former British Premier, and author of a famous dairy which startled three continents, dropped a few epigrams in an interview. A few of the gems were:

"The time since the war ended has been short, but so far, what gain has any government or society to show for it?"

"I never in my life have seen so much backbiting and unkindness as I have witnessed during the last few years."

"We are all suffering from moral shell shock. We're not better than we were before the war. We're worse."

"The flapper should cultivate more religion and reverence. She ought to read more and think more. She is superficial."

"Never take any man too seriously. On the other hand be faithful in your friendships."

"There are no women in politics. So far, they've accomplished absolutely nothing in that field."

"I like American men better than American women. Your men are so devoted that they spoil your women."

"I never am interested in what people think about me, but in what I think about them. I always take my fences."

SPECIAL ACT OF CONGRESS NEEDED.

COMPLICATION IS SEEN IN KENYON'S APPOINTMENT TO JUDGESHIP.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—Appointment of Senator Kenyon, of Iowa as a United States Circuit judge may result in the passage of a special act by Congress to meet the situation, it was intimated tonight in some administration circles. This course may be necessary, it was said, because the salary of United States District Judges was increased by Congress in 1919 from $7000 to $8500 when Senator Kenyon was a member of that body and the Constitution expressly states that:

"No Senator or Representative shall during the time for which he was elected be appointed to any civil office under the authority of the United States which shall have been created, or the emoluments thereof shall have been increased during such time."

It was recalled tonight that the late Senator Ransom of North Carolina was appointed Minister to Mexico in 1889 after the salary had been increased during his term as Senator, and under an opinion from the Attorney-General he relinquished the post. But when the late Philander C. Knox was appointed Secretary of State by President Taft after the salary for that office had been increased during his term as Senator, he was appointed to the salary which existed before the increase and subsequently the increase was accorded him through a special act of Congress.

SOVIET POPULATION DECREASE IS LARGE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—A decrease of about 18,000,000 in the population of soviet Russia as compared with prewar estimates, is reported by the Bolshevik press, according to a statement issued today by the Commerce Department.

For 1921, the statement said, the population of soviet Russia was placed at 130,007,000 by a Bolshevik census.

CATTLE RUSTLERS AGAIN ARE HUNTED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

OAKLAND, Feb. 2.—For the first time in fifty years a Sheriff's posse tonight was trailing a band of cattle rustlers who have been stealing cattle from ranges in the eastern part of Alameda county.

The cattle thieves are believed by authorities to have a rendezvous in the hills near Irvington.

PRESIDENT OBJECTS TO DEBT BILL.

Obstacle to Refunding of Foreign Loans is Met as House Confers.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—Objection by the administration to the Allied debt refunding bill as amended by the Senate was encountered today by the House Ways and Means Committee when it took up the measure in executive session. Chairman Fordney said action would be deferred until he could confer with President Harding, probably tomorrow.

Secretary Mellon, who was before the committee, said he would rather have had a bill without the twenty-five-year maturity and 4½ per cent minimum interest rate limitation, but that it would be feasible to go ahead with the refunding negotiations, and if these limitations proved insurmountable in the case of some countries additional authority then could be asked of Congress.

It was understood that the President objected to these limitations as written in the Senate following agreement on them by the Republican majority. It was said that attention of the committee had been called that in the case of some of the debtor nations, particularly the smaller and the newly formed ones, it might be necessary to defer maturity of the refunded obligations for fifty years, instead of twenty-five years, and that where the loans were to extend over such a long period it might be desirable to fix the interest rate as low as 4 per cent.

SEASONAL LOSS IN INDUSTRIES NOTED.

JANUARY SHOWS VIRTUALLY NO IMPROVEMENT IN BUSINESS CONDITIONS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—Business and financial conditions throughout the country during January were without striking departure from the general situation in December, according to the monthly review issued tonight by the Federal Reserve Board. Seasonal slackening in various lines of industry has taken place during the month, the board declared, but such recessions have not gone beyond the proportions to be expected at this time of year. Productive activity in a number of lines has been unusually well sustained, it was added. Some improvement in the iron and steel trade was noted by the board and in other manufacturing lines a similar tendency, but in cotton and woolen textiles, no material change was declared to have taken place. Little recovery in the depression in silk is yet to be seen, the board stated.

Little change in crop conditions can be expected during the winter, it was asserted, but prices on staple farm products have about held their own, with interest in the agricultural situation centering on preparations for the new season.

Wholesale trade lines have shown great variation, but in the retail trade the buying demand in the manufacturing district in the East and North still shows improvement, while demand in the agricultural regions of the West and South indicates a sharp decrease as compared with the corresponding period of a year ago. The general price level, the board added, has shown but little change.

Commercial demand for credit during the month, the board reported has tended downward while market quotations for money have eased. Foreign exchange quotation fluctuated within a narrower range than during December, while export trade has shown a tendency toward a small volume of business.

HOUSE AGREES TO SENATE AMENDMENT.

CONCENTRATION OF LIQUOR IN DESIGNATED WAREHOUSES PROVIDED FOR.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—The House today agreed to a Senate amendment to the Treasury appropriation bill providing for concentration of bonded liquor in warehouses to be designated by the commissioner of internal revenue. Two Senate amendments, one carrying $1,000,000 for the construction of a vault for the Treasury and the other $500,000 for a site and other preparations for erecting a national archives building in Washington, were disagreed to and the bill was sent back with the expectation that the Senate would agree to elimination of the two amendments.

The House agreed to a Senate amendment carrying $7500 for the salary of an undersecretary of the Treasury during the coming fiscal year, but struck from the bill provision for an assistant secretary at $5000.

Another Senate amendment waiving existing law, which precludes appointment of retired Army and Navy officers receiving retired pay of $2500 or more a year to the position of director and assistant director of the Budget Bureau, also was agreed to by the House.

LEGION OPPOSES JAPANESE COLONY.

EX-SERVICE MEN DO NOT WANT NIPPONESE ON OREGON IRRIGATED LAND.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

REDMOND (Or.) Feb. 2.—Five American Legion posts in Central Oregon will oppose Japanese colonies on irrigated farm lands in the Deschutes Valley, through a central organization consisting of two representatives from each local organization, according to announcement here today.

This was the decision reached at a conference of fifty Legionnaires representing the posts at Madras, Prineville, Bend, Sisters and Redmond.

They declared an immediate necessity for action because of offers of realty operators who are said to be endeavoring to settle Japanese on Ochoco project lands near Prineville.

INCOME TAX FACTS.

Every taxpayer is required to include in his return of gross income the following items:

Interest received on notes and deposits in banks, including savings banks.

Cash dividend on stock. The Supreme Court decided in March, 1920, that stock dividends are not taxable. Profits from the sale of such stock, however, are taxable income for the year in which received. Only dividends paid out of earnings or profits accrued since March 1, 1913, are taxed.

Profits received from the sale of property, real, personal, or mixed. The basis for ascertaining gain derived from the sale or disposition of such property acquired after March 1, 1913, is cost. The basis for ascertaining the gain derived from the sale or other disposition of such property acquired before March 1, 1913, is likewise cost, but—

If its fair market price or value as of March 1, 1913, was in excess of cost, the gain is the excess of the amount realized over such fair market price or value. For example: A purchased a house in 1910 for $10,000; its fair market value on March 1, 1913, was $15,000 and he sold in 1921 for $20,000. The amount to be reported as gross income is the difference between $20,000 and $15,000, or $5000.

If the amount realized therefor is more than cost, but not more than its fair market value as of March 1, 1913, no gain shall be included in gross income. For instance, if A, in the above example, had sold in 1921 for $15,000, no taxable gain would have resulted.

If the amount realized therefor is less than cost, but more than March 1, 1913, value, there is no gain. For example, if A purchased a house in 1910 for $10,000 and its fair market value as of March 1, 1913, was $8000 and he sold in 1921 for $9000, no gain would have resulted.

In computing net income the taxpayer is permitted to deduct from gross income certain deductions for losses, bad debts, contributions, interest, taxes, etc. Deductions for losses include, not only losses incurred in the taxpayer's trade or business, but losses connected with any transaction "entered into for profit," or if arising from fires, storms, shipwreck, or other casualty. Deductions for losses are allowable only to the extent that they are not compensated for by insurance or otherwise.

Losses arising from the destruction or damage to property acquired prior to March 1, 1913, are to be computed on the basis of the fair market price or value as of that date, unless the cost is less than such value, in which case the loss is computed on the basis of cost.

A new provision of the Revenue Act of 1921 is, that in exceptional cases and in order more clearly to reflect income the Commissioner of Internal Revenue may permit the deduction of a loss other than in the year in which actually sustained. The taxpayer in his return, or an amended return, may deduct a loss only for the year in which sustained. If he desires to account for the loss as of another period, he must attach to his return for that year a request for consideration of the case by the commissioner, together with a complete statement of the facts. Upon audit of the return, the commissioner will decide whether the case is within the exception provided by the statute. Allowance of a deduction other than in the year in which actually sustained is entirely within the discretion of the commissioner and will apply only in exceptional cases.

DECREASE SHOWN IN PUBLIC DEBT.

RECEIPTS AND EXPENDITURES FOR JANUARY ARE REPORTED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—The public debt decreased approximately $50,000,000 in January, according to figures announced today by the Treasury, which showed the public debt on January to be $23,283,544,236, as compared with $23,433,994,351 on December 31.

Decrease in both expenditures and receipts of the government during January as compared with December, were reported by the Treasury. During January the total ordinary expenses aggregated $231,000,000, as compared with $336,000,000 during December, while ordinary receipts aggregated $101,000,000 as against $248,000,000 in December, when about $324,000,000 of income and profits taxes were collected.

Public debt expenditures for January aggregated $60,000,000 as compared with $301,000,000 in December, while public debt receipts for the month totaled $9,000,000 as against $621,000,000 in December.

DAILY TRADE TALK.

Farmer Charges Discrimination; Advertising and Credits; Hollywood Banking; Reserve Report

BY CHAPIN HALL.

The farmer is again being heard from. From agricultural districts come frequent complaints of discrimination. The producer contends that his output has been more completely liquidated than any other, and that as a result he has been left to hold the sack. He says, compositely, that while he is forced to sell his supplies at prices in many instances lower than those prevailing before the war, the public is paying approximately 50 per cent more, and that he is compelled to buy his other necessary commodities at inflated prices.

To this indictment the banker agrees, but takes exception to the farmers' inclination to place the blame upon the financial interests. According to this viewpoint the fault lies in intermediate channels, against which there is no leverage except that exerted by public opinion, and the public appears to be willing to take their remedy in talk and letters to the papers.

It is certain that there is no desire on the part of bankers to squeeze the farmer. On the contrary he is recognized as the most important cog in the reconstruction machine, and has been favored over all others in the matter of credit.

"The farmer needs education," said one banker. "He should be brought to understand that it is union labor, the profiteering middleman, and not the banks or that intangible bogey known as Wall street that are to blame for his condition. He should direct his efforts towards a termination of their resistance to deflation rather than to continue to co-operate with them."

ADS AND CREDITS.

Advertising and credit are more closely linked than is apparent to the average layman, who would be surprised to know how closely the advertising campaigns of heavy customers are watched. This is particularly in lines of nationally advertised goods, although it has a reflection closer home. A radical cutting down of advertising expenditure is the occasion for close scrutiny for experience has taught that a loss in business follows reduced advertising in exact ratio.

Bankers understand at last that public interest is by no means a permanent asset, but that it can be won and held only by skillful competition. Guy Emerson in the Commerce Monthly for February holds that to win a place in the crowded and besieged mind of the modern man is not equivalent to "holding such a place. It is more like creating a melody which the prospect hears, enjoys and inevitably forgets. It must be played and replayed, or other melodies will take its place. Not even the greatest corporation or the most popular product can hope to build up a reputation which will of its own force endure. The history of advertising is filled with striking proofs of human forgetfulness.

The forward looking banker will be glad to see the advertising specialist take his proper place in the world of sounder business which we hope will replace the more slashing and wasteful periods of the past. But the banker's attitude, while important, will not be the controlling influence in advertising progress. The predominant relationship will always be that of the advertising man to the business executive. And, more fundamental still, the business of advertising will not progress or decline because business men or bankers, or any other group, prefer to smile or frown upon it.

FEDERAL RESERVE REPORT.

"In a territory so largely dependent for its prosperity upon the condition of agriculture and live stock as the Twelfth Federal Reserve District," says John Perrin, chairman of the board and Federal reserve agent, Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco, in his monthly report to Washington, "substantial and permanent recovery from the severe readjustment of the last year must await the results of 1922.

"There is already apparent, however, pronounced improvement in the credit situation when compared with the beginning of 1921, as indicated both by the strong position of the banks generally throughout the district and by the availability and cost of bank credit for agriculture, industry and commerce. Total borrowings of member banks from this bank at the beginning of 1921 ($171,211,000) were more than twice the $71,271,000 borrowed at the beginning of 1922. Improvement in the condition of the sixty-seven reporting member banks of the district is reflected in the reduction during the year in the ratio of their total loans and discounts to total deposits, which was 81.2 per cent at the beginning of 1921 and 75 per cent at the beginning of 1922. Prevailing interest rates charged by the principal member banks of the district have been reported to be easing slowly during the closing months of 1921.

WEATHER REACTION.

It is a recognized fact in the retail world that there is a decided reaction to weather conditions, and the continued cold snap has been most stimulating to certain lines, notably men's clothing. On the contrary the produce dealers profess to be rather hard hit, and theater managers complain that fewer customers venture abroad on cold nights. On the whole unseasonable weather apparently has a slowing-down effect in the totals, although standing out against this conclusion is a constantly growing volume of bank clearings.

IN HOLLYWOOD.

Speaking of bank clearings it is interesting to note the strides the Hollywood Clearinghouse has made since it set up housekeeping for itself a few months ago. Although included in the Los Angeles district the Hollywood banks have their own clearing facilities. During the eleven months of operation last year the total clearings were $132,767,847.65 ranging from $10,500,000 in July to more than $12,756,000 in December. The Hollywood clearings, on a twelvemonth estimate, exceed those of San Diego, Bakersfield and San Jose and are only a little less than Pasadena or Long Beach.

CABLE EXTENSIONS.

There is a promised investment in this year and next of $25,000,000 for new ocean cables. This means that international commerce is to be speeded up and the nations of the world brought into closer juxtaposition than ever before.

It was American capital and energy which established the first cable line across the Pacific, a far greater task than that of bridging the Atlantic, for the distance is nearly three times as great and the bed of the Pacific includes many mountain ridges thousands of feet in height, with valleys of corresponding depth.

Now this line is to be paralleled with another American-constructed cable, while our capital will bring into being a new Atlantic crossing as well as placing various coast cities in direct connection, over American cables, with the principal islands of the Caribbean and thence the principal ports of the eastern and western frontages of South America. French and British capital have also spanned the Atlantic with numerous lines, and British, Canadian and Australian capital have established a line through the Pacific waters from Western Canada to Australia, while European capital, chiefly British, built up the tremendous cable system connecting Europe through the Mediterranean with India and the Far East with branch lines to Australia and along the eastern and western frontages of Africa.

While the life of a submarine cable is now estimated at from twenty to forty years, a considerable number of the experimental lines have entirely ceased operation, though the methods of operation have been so greatly improved meantime that the number of messages or words transmitted over a given line is now many times that of earlier days and thus facilities of intercontinental communication greatly intensified, and the cost of transmission correspondingly reduced.

BUSINESS NEWS.

Retailers must watch their overhead expense carefully so that the ultimate consumer may receive the benefit of the deflated prices of the wholesaler said M. G. Cooper, head of the local jobbing firm of Cooper, Coate & Casey, and president of the National Wholesale Dry Goods Association, in his presidential address before the annual meeting of that organization held in New York City.

"I would suggest that jobbers in noncompetitive markets exchange freely ideas of costs and overheads in order that a successful conclusion to our reduction of overhead be obtained. To me it seems that the time has passed when we need to worry particularly about market conditions, if we will but bring to bear upon ourselves and throughout our organizations a quality of judgment that comes from efficiency of management, with a close scrutiny of our turnover of merchandise, the frequent losses that we have been obliged to take will be largely obviated."

The successful merchant in years to come will be the one who gives the public increased service through price economies effected by the means of lowered costs of distribution. Mr. Cooper told the wholesale dry-goods men. Indiscriminate price-cutting and occasional periods of selling below cost never helped anyone he said. The only permanent and valuable economies will be those effected through a reduction of the costs of operation and distribution.

Attempts to induce prosperity artificially were deplored by Mr. Cooper in his address. "May I call your attention to a source of propaganda that has been in evidence for several months, namely, the endeavor to restore prosperity" he said. "In our business a frequent change of prices on cotton goods, putting them up and putting them down, endeavoring to get up an excitement for a boom, when there is really no reason for a boom, is not to my mind what you might call a healthy invitation for prosperity to return."

JOINS PASADENA FIRM.

Edward G. Otis formerly manager of the bond department of the California Bank has been made vice-president of the Leo G. MacLaughlin company, a Pasadena investment house, and will have charge of the opening of a Los Angeles branch of that firm. The MacLaughlin company was established in 1903 but has confined its activities in the investment field to Pasadena up to the present time. However, due to the rapidly increasing demands upon its investment service throughout this territory it has been found necessary to establish quarters in Los Angeles. The company has a seat on the Los Angels Stock Exchange.

STERLING STILL RISING.

Continued Advance on New York Exchange Again Notable Incident of Financial Markets.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—The continued rise in sterling, which reached $4.30 in the early hours, was again the notable incident of the financial markets today; it was accompanied this time by a substantial advance on the stock exchange. In so far as the sterling market was influenced by other considerations than the immediate balance of exchange, the advance presumably reflected both the passage of the foreign debt refunding bill and the successful rounding out of the Arms Conference program at Washington.

The strength of London exchange, which was pretty well maintained up to the last, was the more striking in that it was not followed as a rule by the continental exchanges, most of which were under pressure from Europe. Nevertheless, the course of sterling represents the market's appraisal of the European situation generally.

Today's advance of 1 to 2 points in a considerable number of industrial shares was again the work of professional operators. It was undoubtedly based, however, on the developments at Washington and the scattered evidence of recovery from the industrial inertia. Such bidding up of prices as today's is an experiment to test the temper of the real investing public, and it is undoubtedly bolder because of the discovery, even in the very artificially manipulated stock market of the last few weeks, actual holders of stocks are not at any rate disposed to sell. This attitude is always accepted as a sign that the immediate financial future is regarded without discouragement and possibly with definite hopefulness. Whatever the character of the recent speculation, the market's general course has certainly reflected reversal of underlying financial sentiment from that of eight months or a year ago.

In the weekly Federal reserve reports, and in the European bank statements, also, a check to the recent rapid easing of the money situation was reflected. This had been indicated a week or more ago by the fractional hardening of rates for acceptances and commercial paper from their lowest January level. Today's statement for the entire reserve system reported a decline in the reserve ratio from 77 1-4 per cent to 76 1-4, the change being wholly occasioned by increase in reserves held for member banks; note circulation was again reduced. Usually the increase of reserve deposits is a temporary incident of this time of year. It occurred in precisely the same way a year ago this month, but was followed after a few weeks by a continuous movement in the opposite direction. Decrease of $26,200,000 in the New York bank's share in the central gold reserve fund at Washington indicated something of a backflow of credits to the interior markets.

INSURANCE NOTES.

The meeting of the second annual sales congress of the Los Angeles Life Underwriters' Association on the 13th inst. will be thrown open to all who are interested in the sale or purchase of life insurance, according to an announcement made by Charles E. Lewin, president of the association, yesterday. Sessions of the congress will be held in Bersan Hall of the Philharmonic Auditorium from 9:45 to 12 a.m. and 1:30 to 4 p.m. The day's proceedings will be brought to a close by a banquet at 6:15 in the Pacific Mutual Auditorium.

A number of prominent business executives and well-known life insurance salesmen have been secured to make addresses. The subjects to be discussed are: "Life Insurance for Business and Tax Purposes," "Methods of Sales Approach and Closing," "Best Policy for Women" and "Working Plans for Agents."

J. L. Shuff, president of the National Life Underwriters' Association, is coming from the East to attend this congress. Mr. Shuff is connected with the Union Central in Cincinnatti and is said to have the record of placing more business on the books than any agent which the company has ever had under contract. During the war period he was appointed by Secretary McAdoo as one of the committee to write the War Risk Insurance Act. Local insurance men are looking forward to his visit with considerable interest.

The Permanence of Sound Utility Investments.

GAS and electric companies in California have grounded their permanent prosperity in the efficient service of necessities to an enormous population.

Without question these companies will continue to serve the people. Without question these companies will grow as the population grows and prosper as their territory prospers. If you have faith in the future prosperity of California, you must include the stability and dependability of the California Public Service Corporations.

They enjoy protection under the laws of the State, reducing the danger of destructive competition. The public has equal protection. Reasonable rates are authorized by the Commission which safeguard the interests of the people and permit the companies to earn a reasonable return on the capital invested.

The Companies are soundly financed. They have demonstrated that in good times or bad their net earnings continue steadily.

For long time investment in bonds of permanently sound companies, consider placing your funds in Southern Counties Gas Co. First Mortgage 5½% Bonds due 1951 at 90 and interest to yield 6.55% or for longer term San Joaquin Light and Power Corporation 7% bonds due 1951, at 104 and interest to yield 6.65%, or Southern California Gas Co. 7% bonds due 1951 at 103 and interest to yield 6.75%.

We have prepared interesting circulars about these companies and their bonds. Send today for one or all, there is no obligation to buy.

Greatest in Point of Wealth and Population

The richest and most populous of these is the Department of the Seine for it includes Paris and all its residential and industrial suburbs.

This greatest of all French Departments has recently (with the full and necessary sanction of the French Government) authorized a Loan known as—

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 2. — Trading on the stock exchange today was more active and varied than at any previous period of the week. The tone was firm to strong throughout, but operations again ran largely to groups of closely-held specialties.

Shares which for years figured prominently in the general list, notably high-grade, dividend paying transportations and industrials, fluctuated narrowly and were relegated to comparatively obscurity.

Rails had a brief upward spurt during the midseason, but the demand fell off in the profit taking of the final hour.

Conspicuous features at gross gains of 2 to over 10 points included oils, secondary steels and equipments, leathers, tobaccos, chemicals and several inactive textiles. There also was a sprinkling of higher prbices among food specialties, shippings, metals and local tractions.

Net gains of 1 to 5 points embraced Crucible and United States Steels, General Asphalt, Mexican Petroleum, Baldwin Locomotive, Studebaker, General Electric, Electric Storage Battery, Davison Chemical, United Fruit and Retail Stores. Woolworth gained 6 1-4 and Cluett Peabody 7 points. Sales, 756,000 shares.

Although the demand for call money was light, the opening rate of 5½ per cent on the stock exchange held until shortly before the closing, when private offerings caused a drop to 5 per cent. There was little demand from time funds, but a 5 per cent rate prevailed for all accommodations, except high-grade mercantile paper.

Foreign exchanges were unusually confusing, aside from London rate, which attained the new high of 4.29¾ for demand bills. The Paris rate eased slightly and the lire recated 5 points, presumably in connection with the resignation of the Italian Cabinet.

Strength of sterling exchange was reflected in the higher prices for British bonds, especially United Kingdom and Canadian external loans. Liberty Bonds were firm, but the feature of the domestic group was the activity and higher range of local tractions, based on their improved financial condition. Total sales, par value, aggregated $14,350,000.

The Foster Plan
How It Operates In
M E X I A

Scores of questions are received daily at our offices concerning the famous Foster Plan. Here it is in brief, using the Foster Me-hay-ah syndicate for illustration:

Under this plan there is no money retained for officers' salaries, office rents, buying other leases, refineries, over-head expenses, or other things that so often fritter away the principal and earnings of an oil investment. In the case of Me-hay-ah, Fred B. Foster & Co. purchased the four leasehold interests which constitute the syndicate's holdings, three in Mexia, one in Breckenridge, totaling 555 acres.

They then started drilling two wells, to be followed shortly by two more.

And then they sold for a given price, a specified percentage of the oil, which those and all other Me-hay-ah wells are expected to produce.

The specified percentage is called a unit. There are 5000 units in Me-hay-ah, each indivisible, non-assessable and perpetual. In other words out of every 5000 barrels received by the syndicate, each unit holder receives one barrel or its equivalent in money. The Fosters sell the oil and remit dividends every 30 days.

The only deductions that may be made are a small fraction for operating expense and 25% of the net production of each lease for drilling additional wells on that lease.

—Me-hay-ah has room for 60 wells. And ownership of a Me-hay-ah unit gives pro rata ownership of the production from every well that Me-hay-ah drills. This is true of all Foster syndicates.

Me-hay-ah's units were heavily over-subscribed. But, within a brief period, the Fosters will announce another syndicate, organized on precisely the same plan, located in the same marvelous field of Mexia, and opening up a wonderful, money-making opportunity to California investors.

Wheat Prices in New High Mark; Foreign Leads.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Feb. 2.—Reinstating of recently sold-out lines by local bulls combined with heavy short covering and general stop-loss buying advanced wheat prices very rapidly to a new high on the present movement. May was at the highest figure since October 4, the finish being at the top with net gains of 3⅝ to 3¾ cents. Coarse grains were affected by the action of wheat, corn gaining ⅛ to ¾ cent, oats ⅝ cent, while rye was up 2⅜ to 2⅝ cents.

Foreign markets led the advance early with Liverpool up 2 to 2¼d and Buenos Aires 1½ to 2½, private cables indicating that shorts were free buyers. The outstanding short interest the world over has proved much larger than the traders expected, this being due to the prolonged decline and the lack of confidence regarding the future that has prevailed for months.

Despite the sharp advance of late the export demand from abroad continued good with sales in all positions of 500,000 bushels, including 300,000 bushels hard winter from the Gulf, which is now about the lowest-priced wheat in the world. The fact that buyers have followed the bulge was taken as indicating a healthy situation, and in some quarters the belief was expressed that domestic flour buyers had overstayed their market and would start to take hold freely if the market steadied down around present prices.

While Minneapolis reported some mills had made larger flour sales the milling demand for cash wheat was rather slow with premiums here easier. Sales were 6000 bushels with receipts 17 cars and an inferior mill resold 5000 bushels that it recently bought.

The May-July spread went to 16 cents against 14½ cents at one time Wednesday, the greatest difference so far, and there was considerable buying of May and selling of July.

Strength in wheat was the dominating influence in coarse grains. Outside trade was rather light, especially in oats, but both grains moved up readily and finished about the top.

Cash houses were moderate buyers of corn to remove hedges against sales of 250,000 bushels to the seaboard although early in the day bids were reported below a working basis. Cash grain failed to follow the upturn in May, and the basis was lowered ¼ to ½ cent with receipts of 753 cars.

Oats receipts were 113 cars. Country offerings to arrive were small.

A slightly higher price trend was shown in oats. Trade was light. Country continues to sell oats to arrive in a light way. Cash oats trade was unchanged. Domestic shipping demand was generally improved and sales for the day ran to liberal proportions.

Liberal sales of rye have been made to Russia of late and there is another order in the market unfilled as yet. Houses with eastern and export connections were good buyers of futures.

DECLINE OVERCOME IN COTTON MARKET.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—Late buying cancelled an early decline in the cotton market today and last prices showed a slight net gain on the day's trading. In the first couple of hours futures went 20 to 45 points lower than the previous close, reflecting Liverpool's weakness and a weakened technical position, due to a reduced short interest and increased long interest.

Toward midday the list was about 5 to 9 points above its low level with business quiet and commitments limited. A distinct improvement marked later dealings, the list coming back almost on a level with last night's final bids. Steady improvement was manifested in the last hour, March standing re-establishing its premium over May and July. The support was largely local covering. Final bids were 7 points net lower to 1 point higher.

Spot cotton was steady, unchanged, 17.20 cents for middling upland.

Southern spot markets were: Galveston, 17.20c, 10 points advance; New Orleans, 15.55c, 12 points advance; Savannah, 16c, 25 points advance; Augusta, 15.88c, unchanged; Memphis, 16.75c, unchanged; Houston, 16.25c, unchanged; Little Rock, 16.50c, unchanged.

VEGETABLE RECEIPTS HEAVIER THAN USUAL

PRICES DECLINE ON ACCOUNT OF LIBERAL SUPPLIES; CELERY IS LOWER.

Vegetable receipts were much heavier yesterday than they have been any previous day this week. Arrivals of bunched stock were particularly large. Prices were, as a result of these liberal supplies, much lower. Celery and carrots declined 20 to 25 cents per dozen bunches from Wednesday's prices. Turnips weakened 10 to 15 cents and cabbages fell off 25 to 50 cents per dozen. Local lettuce was also slightly cheaper. Cauliflower remains unchanged and supplies while heavier than Wednesday, were only moderate. Celery is moving slowly at slightly lower prices.

The potato movement is more satisfactory from the dealers' standpoint than it has been for several days and prices are firm, with the exception of Russets, which continue to decline. Apples and onions show no material difference either in price or movement.

Citrus fruits are dull and few sales are being made. Brussels sprouts and artichokes are very scarce, practically no stock being available except in small lots.

HEAVY TRADING IN MINES.

Prices of the active mining issues were steadier yesterday on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange with fluctuations confined to narrower ranges than during the early days of the boom. Public interest, however, is unabated, as is evidenced by the heavy volume of sales and the firmness of the close. United American was a feature trader yesterday and advanced 3 cents to 40. Oatman finally nearer was a little more active, but it settled down to keep the close and finished strong at 11¢, a decline of only 3 cents. Rhoades advanced 2½ cents to 5½. Tom Reed closed at $2, a point gain. United Eastern softened and sold 1 cent off at $2.05.

Union Oil of California recovered sharply, advancing 3 to 158 bid. Pacific Oil fell off to a weak close at 47½, a 4½-cent loss. Southern California Edison common held firm at 97½.

The following are the closing prices and sales as posted yesterday in the Stock Exchange Building:

LINCOLN MOTORS TO BE AUCTIONED OFF.

ENGLAND PLEASED BY NEWS.

Report of Fifth Plenary Session Has Banished Apprehension.

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, Feb. 2.—Satisfaction prevails in official and unofficial circles today over the news from Washington. For some time there has been a feeling that the Conference on Limitation of Armaments and Far Eastern Questions was faring ill and that Washington might turn out to be another Versailles. This feeling was due to the confusing and pessimistic reports in some of the newspapers. The report of the fifth plenary session, however, banishes apprehension.

Prime Minister Lloyd George's friends are especially happy. They ask the British and French statesmen, who have been belittling international conferences what they think of Washington, where really great men assembled for really big work and stuck to the job until they finished it.

Genoa's colors are flying high. Telegrams from Spain state that the new government there will support the Genoa conference, and advices from all over Europe indicate waning opposition to it.

"The new agreements announced from Washington affecting the Pacific," says the Daily Chronicle, "justify the name of that great ocean. The tremendous aspirations for peace have become facts. Half of the Pacific is neutralized, with the rights of the powers that live on its shores unimpaired.

"We want these Washington principles naturalised in Europe. As the open seas of the Pacific have been made neutral, so might be the narrower seas of Europe and so might be the land frontiers of Europe.

"Let there be neutral zones between France and Germany, Poland and Russia and so on. Now is the time to build high fortifications against war. And Genoa points the way."

GIVE WORLD EXAMPLE OF DEMOCRACY

Arms Envoys Sign Pacts as "Citizens of the United States" Only.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—When the American delegates to the Arms Conference came to describe themselves for the purposes of the list of plenipotentiaries that always precedes the official text of treaties, they set before the world a new example of democracy.

Titles and official designations of many sorts glitter opposite the names of the representatives of other governments who are parties to the treaties negotiated here, but under the head of the American delegates in the new naval and submarine treaties, appears simply this:

"For the President of the United States of America.

"Charles Evans Hughes.
"Henry Cabot Lodge.
"Oscar W. Underwood.
"Elihu Root.
"Citizens of the United States."

Compared to this, every other delegate listed carries some sort of a handle, long or short, to his name. The longest is that of the head of the Japanese, who is described thus:

"For His Majesty, the Emperor of Japan.

"Baron Tomosahuro Kato, Minister for the navy, Junii, a member of the first class, of the Imperial Order of the Grand Cordon of the Rising Sun, with the Paulownia Flower."

In past treaties, it has been customary to at least affix "the honorable" before the name of each American plenipotentiary, and to follow it by designating what public office, if any, he occupies.

STUDENTS OF PARIS STRUGGLE

High Costs Are Driving Them Into Battle for Mere Necessities of Life.

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PARIS, Feb. 2.—An agitation has been started in the French press to alleviate the conditions under which the students of Paris are struggling lest the future of the French arts be imperiled. The difficulties which the high costs of living are imposing is tending to ripen the students prematurely and induce neurasthenia according to the alarmed writers. The sense of humor enthusiasm and faith in life, qualities essential to French art are endangered by the daily struggle.

Whereas before the war it was possible for a student to live luxuriously on 100 francs a month, today's prices make it impossible for him to live on less than 600 francs a month. At this figure he is deprived of most of the little luxuries that made him light hearted in former days. The saddest part is the fact that few students have the 600 francs essential to their bare existence.

The condition is noticeable to visitors to the student quarters. Gayety has gone. The Bohemian life no longer exists. The students already are facing the struggles of life. With the exception of a slight decrease in the price of meat food costs remain at the pinnacle reached last year. Vegetables the principal article of French diet, cannot be expected to fall soon because of the drought. All the people are hard hit by these conditions, but it is the French student who cannot survive them.

DRY AGENT IS JAILED; THREE OTHERS HUNTED.

Enforcement Officer Accused of Felony in Assaulting Man and Small Boy.

C. H. Wheeler, one of four prohibition enforcement officers sent from San Francisco to "clean up Los Angeles," was arrested yesterday on two complaints and lodged in the County Jail after his failure to raise $20,000 bail. Investigators of the District Attorney's office are searching for one of the four who is said to be still in Los Angeles and the Sheriff's office is seeking the other two, who are said to have returned to the office of State Prohibition Director Mitchell in San Francisco.

Complaints were issued against the four yesterday after an investigation by Dist.-Atty. Woolwine and Deputy McClelland. The dry agents are charged in one complaint with assault under color of authority, a high-grade misdemeanor, and with assault with intent to do great bodily harm, a felony. The defendants are J. M. Krumhansel James Pierce, J. A. Doyle and C. H. Wheeler.

Justice Hanby, after the charges were read by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Costello, fixed bail at $5000 for the high-grade misdemeanor and $15,000 for the felony charge.

SEARCH SAN FRANCISCO.

Pierce is still being sought in Los Angeles, but information that Krumhansel and Doyle had returned to the office of State Prohibition Director Mitchell caused the search for them to be shifted to San Francisco.

Clarence Parker, known as an informer instead of an officer, was said yesterday not to have taken part in the raid at the Fiore home. He was exonerated of any part in the asserted attacks upon Foire. Parker, it was shown to Mr. McClelland, had not gone to Palms until after the search warrant was issued and the asserted offenses had taken place.

JURY QUIZ ASKED.

It was announced by Chief Deputy U. S. Dist.-Atty. Mark Herron that the Federal grand jury would be asked to investigate asserted brutalities by prohibition enforcement agents, in seeking to arrest persons suspected of violating the Volstead Act.

Wheeler, who has been one of the leaders in the so-called "cleaning up of Los Angeles," was arrested yesterday by George Contreras and Ben Cohn investigators of the District Attorney's office. He was taken before Justice Hanby for arraignment. Wheeler asked to get in touch with the United States Attorney and asked that the case be transferred to the Federal Court.

"I think we can take care of this case here," said Justice Hanby.

Wheeler asserted that the charge was the result of a "frame-up" and that he would be able to prove so.

With the announcement that U. S. Dist.-Atty. Burke would raise the question of the validity of the action of county authorities in causing the arrest of prohibition enforcement officers, Dist.-Atty. Woolwine stated that he would take up that question this morning. It was stated that Mr. Burke would take steps this morning to cause the release of Wheeler on a writ of habeas corpus in the Federal court.

Mr. Woolwine stated: "I will look up the law on the matter in the morning and if Mr. Burke is right in his contention, we will not resist the removal of the cases to the United States court. If I can legally retain jurisdiction I will, of course, do so. In any event the United States authorities may expect the fullest co-operation."

It was stated last night that Consul Enrico Piana intended to take up the charges with the Italian Ambassador at Washington, D. C.

ATTORNEY REFUSES CASE.

Wheeler tried to retain an attorney who was in court, but the attorney declined to accept the case. The case was set for hearing on the 10th inst.

The complaint charges the four prohibition officers in one complaint with assault under color of authority upon James Fiore, who is now in a critical condition in the French Hospital. He asserts that his condition is due to treatment given him by prohibition enforcement officers. Both complaints were issued upon complaint of Tony Ferraro, a witness to the asserted offenses.

The felony charge is that the prohibition officers beat Fiore with a revolver and a billy, or a blackjack.

VICTIM IN HOSPITAL.

Dep. Dist.-Atty. McClelland, investigator Contreras; Chief Dep. U. S. Dist.-Atty. Herron, and Cav. Enrico Piana, Italian Consul in Los Angeles, visited Fiore in the French Hospital yesterday. They reported that they found Fiore, who is an Italian war hero, having several war medals to his credit, in a plaster cast, that he was suffering from at least two broken ribs and was black and blue from asserted injuries, as well as being otherwise bruised.

He asserted his injuries were caused by prohibition enforcement agents. He said he was handcuffed and beaten by a revolver and a billy, commonly known as a blackjack. Chief Dep. Dist.-Atty. Doran directed the investigation.

Fiore stated that he was hung by the handcuffs so that his feet barely touched the floor, the handcuffs being put over a curtain pole. In addition to being beaten with guns and billies, he was struck with fists and kicked, he stated.

Fiore said that the boy, Barlo Ferraro, aged 9, was also handcuffed and strung up in an effort to get information from him. He was taken later to Juvenile Hall, but yesterday was released to the custody of his parents, who previously had been unable to see him.

In addition Fiore stated to the investigators that Joe Rotitto was struck in the face and sworn at by the officers. The boy told Mr. McClelland substantially the same story yesterday, detailing the asserted attack upon him.

DENY BRUTALITY.

Pierce and Wheeler told Mr. McClelland that no brutality had taken place. They stated that Fiore said he previously had been hurt in an accident. It was admitted by Wheeler that Fiore had been tied to a curtain pole. They said that the boy was take nin charge because he had a revolver in his hands. These explanations, it was stated, did not fit with information given the District Attorney.

As the result of asserted threats against a newspaper man because of the charges against the prohibition officers, the newspaper man was given a guard of two detectives yesterday in the District Attorney's office.

DOYLE IS SUSPENDED.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 2.—James P. Doyle, acting chief of the field prohibition force in prohibition headquarters here, was temporarily suspended today on orders from Washington pending a hearing into his expense account reports for automobile hire. Doyle has begun preparation of a reply with affidavits to show his innocense of violating bureau regulations.

RABBI COMPLAINS.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 2.—Rabbi Wolf E. Goldberg of Los Angeles complained in a letter today received at prohibition headquarters here, that a squad of fifteen prohibition agents raided his synagogue while the congregation was at prayer and seized a quantity of sacramental wine.

E. W. Wheeler, prohibition deputy, at Los Angeles, reported that Goldberg had sold wine to a woman prohibition agent in violation of the law permitting ten gallons of wine to be sold to each member of the congregation. The woman was not a member of the congregation, according to Wheeler.

As a result of the affair, Thomas Brown, assistant prohibition director, has held up here a shipment of 500 gallons of wine intended for the Los Angeles synagogue.

SUBSEA BOATS ARE DEFECTIVE.

Six of Newest Submarines to be Reconstructed.

Vessels Built at Bay City Fail After Trials.

Faulty Crankshaft Found, is Harbor's Report.

Six submarines of the Navy's newest and most powerful type, built at San Francisco within the past few months, have proved unsatisfactory and will have to be reconstructed, it was asserted yesterday at the Submarine Base at Los Angeles Harbor. The assertion followed the announcement that approximately 300 officers and men have been detailed to take six of the new submarines to the east coast for overhauling.

The undersea boats, known as the S type, and including the S-30, S-31, S-32, S-33, S-34 and S-35, now at San Francisco, will leave in pairs for New London, Ct. The S-30 and S-33, under command of Lieut. Commander Howard Berry, are scheduled to sail from San Francisco about March 15, according to the present plans of the Navy Department.

The others will sail in pairs at intervals of one month thereafter, it was said.

The officers and crews of the old submarines F-2 and F-3, recently taken to San Francisco and put out of commission, will man the S-30 and the S-33 on the trip through the Panama Canal to New London.

CREWS ARE SELECTED.

The crews of the L-5 and L-6, which have been ordered placed "in ordinary," will man the S-31 and S-32 and the crews of the L-7 and L-8 will man the S-34 and S-35, it is said.

All the L-type boats mentioned have been a part of the Seventh Undersea Division at the Submarine Base and the L-6, under command of Lieut. M. L. Stonestreet, recently figured in a thrilling fire at sea.

The trip from the Pacific to the east coast will be the first ever attempted by submarines of the United States Navy without convoy. It was explained by a naval officer at the base that by maintaining reduced speed of thirteen knots an hour for the entire trip it can be made in perfect safety.

CRANKSHAFTS WEAK.

It was revealed that in the S-type of undersea fighter the seven-inch crankshafts have proved too small and many of them have been broken during tests at sea. It was pointed out that the S-30, which recently made a run from Los Angeles Harbor to San Francisco, had to complete the voyage on one engine because of a broken crankshaft.

The subs will be taken to the plant of the Electric Boat Company at New London, it is said, where radical changes in their construction will be made, including the installation of eight-inch crankshafts.

In addition to the men detailed to take the submarines to the east coast, the personnel at the submarine base was reduced by the sending of thirty-two enlisted men to Cavite, P. I. The men were volunteers for service in the Asiatic station, and sailed last night on the new Navy transport Argonne.

Judge Declares Stand on Law Enforcement.

The stand Americans should take on law enforcement was clearly defined yesterday by Superior Judge McCormick in an unusual manner during a trial before him. Attorneys in a case were endeavoring to obtain a jury to try a case in which violation of the liquor law was an element.

"Are you a member of any society which has for its purpose the enforcement of the prohibition amendment?" each juror was asked by one of the counsel.

Finally, after the question had been put to several, Judge McCormick interrupted with, "Pardon me, but we are all members of such an organization."

The examination of the talesmen then proceeded without reference to law enforcement.

WILL .. BE .. ATTORNEY'S .. BRIDE.

Popular Young Society Woman Will Marry Again.

Mrs. Lucille Hellman Frank.

THAT Mrs. Lucille Hellman Frank, popular young society woman, who divorced her husband, Alvin H. Frank, last fall, will become the bride of Leonard J. Meyberg, prominent attorney, is the interesting bit of gossip which stirred society here yesterday.

Mrs. Frank's mother, Mrs. Maurice H. Hellman of South Harvard Boulevard, admitted yesterday that the young people are engaged, but that public announcement of the fact would not be made for some time, because the divorce decree obtained by Mrs. Frank has not yet become final.

Leonard Meyberg is well known here in the younger society set. He makes his home with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell S. Meyberg of Irolo street, and is associated with his father in the practice of law, having offices in the Haas Building. The Meybergs came to this city from Indianapolis several years ago.

The Franks were married in this city seven years ago. The affair was one of the brilliant society events of the year. Mrs. Frank is a daughter of Maurice H. Hellman, vice-president of the Security Trust and Savings Bank. Mr. Frank is a son of Herman W. Frank of the firm of Harris & Frank, and senior member of the bond house of Frank & Lewis.

The Franks separated last summer, Mrs. Frank remaining in the family home at 258 South Oxford street, with her daughter, while Mr. Frank went to the home of his father. Mrs. Frank brought suit for a divorce on grounds of mental cruelty, and a decree was granted in the Superior Court, October 8 last, Mrs. Frank being awarded the custody of the daughter, Lucile Elizabeth Frank.

In her divorce petition Mrs. Frank charged her husband with remaining out all night and refusing to tell her where he had been or where he was going. She declared that he never kept his appointments with her and was cold and indifferent in her presence. Her physician testified that she was in a highly nervous condition because of unhappiness over her domestic affairs.

According to the terms of the property settlement, which was announced at the time the divorce was granted, Mrs. Frank was to have $350 per month for the first year, $400 per month the second year and $450 per month thereafter.

CLUB LAUDS "TIMES" FOR DRY FIGHT.

Enforcement of Law Under Constitution Held Nation's Problem and Duty.

Commending the attitude of The Times in its fight for enforcement of the liquor laws, the Ebell Club of Los Angeles has sent the following letter and resolution, signed by Mrs. Charles H. Toll, president, Mrs. Birney Donnell, recording secretary, and Mrs. Grantland S. Long, chairman of the committee on resolutions:

"The Ebell of Los Angeles is an organization of over 2000 earnest, thinking women, who wish to use all the means in their power, to promote the peace, prosperity and integrity of this nation.

"The Ebell believes that, perhaps, more power is concentrated and consequently the radiating influence is more definite and far-reaching in a great daily newspaper than in any other organ of the commonwealth and it has therefore watched, with anxiety at first, and later, with an ever-increasing confidence, respect and pride, the strong stand taken by the Los Angeles Times in regard to the vital importance of the observance, by our people, of the spirit as well as the letter of the new Federal law—the Eighteenth Amendment to the Constitution.

"When we read that some of the lawmakers and executives of our courts do not observe in their private lives the full intent of this law we feel that the situation is serious.

"At a time when anarchism is established and rampant in foreign countries and is threatening our own nation, it is deplorable that the people of the United States who are law abiding, in other respects, should, for selfish, personal reasons, allow this insidious, disintegrating influence to grow and flourish to such a pernicious and dangerous extent.

"Our people need to be reminded that by scouting one law of the Constitution, they weaken the entire structure and may, thereby, eventually bring about its downfall. The Times is pointing out this danger by means of one convincing editorial after another and will, we feel certain, go on day by day with this educational campaign, until our people have awakened to the serious harm they are doing to their families, their homes and their country.

"We quote here, and indorse, a paragraph from your editorial of today: 'The amendment has been sustained to its last letter and syllable by the courts of final resort. The regularity of its passage and adoption has been supported to the uttermost. It has crystallized into law as the calm decision of a majority of the people of America. . . . Is it the law? It is. Then it must be obeyed.'

"In view of these convictions then, be it therefore

"Resolved: That the Los Angeles Ebell honors the management of The Times for its courageous and continued campaign in behalf of good citizenship and loyalty to American principles and extends herewith its appreciation.

"Resolved: That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the editor of The Times and a copy be laid upon the minutes of the club."

HIGHWAY OVER RIDGE CLOSED.

Automobiles Halted Till Snow is Cleared.

Trucks and Plows Busy Breaking Trail.

Commission Criticised for Failing to Act.

The Ridge Route has been closed, officially at least, for automobile traffic, and probably will not be opened until Sunday, by which time, it is expected, to make double trackways through the snow or detours at frequent intervals. The sun has not yet caused the snow on the high levels to melt.

The State Highway Commission yesterday announced the route had been closed at both the Bakersfield and Los Angeles ends to the automobiles of all but those who had business at the settlements in the mountains. Los Angeles county also established guards above Saugus to keep back tourists, and it was expected that Kern county officials would take similar action at the north end.

However, the traffic of ordinary passengers has not been stopped, according to reports reaching the Automobile Club headquarters here.

The club's truck gang yesterday found six cars stuck in the snow near Sandburg. These cars entered the route after the road had been closed, say the reports. They had become stuck while attempting to turn aside for cars going in the opposite direction.

"OUTRAGE," SAYS McSTAY.

"It is an outrage that the Ridge Route is not closed until the snow is cleared so that cars may pass," said C. E. McStay, the field secretary of the club, who himself has been up on the ridge with the relief parties. "The machines not only get stuck, but they hinder the work of clearing the road. The Automobile Club advises all motorists to keep off the Ridge Route until things are adjusted. They should go by way of the Tehachepi road, which is in much better shape. Our agents report that some snow plows of the Highway Commission have just arrived. I suppose they had been keeping them down in the Imperial Valley so they wouldn't get frost-bitten. I hope in the future that trucks will be kept going over the road while the snow is falling and in that way always keep a road open instead of waiting until all the snow has fallen and then trying to clear it."

GOES OVER ROUTE.

An Automobile Club car from Los Angeles arrived late Wednesday night at Bakersfield after having gone over the entire route, but the trip by no means was easy, or could have been made if many cars had been met face to face.

The Highway Commission trucks met at Sandburg after covering the worst part of the road, that BOY FROZEN TO DEATH IN MOUNTAINS.

Three Lads Fight Blizzard and One Topples from Trail Into Snowbank.

Harold Thompson, an 18-year-old hiker from Los Angeles, froze to death Monday night in the Sierra Madre, between Opid's Camp and Mt. Wilson.

His companions, Walter Davies, age 18 years, and Arthur Wareham, 18, also of Los Angeles, were so numbed they could give him no help. Fourteen hours later Davies staggered into Opid's Camp and told of the tragedy. He said that Wareham, still alive, had fallen exhausted on the trail a mile and a half away, while he pushed on ahead. Rescuers from Opid's brought in Wareham. They tried yesterday to recover the body of young Thompson.

A blizzard raged day and night during the hours of the struggle the three lads made to reach a place of safety before Thompson lost his life. Thompson fell on the trail, slipping down a canyon for a distance of fifty feet into a snow bank. His companions were unable to move him.

First word of the fatality was received here yesterday, when John T. Opid, proprietor of Opid's Camp, who aided in rescuing Thompson's companions, reached a telephone line at Switzer's Camp.

The Davies and Wareham boys were so badly frozen, he said, that it was necessary to cut their shoes and some of their garments from them. They are being cared for at Opid's Camp.

The three boys went into the mountains for the week-end. During the blizzard Sunday they became lost, and fired shots which attracted Mr. Opid's attention, and he found them on the trail a mile from the house. The Thompson lad was exhausted, he said, and the others assisted him to camp.

The three boys remained at Opid's Camp until Monday morning. It was imperative that they return to Pasadena, they said, and they started out, although Opid advised them to stay. Moreover, he advised them to go down the Mt. Lowe trail. Whether the lads became confused or disregarded this advice is not yet known. But they were on the trail to Mt. Wilson Monday night when Thompson, unable to battle the storm and the snow any longer, tottered off the trail in a snow bank.

The others made efforts to revive and rescue him. But they were too exhausted to do so. They set about to return to Opid's for help, on Monday night. It took Davies until Tuesday noon to reach camp.

The parents of the dead youth are Mr. and Mrs. C. Thompson, 542 Madison avenue. The survivors' parents are Mr. and Mrs. A. Wareham, 547 Madison avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Davies, 553 Madison avenue.

FINDING VOCATIONS.

There is a woman in one of our great cities whose vocation is unusual. It is, in short, to select vocations for others, and she does it with such amazing ability that she is making a very large income in her new field.

HOW MISS BLANK BEGAN.

It is told of her that in the beginning of her career she was a welfare worker in the office of a great corporation employing thousands of men and women. She was an immensely successful welfare worker—human, broad and deeply understanding. She could adjust differences and deal with conflicting temperaments better than anyone else in the great establishment. But very soon the most observant of the heads of the corporation began to notice that Miss Blank's most valuable work for the firm was work which was not expected of her at all.

"By the way," she would say casually at the end of one of her reports, "John X. is wholly out of place in the work he is doing. If you put him in the advertising department he will be a success."

At first such suggestions were passed over. A little later several of them were tried out, with the result that invariably the transfer was a great success. The most surprising part of it all, to the officers of the corporation, was that John X. himself, or who ever the transferee might be, had no idea he was a bad salesman and a good advertising man.

He had not asked Miss Blank for the transfer. She had simply recognized his potential possibilities and put him where they could be developed.

THE NEW JOB GROWS.

Soon the officers of the corporation were more interested in her recommendations for transfers than in her welfare work, for she never made a mistake. Watching the staff and transfering workers became her specialty.

One day, to test her, the president of the corporation sent for her to come to his private office. She found him talking to one man, a stranger to her, while another man, seemingly a stranger to the first, sat near a distant window looking over a note book.

A STIFF TEST.

"Miss Blank," said the president, "this gentleman is a western friend of mine who has just reached New York. I've been telling him about your ability to pick the right man for a place and he'd like to have you look him over and tell him whether he would fit here. And, by the way, Smith," this to the man at the window, "come over here. You might be interested in this too."

Smith strolled over. Miss Blank, ignoring the president, looked very carefully at the two callers. Then she said decidedly:

"No, this man is a born lawyer. His place is in the courtroom. He ought to be a brilliant pleader, and a past-master in conducting a difficult case. But he don't do detail work, so he needs a partner—a man who will willingly and capably do all the drudgery preparation. Such a man as this gentleman you call Mr. Smith would be an admirable partner for him."

JUST A FLASH.

The three men sat open mouthed. The two men were partners, very able California lawyers, and they had for years divided their work exactly as Miss Blank had just suggested.

Asked how she recognized the fits and misfits, Miss Blank shook her head.

"I don't know," she said. "I look at men and women and in a flash, I seem to see whether they belong where they are or somewhere else."

It's a pity more of us have not that flash!

WHO WAS MENNO SIMON?

How many people in this enlightened community know anything about the Mennonites as a religious sect; where they originated, what the peculiar tenets of their faith, and what the strength of the organization at the present time? Do they know that it was named for Father Menno Simon, who was born the year Columbus discovered America? Another fact worthy of more than passing thought is that the Mennonites of America, insignificant in numbers, were the first to openly protest against the slave trade in the colonies. As a sect they are opposed to war, as are most people not direct beneficiaries of war activities. — [Nebraska State Journal.

LETTERS TO THE TIMES.

Cites the Record.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 31.—[To the Editor of The Times:] A person who signs himself "Richard Rinker" wrote a letter which was published in your columns. In this letter "Richard Rinker" made some statements concerning a case which he claims to have heard tried in the Woman's Court of this city. "Richard Rinker's" attitude throughout the letter is one of adverse criticism of the methods employed in the Woman's Court. Any one who is interested enough to make a genuine, unprejudiced study of the methods regularly employed in that court will find the attack quite unwarranted. If criticizable at all this court might more properly be charged with showing too much leniency and giving too much "benefit of the doubt" to the accused.

The case to which Richard Rinker referred was rather easily located in our files. For there had been only one forty-day sentence in the past three months. But his description of the facts in the case was somewhat at fault. This innocent "young girl of about 17" was a 26-year-old woman of foreign birth, regularly "employed" during certain hours of each day in a New High-street roominghouse repeatedly reported by Federal under-cover investigators as a house where prostitution is being practiced, a house with no inconsiderable police record, not the sort of place where our young first offenders, who are worthy of every consideration, and who get it, are found.

Mr. Rinker's "stool pigeon" was not a stool-pigeon at all, but a regular police officer in plain clothes detailed to the unpleasant but very necessary business of locating and securing evidence against prostitutes plying their trade in defiance of our laws.

Mr. Rinker's "young girl" was infected with a communicable disease and was placed in quarantine to make sure that she would not expose others to infection.

Mr. Rinker should know that a recent study shows that about 80 per cent of the women arrested on similar charges in that same district have been found infected, a condition justifying society in taking measures to prevent exposures.

We have felt that Mr. Rinker's letter might be very misleading to that portion of the public that knows nothing of the workings of the Woman's Court and that the true facts in the case should appear in the same column. Further facts about this and hundreds of other cases are on file in this office. We know whereof we speak.

In the interests of common justice and general public welfare we invite the reading public to be wary of forming opinions in matters of this sort without unearthing all the facts in each case.

Field Representative, U. S. Interdepartmental Social Hygiene Board.

Express Appreciation.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 27.—[To the Editor of The Times:] The official board of the Westlake Methodist Episcopal Church, at their meeting of January 9, instructed me, as secretary, to extend to you and the Times management, their thanks and appreciation for the stand you have taken and the articles you have published regarding the Eighteenth Amendment.

GUY CAPPS, Secretary.

Turn on the Light.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 30.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I cannot express myself too strongly in commendation of the splendid "expose" in this morning's Times of the vicious and highly dangerous proposition called the "Water and Power Act," and the marvel is that so many thousand good and intelligent citizens of the State could be so deceived and misled as to lend their names to such a scheme.

The Times is surely entitled to the gratitude of the people of the entire State for what is has already done, but what the people need most of all is enlightenment, and I trust The Times will continue to pour in its hot shot until this dangerous scheme is thoroughly squelched.

JAMES F. GRIFFIN.

From Brother Tom.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 30.—[To the Editor of The Times:] It seems that no one understands or cares for the man and woman who is down and out, or the unemployed. There seems to be provisions made for all other classes of people; but with the jails filled to the fullest capacity, as well as the hospitals and the poor-farm, it seems strange that beautiful Los Angeles should not have some place for these people. The Y.M.C.A. takes care of your young man from the moderate home. It is impossible for them to mix with the young man who has done wrong, and made a mistake in life. It is a separate work.

With the deplorable conditions that exist in Los Angeles at this rainy season, when nearly all of our people are housed, have good beds, and furnace heat, and every comfort, to think of the unfortunates who have to stay out in the rain night and day, without friends, and no one to care, if people could see this as I see it, and understand the situation thoroughly, they would be calling out for help. But the world wags on.

I have been striving for the last five years to have some one to assist me in this work, which is sanctioned by all the large churches and organizations, by the Chief of Police and the Sheriff; many of the supervisors and some of the aldermen, but no one cares. No wonder we have crime—the hobo squad of officers is a good proposition to a certain extent, but it is only driving the men who are hungry and cold, with no shelter, out to the residence district. This is the class who are driven through desperation to crime. This instead of taking care of them in the slum district.

I have done my utmost to get results for the unfortunate. There will be a day when every city will take up this work and use persuasion instead of waiting to use force.

"If I speak in the voice of men and of angels, and have not Charity, I become as sounding brass and tinkling of cymbals."

WOMAN DIES OF ANTHRAX.

Anthrax, believed to have been contracted from an infected shaving brush, caused the death of Mrs. Borghild Meland, 22 years old, wife of Arno Meland of 546 Fifty-second street, Brooklyn, who died on December 30 in a Brooklyn hospital. The Board of Health has been investigating the case to determine whether the brush contained anthrax germs, and where it came from.

Mrs. Meland used the brush to shave her husband's neck on December 25. She had a small pimple on her left cheek at the time and the next day it became swollen and grew larger for several days. Her face finally became so swollen and yellow that she thought she had the mumps. She swallowed with difficulty. She did not consult a physician until December 29, and he at once notified the Board of Health and had her taken to the hospital. She died the next day.—[New York Herald.

SKATING IN HOLLAND.

Holland is a wonderful place for skating, for, in winter, when the large stretches of land are covered with water, and these freeze over, many of the almost countless canals which thread their way all over the country, from place to place, the railways do in other lands, and the ambition of the great ambitions of the true skater is to visit seven towns in a day, and there is a round which, starting from the little town called Leeuwarden, it is possible to travel over the whole circle, and, after visiting seven towns, find oneself near the point where one again. The distance which has to be covered to complete the round is about 100 miles, and the fleetest master of each town, or some one who takes his place, is ready to receive the skaters as they pass through, and certify that they have fulfilled their task.—[The Christian Science Monitor.

"Good Lord!" ejaculated the trombonist. "I just got my part playing that!"—[Judge.

The greatest master-piece in the Art Gallery of Life is Nature's "Picture of Health."

It is a marvelous portrayal of the human body at its best. One beholds in its composite figure a true symbol of strength. It presents a flawless rippling appearance in its every contour, clear skin, sparkling eyes, strong limbs, steady nerves and demonstrates clearly vitality in action—hope, cheer, fresh, and spirited; with an entire absence of pain, disease and a face radiant in color and illuminated with a glow of hope and cheerfulness.

Could Nature have taken you for her model? Suppose you study yourself in the mirror of the present and compare your looks, your feelings and your condition with the general characteristics of this picture of the human body in perfect working order, all parts of which respond, quiet or active, and discharge performing their functions freely, naturally.

If you fail in any single point of resemblance, you are not the picture of health. It's imperative, then, that you look to a means to rebuild your normal energy and vigor—to bring your body up to a normal state of efficiency in all of its parts.

The taste that brings back childhood memories

THE taste of maple! What memories it recalls! Memories of happy days in the sugar grove gathering sap from the maples, when the first hint of warmth in the spring air set it running free.

What glorious breakfasts those "gathering days" foretold! Stacks of "flannel-cakes" in seas of syrup—syrup of wholesome, woodsy sweetness! Or corn meal mush fried brown and served with it. "Topping" for a score of pudding treats.

Let Log Cabin Syrup, with its full rich maple flavor bring back all those childhood memories. Let it give you again the taste you've wanted in so many dishes.

Log Cabin is made from the choicest of New England maple combined with the best from Canadian groves—the real sugars of maple in which the flavor is most intense. This is blended with just enough pure sugar of cane—and nothing else—to make Log Cabin Syrup surpassingly sweet and most delicate in maple flavor. It is always the same; is never bitter, never "strong."

TO START DRIVE FOR BUILDING.

Committee from Chamber of Commerce Will Campaign for Half Million.

Arrangements for launching a vigorous campaign to raise funds for the purchase of a site for the new Chamber of Commerce Building are nearing completion. The campaign, which is to run for about two weeks, will be started within a few days. The organization has obtained an option on a site on Twelfth street, between Broadway and Hill streets, but in order to purchase this site, $544,000 in cash will have to be raised.

It is the desire of the building committee, which is headed by W. T. Bishop, to obtain the support of the entire organization, despite the fact that it can be financed through subscriptions from only about 60 per cent of the total membership.

The entire membership is to be taken into the plan of financing. "Keep the White Spot White" certificates, each with a par value of $100, and bearing interest at the rate of 6 per cent, are to be sold, one for each membership. These certificates will be redeemable on or before the expiration of ten years. The organization is not asking donations, nor will the project be presented in the light of an obligation.

Early next week the first gun of the campaign will be fired. A letter, containing a full outline of the plan, will be sent to each member, and this letter will be followed up by personal visits from members of the various teams which Mr. Bishop is now organizing. The memberships will be districted, and it is planned to have 500 men in the teams, which will call upon members.

EYEWITNESS TELLS OF BEACH KILLING.

REALTOR TESTIFIES AT TRIAL OF MRS. JOHNSTONE AS HUSBAND'S SLAYER.

The story of a witness to the shooting of Thomas P. Johnstone of Long Beach by Julia Lee Johnstone, was told yesterday in the trial of the young wife before Judge Avery when B. F. Howard, a realty man, on the witness stand, traced the movements of Johnstone on the day of the shooting and recited the circumstances that surrounded the killing.

According to his story, he accompanied Johnstone several times during the day in July when the alleged bootlegger was killed, to the house. Mr. and Mrs. Johnstone engaged in an argument.

In the evening, he said, he and Johnstone again went to the house. Johnstone went into the basement and brought out a sack filled with liquor. He went to the machine and Mrs. Johnstone followed. She began pleading with her husband, the witness testified, to give up his activities in the sale of illicit liquor for the sake of ther child. When Johnstone started to climb over the front seat to the wheel, Mrs. Johnstone, he said, pulled a gun and shot her husband.

SHEDDING TEARS.

The New York police are going to use tear bombs to break up mobs. It is figured that when the throng begins to cry it will run home and behave.

TALK ABOUT GAS.

The powers reached an agreement on the use of gas in war, but out Hollywood way the problem has been to get gas enough to run things in time of peace.

GRAPE AND CANISTER.

The ammunition room on a British ship in San Francisco Harbor was found to be heavily charged with Scotch whisky on being examined by customs officials. That is what they call having another shot in the locker. Unfortunately it was not efficient in repelling boarders.

DEEP SEA QUAKES.

If we must have earthquakes the best place for them is in the midst of the Pacific Ocean—where some of the scientists are locating the latest convulsions of Mother Earth. Wonder if an earthquake in mid-sea frightens the dolphins badly? When they are having earthquakes on the water it must be fine to be a flying fish.

FLOODS OF CRIME.

They seem to be knocking the parole system everywhere. In Chicago the announcement is made that no less than 973 crooks of that city were released from prison on either pardon or parole in 1921. The State's Attorney's office in Cook county sent 757 persons to the penitentiary last year, but with 973 releases it is hard to figure out where society is being protected. In Chicago alone there were last year 8022 offenders arraigned under felony charges. Of this number but 448 were sent to the penitentiary. There were 1293 trials of prisoners charged with robbery with a gun. Of this number but 283 went to prison. When they do go to the penitentiary they are liable to be out on parole or probation within a few months. No wonder there is a wide demand that banditry and burglary with a deadly weapon be considered capital crimes. After a man has once been hanged or electrocuted he escapes the benefactions of the parole system. The trouble seems to be that the wrong man gets paroled.

TIT FOR TAT.

There has been the same opposition in London to renditions of the music of German composers as there has in this country, but recently Joseph Holbrooke, eminent English composer, went over to give a series of concerts of his own works in Munich.

He found that he could engage an orchestra of eighty-five skilled performers for 1000 marks, which was the equivalent of about $35 at that time. And he declares that he had never come across better readers than those Bavarians. But ed great was the local agitation against him that his receipts were just about $5, which he presented to the orchestra as a mark of esteem. They in turn stood him a grateful dinner costing about the same amount. The only people he made a hit with were in the orchestra. The local critics lambasted him in their columns and declared that their country could not endure the insult of English music, anyway, after England's objectionable attitude in the war. They positively will not have it exploited at the expense of native talent.

Ahem! Wasn't it our German friends who said there should be no circumscribed nationalism in art? That, indeed, through art brotherly love could be restored to a hate-drenched world? But those hateful sentiments evidently work both ways.

BRIGHTER LONDON.

London has a "Brighter London League," formed to counteract the national doldrums. One of the first things they set out to urge was the extension of the drinking hours by which theater-goers were to be allowed to have liquor with their supper after the show. People, they declared, would not stay up late and have supper in town if they could not get a drink thrown in.

But, this concession granted, the railroads put on late trains to the suburbs—and they have been traveling nearly empty for a couple of months. So the Brighter London League complains that it is because no entertainments are furnished after the theaters. People will not stay in town to supper unless they are entertained.

It would appear, therefore, that London is hard to please. Or perhaps it is merely hard-up. Under liberal liquor laws it doesn't seem to be having half so good a time as Los Angeles under prohibition. Many of our cafes manage to stay open till 2 a.m., with nary an official drip in sight. Even the unofficial drips have to be peculiarly discreet. But that hasn't prevented our cafes from launching out into greater grandeur, opening up new and more luxurious taverns and making up in light, color and music what they lack in "social lubricant."

The answer would seem to be confidence and prosperity. Where the people are working and the job comparatively sure a "Brighter" league is superfluous—and where they are not prosperous and jobs very unsure no amount of brighter league activity can win them to care-free brightness. It isn't the drinks and it isn't the entertainments. It is the confidence, the faith, the hope which create the stimulant and the will to joy. Without them there is no stimulant and no joy, no matter how liberal the laws, how fervent the "brighter" leagues.

KEEPING THE FAITH.

"Desiring to contribute to the maintenance of peace and to reduce the burdens of competition in armament." So begins the preamble to the quintuple agreement negotiated by the Disarmament Conference for the limitation of armaments and to humanize the methods of warfare among nations should another international conflict actually occur.

It is probably the most important international treaty ever negotiated in time of peace in the history of modern civilization. Treaties are generally negotiated during an armistice and between nations that are still at war. This treaty is a compact among friendly powers to preserve the existing state of peace and to lighten the burden of taxation of all the participating peoples.

Not the least of the things accomplished is the friendly adjustment of the controversy which has waged for years over the occupation under a forced lease of Chinese territory by other governments. The Shantung dispute is ended by the voluntary surrender on the part of Japan of all the rights it acquired under its leasehold, together with other rights reserved to it under the Treaty of Versailles.

There is also a reaffirmation of the "open-door" policy, which was weakly abandoned by the Wilson administration. This policy, affirmed by the United States alone for almost a generation, is now accepted by the five associated powers, the British Empire, France, Italy, Japan and the United States.

No other single pact ever removed so many potential causes of future wars. It is the crowning victory of the Disarmament Conference. President Harding has fulfilled the pledges made before election to work for an association of nations. Ably seconded by Secretary Hughes and the other members of the American delegation, treaties have now been negotiated in the interest of peace, not only in the Pacific area, but in other sections of the world as well.

Before the quadruple and quintuple pacts become binding upon the United States they must be ratified by the Senate. But the sentiment of the country as a whole is so overwhelmingly in their favor that the opposition is not regarded as a serious menace.

Even the Chinese delegation, inclined at times to be obstreperous, has expressed its satisfaction with the results obtained. China has secured more than its most optimistic friends in this country had hoped for. Japan has made concessions in the interest of international harmony that were regarded only a few months ago as unthinkable.

So far-reaching are the results obtained that the mere contemplation of them is bewildering. Never before were the jingo groups and the military parties in the five countries represented so completely routed. In the Pacific area the war clouds have been dispelled by the rising wind of peace and there is only blue sky ahead. When the two treaties are ratified the Anglo-Japanese pact, always regarded by our statesmen as a menace to our security in the Pacific, will be automatically abrogated.

Historians will probably record a hundred years hence that in the Disarmament Conference peace won its most notable victory. Concessions were made by all the nations represented. No one triumphed at the expense of the others. Probably the greatest concessions were made by Great Britain and Japan; for the former consented to voluntarily surrender its traditional supremacy on the seas by reducing its naval power to that of the United States, and Japan relinquished rights confirmed by the Treaty of Versailles. But there was a mutual display of national unselfishness without a parallel in the history of international diplomacy.

If those who fell in Argonne Forest and on the plains of Flanders could speak they would probably say, "We are content. It is for this we died."

These treaties do not supersede that of Versailles, but are its complement. They effect settlements that were not possible three years ago. Back of them are five nations with a combined strength sufficient to dictate by force the future policy of every nation on the earth. But they have voluntarily cast down the false god of selfish might and placed justice on its pedestal.

Out of the mutual sacrifices of the World War has been born an association of powers "desiring to contribute to the maintenance of peace." As a record of peaceful achievement it stands without a parallel in the history of nations. Resolute men have blazed the trail to the mountaintops where the sun of peace is shining. The hope of the free peoples of the world has not been disappointed.

EGYPT AND THE EMPIRE.

That Egypt has a prospect of winning her freedom and establishing her separate autonomy does not signify any particular change of heart on the part of the British Empire; rather does it betoken the passing of a critical military situation.

As a matter of fact, the British are probably looking forward to parting with Egypt with more genuine enthusiasm than do the descendants of the ancient Pharaohs. The cheers will be louder in London than in Cairo.

There seems to be a general impression that the British Empire is happiest with its foot upon the neck of some subject people and that the English go about gurgling with glee at the idea of taking on new colonies.

As a matter of fact, England has acquired many and sundry possessions by dubious and uncertain methods; but there was probably little joy in the process. England is very much in the position of a stock broker who finds himself compelled to buy, and buy ruinously, for the reason that he has already bought more than he can safely protect.

Kipling spoke with a degree of accuracy and feeling when he wrote of the imperial colonies as "the white man's burden."

Egypt has never been anything to the British Empire other than a dangerous and perilous responsibility.

It was a responsibility undertaken, in the beginning, because of the threats of an imperial and very aggressive Russia against India. Later this responsibility was strengthened as a part of the calamity of militarism forced upon the world by the Kaiser.

The most essential fact in connection with the British Empire is the route to India.

When the Kaiser reached out on his Berlin-to-Bagdad project he seriously threatened to block this route. In the first instance the British had built the Suez Canal Night Time.

because of the indirect threat by the Russians which necessitated a quicker way of getting troops to India than the long sea route by the Cape of Good Hope.

The Kaiser's world policies, however, directly threatened to block up the ditch through which Britain's imperial power flows.

The German navy is now at the bottom of the sea. With the British in possession of Mesopotamia and Jerusalem, there is no longer any direct threat to the canal.

Egypt is no longer vitally necessary to the safety of the British Empire. Barring certain reservations relating to military rights, it seems very probable that the British will soon retire from the uncertain, mercurial and changeable tenure of the land of Father Nile.

No doubt the language of the transfer of authority will be austere and impressive; but the real thought in the subconscious corridors of the British imperial soul will doubtless be, "Here's your hat; we hope you choke."

MARGOT ASQUITH.

Mrs. Margot Asquith, wife of England's ex-Prime Minister, is now on a lecture tour in this country. It may prove profitable, in view of her recently published reckless memoirs; but it is nevertheless something of a handicap for an ex-Premier with come-back ambitions, to overcome. For the Rt. Hon. Herbert Asquith is leading a faction which hopes to overthrow the Lloyd George ministry in the English general election predicted for next month and restore him to power, and Margot is one of his most ardent public supporters. Yet Margot, with the best intentions, has been one of the most virulent factors in belittling this might-have-been great man, her husband. Her frank revelations, which proved such engaging reading, went far to verify much that the British public has suspected: that their ex-Prime Minister was saddled with a peculiarly indiscreet wife. Her indiscretions, moreover, played a rather dominant part in her husband's life. And they are bound to feel that they would not be electing Herbert Asquith, but insuring Margot a few more dangerous opportunities for her ebullient indiscretions.

Some wives make their husbands' careers. But they are not the Margots. No one really knows whether Mr. Asquith approved the publication of those reckless memoirs. If he did, he was badly advised. If he didn't, he obviously cannot manage his wife and can therefore not be trusted to manage an empire. Either way, it must inevitably react against him.

The women who make their husband's careers submerge their own identity. They must, above all things, be dignified, cautious, tactful, diplomatic. And Margot Asquith boasts that she is none of these. She openly, rudely criticises the great men of her husband's regime—a regime which nearly lost England the war. But these same men won distinction under the succeeding regime, hence England cannot but blame Margot for ill-judged interference, on her own evidence. What Premier could hope to win back to power under such a handicap? What nation is going to risk this sort of irresponsible petticoat government?

Mrs. Lloyd George, on the other hand, is the embodiment of discretion, of silent capacity, of modest endeavor. Where Margot dresses amazingly Mrs. Lloyd George dresses with inconspicuous sartorial discretion. Where Margot shouts Mrs. Lloyd George whispers soothingly. And where Margot writes memoirs Mrs. Lloyd George is submerged in social service work. Where Margot is an intellectual aristocrat Mrs. Lloyd George is socially and intellectually democratic. Where Margot Asquith is flamboyantly Margot Asquith Mrs. Lloyd George remains modestly Mrs. Lloyd George. Mrs. Lloyd George says, "We are one." Margot Asquith says, "We are two—and I am first."

Mr. Asquith was forced to resign his country's leadership under public clamor; while Mr. Lloyd George will voluntarily go to the country for a new mandate, with many notable achievements of his administration to point to.

Mr. Lloyd George has no personal embarrassments to live down. But Mr. Asquith has Margot. Mr. Asquith made Margot. Without him she would but have remained the rather sensational and amusing Margot Tennant, a young person who made social gossip. But Mr. Lloyd George made history, while Mr. Asquith was making Margot. Margot tells us she could have married any dozen of England's prominent men. How different Lloyd George's history might have been had he married Margot—but he isn't even named among the aspirants.

It is just possible that Mr. Asquith encouraged Margot to begin a lecture tour at this time. Old dogs are canny. He may have deemed it the part of discretion to have her in America while the English general elections are on.

EQUALS OR DEPENDENTS.

Should Great Britain attempt to influence the development of political institutions in the United States, Anglo-American friendship would be quickly broken. That the British naturally resent any interference upon the part of Americans with the constitutional development of the British Empire is equally self-evident. Yet, strange as it may seem to us, the conviction is growing in the British self-governing dominions that the people of the United States are hindering British constitutional progress.

Gen. Hertzog, leader of the Boer intransigeants, delivered a speech the other day in the course of which he said that "America has kicked our equal status to pieces." He made this observation do service as an argument for a South African republic.

The same kind of talk has been heard in Canada lately. Many Canadians profess to believe that it was official Washington that put a damper on their plans to establish a Canadian embassy in the United States. Three Canadian governments have appropriated funds for setting up the embassy in the American capital and the British government has long since given its approval. Yet the appointment of a representative has been mysteriously delayed.

In Australia, as elsewhere among the self-governing dominions, the "six-votes-to-one" argument against the League of Nations still rankles. Australians find it difficult to understand why any American would object to the commonwealth being admitted to the League on an equality with, say, Panama.

Most disappointing of all, from the standpoint of the dominions, was President Harding's failure to invite them to send representatives to the Washington conference. The precedent had already been established, they maintain, and their chagrin at being ignored was genuine. The fact that Lloyd George rose to the occasion and named prominent colonials to sit with the British delegation did not satisfy them. It was generally felt that a backward step had been taken. Even such a staunch friend of America as Gen. Smuts pointed out that every civilized nation in the world except the United States has recognized the equal status of the British dominions. It was the attitude of the American President toward dominion representation at Washington, more than anything else, which turned suspicion into conviction that Washington was sabotaging the Canadian embassy project.

What effect the creation of the Irish Free State will have on America's attitude toward the constitution of the British Empire is problematical. Some of those who were loudest in shouting for "self-determination" in Ireland also overworked the "six-votes-to-one" argument. They are now in a difficult position. They must either find new arguments against the League or admit that they oppose it because Ireland is now entitled to membership.

SPROUL'S WISE DECISION.

Gov. Sproul has not disappointed the expectations of those of his fellow-citizens who felt confident that his own sense of what was honorable and right in the discharge of a great public trust would prevent him from yielding to the temptation offered him—under the guise of an urgent political emergency—to promote his own political interests at a price he could not pay and retain untarnished his self-respect. His decision not to resign to permit his own appointment to the United States Senate by Mr. Beidleman was an eminently wise one. It will add immensely to his own prestige and to his chances of a triumphant success should he decide to be a candidate for the full term at the coming primary.—[Philadelphia Ledger.

OUR SUNNY FRIEND

In Quest of the Ultimate.

At twenty-three Jones met Maria
And straightway did adore;
They quarreled about the cut and style of clothing that she wore.
At twenty-six came Beatrix, he loved her, suffering cats!
But had to pass her up at last,
she wore such awful hats.
At thirty Hebe May he wooed, then ditched her, she had temper.
It was at forty-two he wooed and won and WED Jane Kemper.

Jane, too, had had some narrow escapes! at twenty Henry Schlobb;
He won her with his poetry, then lost her—with his job.
At twenty-two Job Hendershot, who sailed the roaring sea,
Would have been hers but for two drinks he took one day, ah me!
At twenty-eight, for he was rich,
she all but wed John Bones,
They quit because of politics; at thirty-five came Jones.

Yes, Jones he went and married
Jane although her eyes were weak,
Although her taste in duds was queer, her taste in hats unique.
She had some temper, too, he found, but Jones he carried through Because Maria let him, and his age was forty-two.
He couldn't write her poetry,
knew little of romance,
He seldom cleaned his finger nails, and rarely pressed his pants.
Yes, Jane she went and married
Jones, for thirty-five had passed her,
And it had been some seven years since anybody asked her.

That Ever Ambiguous English.

Prof. Dink Beeson says he had a remarkable example of the wonderful elasticity of the English language back in Missouri once.

He was fixing up some heads for the country paper he was editing at the time and he had run pretty short of type that was big enough to make headlines out of, and there were two stories clamoring for the aforesaid heads. One was about a wedding that took place the day before and one was about a wedding that was to have taken place had not the bridegroom-elect skipped the country an hour before wedding time.

The Prof worried over the matter quite a bit until he discovered that he could run the two stories under one heading, "Without a Hitch."

Where She Drew the Line.

He held her in his arms first in the ballroom
And then, he held her for a breathing space
Beneath the mistletoe one Christmas evening.
Ah, how it made his heart's blood madly race,
And then he taught her riding in his auto
How to nestle near without a frowning face.
But she said, when he tried to squeeze her
On the Venice walk, "Oh, please sir,
My waist is not a public parking place."

Clint Says How Can a Fellow Tell?

Clint Kinnamon has never been much of a reader himself and he has never paid any particular attention to what his family read until the other night he went up to the Y.M.C.A. to a father-and-son banquet and Prof. A. Judd Hickey, who teaches literature at the high school, spoke.

Well, the Prof said that fathers ought always to keep an eye on what their boys read.

"Weed out everything silly or sensational," he warned, "and everything that glorifies dishonesty in any way."

Next day being Sunday Clint decided to follow the bird's advice and he went into Clint, junior's, room.

He picked up one of three books lying on the stand and read a few pages. The hero tried to pass himself off for a girl.

"A dishonest thing to do," decided Clint and he laid it aside.

In the second book he found an account of a bloody scrimmage between some pirates and a fellow named Jim Hawkins.

"Surely sensational enough to be properly kept from the young," Clint decided.

The third book was poetry, or its author seemed to think it was poetry although it seemed shy of the rhymes that Clint had always associated with poetry.

The first thing he found was this:

"Stranger if you passing meet me and desire to speak to me why should you not speak to me and why should I not speak to you?"

"I call that downright silly," said Clint and he carried the three books downstairs.

That night at supper Clint got ready to lay down the law.

"Where did these books come from?" he asked.

"Huckleberry Finn, Treasure Island and Whitman," said the boy, "Old Prof. Hickey told us to study them for a month."

RIPPLING RHYMES.

IN A HURRY.

Well-framed statutes little heeding, laughing all the laws to scorn, still the fathead fan goes speeding, honking blithely on his horn. Through the streets of thronging traffic he goes like the bolt of doom; and the epitaph is graphic that we place upon his tomb. Lives of speed fiends should remind him death awaits in many styles; but the cloud of dust behind him shows he's hitting sixty miles; "let no speed law halt or stay me," all his actions seem to rave; and the choir sings "Now I lay me," when we gather round his grave. When he reads the daily papers, with their lists of auto wrecks, he must see such bonehead capers lead at last to broken necks; through the crowds we see him slipping, throwing up the dust and rocks; and our tears are sadly dripping when we lay him in his box. He is sane in other matters, he is wise in many things, but he ripe the road to tatters and the landscape into strings; all in vain our admonition, vain our protests and appeals, and the sad and stern mortician sorts his fragments from the wheels. In the boneyard he is sleeping, far from all the traffic's roar, and his maiden aunts are weeping for the nut who speeds no more.

EDITORIAL OPINION.

The Federal courts have held that State prohibition laws must conform to the Federal law, and in the event of conflict the latter prevails. It is the duty of all State and local officials to enforce the Federal prohibition law regardless of any State statute inconsistent with the Federal law. Thus a State Legislature might lift the ban on light wines and beers on the theory that the constitutional prohibition amendment is directed only against strong drink—whisky, brandy and the like. But, so long as a Federal law prohibited the manufacture and use of all drinks having more than a very low alcoholic content, the milder State law would be of no avail.—[Chicago News.

The majority of the country's population is disturbed, and very much disturbed, over the forcing of a farmer into the Federal Reserve Board. To this majority it looks as bad to have him forced in by one method as to have him forced in by another method, when the reason for forcing him in is chiefly if not solely that he is a farmer.—[New York Herald.

It is the staff organization of the Regular Army upon which we must rely for the expansion of the national defense in time of war, and that organization will be sacrificed in any drastic reduction of the regular force. A staff organization requisite for a force of 150,000 men is, in the best military opinion, essential to safety. To provide for less will be to repeat a history which speaks more for the good luck of the United States in war than for its prudence.—[Kansas City Star.

The agrarian assault in Congress on the Federal Reserve Board can avail nothing to help the farming interests of the country, but it can serve mightily to destroy public confidence in the Federal reserve system and disrupt it.—[New York World.

The hands of the Lord, to which Clemenceau commits his beloved France, are exceedingly full in these soul-trying times. Humanity upon earth is trying to give a watchful Providence as much concern as if our little speck of star-dust in space were the vast entirety of the universe. Man's own conceit is boundless as the stellar heavens.—[Philadelphia Ledger.

If competition for the services of President Harding's aides continues, who is to say where the line will finally be drawn? It is even possible (although such a prospect requires a strong imagination) that eventually the Vice-Presidency may be raised above the level of the Chautauqua platform, and that the incumbent, whoever he may be, will, because of his new duties, be able to climb into the sun sufficiently so that the man in the street can tell the Vice-President's name offhand without having to consult the Congressional directory.—[Detroit Free Press.

To participate whole-heartedly in the campaign for the establishment of the Wilson Foundation, one need not be of Mr. Wilson's political following or an unquestioning believer in Mr. Wilson's methods. The tribute is less to a person than to an ideal. And in the working out of that ideal—world peace through international co-operation with America playing her part—this country is now engaged.—[New York Evening Post.

AMNESIA CASE MAN IDENTIFIED

Veteran Who Lost Memory Proves to be Utah Educator.

The identity of the man whose mind became a blank about three weeks ago and who has been under observation at the psychopathic ward of the County Hospital was established at 3 p.m. yesterday as Joseph Day, an instructor in a high school at Woodcross, Utah.

A brother-in-law, J. A. Hatch, who resides in Santa Ana, testified to the identity of the patient, a release was given and he was taken to Santa Ana. C. C. Hatch of Orange also identified the man.

Mr. Day is 30 years of age and is married. When found he wore a button of the American Legion and it was through the efforts of members of Victory Post No. 54 that relatives were able to come to his assistance. He served during the recent war as a sergeant of the marines and was stationed in Siberia and China.

CALL MEETING OF FRUIT MEN.

acting a little bit more practical for the sake of the industry.

JUICE STILL GOOD.

The opinion was freely expressed by Harry and Frank Chase of the National Orange Company, Riverside, and various other prominent growers and shippers, that much of the fruit showing crystals could be shipped, sold and consumed before it would show marked signs of damage, and that it ought to be shipped, because it is full of good sweet juice, and is practically as good as much "nipped" fruit shipped from exposed districts each season.

F. W. Reed, chief deputy of State Director Hecke, explained that he and his State and county deputies have only sought to live up to the rules laid down by Mr. Hecke, and that they will gladly abide by whatever regulation the great body of citrus growers are desirous of adhering to. Mr. Reed explained that within a week or two the growers can be guided by the drying-out indications and will not have to take cognizance of crystals.

DECISION IS URGED.

The shippers expressed a desire to settle the question of crystals as quickly as possible because, they explained, time is vital in getting the near-good fruit to market. They declared that not less than 150 carloads a day should be rolling to maret, and that by lifting the ban a trifle this could be accomplished to the benefit of the growers and shippers, without doing the consumer an injustice.

Among those in attendance at the meeting were C. M. Brown of Redlands, Harry Chase of Riverside, Harry Cleghorn of Highlands, T. H. Peppers of this city and D. L. Langford of Redlands, all of whom have been arrested on a charge of having shipped unsound oranges out of the State.

Mr. Brown explained that it would be easy to ship his oranges if necessary. He said he could get around State regulation by consigning each car to London, for export, and then diverting it to markets in this country after it left the confines of the State, but he explained that he prefers to cooperate with the State authorities if they will assume a reasonable attitude in the present emergency.

ARIZONANS OUT TO WIN PRIZES.

Town's Board of Trade Snds Beauty Entry.

Pretty Girl Brings in Her Own Photograph.

Fifteen Hundred Dollars to be Given Victor.

A pretty girl, charming in manner, and demure, entered the office of the manager of The Times Beauty Quest yesterday and hesitatingly made inquiry as to the rules governing the search. After being fully advised by the manager, this pretty maid took from beneath the folds of her wrap her photograph, and became an entrant in the quest, and a contender for the $1500 first prize or one of the other prizes totaling $3400.

There was not the slightest reason why this girl should have been the least timid in entering the quest. She is pretty, and her photograph is one that properly belongs in this quest.

From over in Arizona comes a letter from the Board of Trade of one of the cities, entering the photograph of a Miss M., stenographer in the board's office. Not only does this Arizona city seek recognition for the girl whose photograph has been entered, but it hopes to capture the first prize and be known as the home of the most beautiful girl in Southern California and Arizona.

DON'T BECOME DISCOURAGED.

If your photograph has not been published, do not become discouraged. Space will prevent publication of all of the photographs received, although as many as possible will appear from day to day. The fact that your photograph has not been published is not the slightest indication that you may not win either the first prize, or one of the numerous other awards.

The earlier you send your photograph to the manager of The Times Beauty Quest, the earlier the board of artists, which is to make the final awards will be able to announce a decision after the close of the search on the 22nd inst.

THE PRIZES AND ZONES.

The Beauty Quest will be conducted in six zones in the Southwest. The three most beautiful women in each zone will be selected and awarded $500, $100 and $50 as first, second and third prizes. Then from the six first-prize winners the most beautiful will be selected and awarded the grand prize of $1000 in addition to her $500 zone prize.

The Southwest is divided into zones as follows:

(6.) The State of Arizona.

Prizes will be awarded in each zone as follows:

First, $500.
Second, $100.

HERE ARE THE RULES.

STATE PLOWS CLEARING SNOW

stretch where the high winds had driven the snow in deep drifts. A gang of ninety men of the commission were busy making a double track and at other points detours. All of the tourists that were snowbound since Sunday and Monday have reached either Bakersfield or Los Angeles in safety.

The county work gangs are making a single track from this end of the route with frequent sidings.

Linemen of the Southern California Telephone Company, who have been in the snow of the mountains since Sunday yesterday morning completed their repair work and the trunk lines between Los Angeles and Bakersfield were open. The breaks had been caused by the weight of the snow on the wires plus the heavy winds, and in some cases the force of falling trees.

ALL RESCUED.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BAKERSFIELD, Feb. 2.—All of the people who were snowbound on the Ridge Route during the storm of this week, have been accounted for, it was announced today by the Automobile Club of Southern California.

Tourists who were stranded on the Ridge until last night began arriving in this city today. Although the rescue crew battled its way through the entire pass, the highway is not open to travel. Motorists en route south from here are being directed over Tehachepi Pass by way of Tehachepi, Mojave and Lancaster. This road is in fair condition, but dangerously slippery between Tehachepi and Lancaster, necessitating the use of chains.

It is expected that the Ridge Route will be negotiable by Saturday. A few auto parties left this city today, intending to work their way through the pass, and it is thought that any machines that get through will wear down the snowdrifts so that passage gradually will become easier.

DETOUR IS CLOSED.

Pending the clearing of the Ridge Route, the temporary detour by way of Panama, Old River and the Maricopa cut-off, made by the Highway Commission for use during construction work near Rose Station, is not being used. The Automobile Club was advised that under direction of Supervisor J. I. Wagy, the detour road is being sanded and placed in as good condition as possible, and when it is opened for the State highway a county truck will be kept available for motorists who encounter difficulties in negotiating it.

Among those who endured the suffering experienced by the fifty persons caught in the blizzard Sunday between Lebec and the station of Forest Ranger V. C. Delapp, and who spent two harrowing nights and days in the midst of the raging storm, were Mr. and Mrs. C. F. "Bert" Cofer, R. W. DeCastro, R. D. Law and J. D. Copperdredge, of this city.

Cofer, who is connected with the Kern Grocery Company, his wife and the other men arrived here safely today. They relate a tale of horror interspersed with the expressions of gratitude to Supervisor J. I. Wagy and his relief party composed of American Legion men for their great work in succoring the stranded motorists.

CALLED BY MESSAGE.

The Cofers and DeCastro went to the mountains from here late Sunday in answer to an urgent message from Law and Copperdredge, traveling representatives of the two wholesale concerns, and battled the snow until late in the night after meeting the northbound motorists at a point one quarter of a mile from the ranger's cabin.

The Bakersfield people slept in their car the rest of the night and in the morning struggled to the cabin where they stayed until help came Tuesday morning.

The scarcity of food and clothing was vividly illustrated by DeCastro, who told of eating two pancakes made without shortening or several necessary ingredients, a spoonful or so of syrup and a bacon sandwich in the three days they were in the grip of the white pall, and of sleeping in a barn Monday night.

All members of the rescued party of local people came through without injury.

SAW HIS SHADOW.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PORTERVILLE, Feb. 2.—Residents of Tulare county will have to gather a little more wood and order a new supply of coal if the old tradition of the "ground hog and his shadow" still holds.

Old Sol beamed all day and a maximum and minimum temperature of 48 deg. and 28 deg. was recorded, according to Weather Observer Ross C. Barnard.

DIPLOMAS GIVEN HIGH SCHOOL PUPILS.

FIVE GRADUATING CLASSES CONDUCT MIDYEAR COMMENCEMENTS.

The achievements of modern education as typified by the high schools of Los Angeles passed muster yesterday. Midyear commencement exercises were held simultaneously at 8 p.m. at Manual Arts, Lincoln, Hollywood, Franklin and Berendo Junior high schools.

Not only were young men and women given diplomas as passports into channels of higher education or the activities of the world, but also the achievements of undergraduates made a showing of which the city may well be proud. Music was furnished in each case by school orchestral organizations; glee clubs sang, vocational certificates, Reserve Officers' Training Corps discharges were given, Alpha and Ephebian memberships were announced and solos, both instrumental and vocal by students, marked the occasions and showed the diversity of accomplishments that are born of the educational system.

At Manual Arts Dr. J. Whitcomb Brougher, pastor of Temple Baptist Church, delivered an address on "Keys and Keyholes;" Dr. A. E. Wilson presented the class and Elliott Craig, member of the Board of Education, presented the diplomas, which were acknowledged by Sydney Newcomb, president of the class.

Fannie A. Bortrager discussed "Present-day Life for Women" at Lincoln exercises; Ethel Percy Andrus, principal, presented the class and M. C. Bettinger of the Board of Education, conferred the diplomas. Acceptance was acknowledged by Walter F. Doron class president.

VISITORS BARRED FROM COUNTY JAIL.

ALTERATIONS TO BE MADE WHICH WILL KEEP CALLERS OUT TEN DAYS.

Acting on orders issued Wednesday by Sheriff Traeger directing changes in the County Jail, it was announced yesterday by Jailer Cronin that visitors would not be allowed in the institution during the next ten days or two weeks. It was stated that no one but actual attorneys who have a right to see their clients would be permitted to visit prisoners during the time required for making alterations.

Sheriff Traeger

It is planned by Sheriff Traeger to construct screens, through which visitors may converse with prisoners. Sheriff Traeger, Undersheriff Biscailuz and Supervisor Bean visited the jail yesterday and made definite plans for necessary changes so that visitors may not mingle with prisoners. It was stated that such a condition, which has existed since the jail was built, permitted the ruse by which Howard Reed and Ralph De Voe escaped from the jail.

KERNEL COOTIE—THE PROBLEM

CHARACTER ANALYSIS

By Dr. James M. Heady.

[This is the twenty-seventh of a series of practical daily lessons in the science of character analysis—the determination of the facts of character by the appearance of physical points, by handwriting and other outer characteristics of any given man or woman. By them you can judge for what work in life you are fitted or, if an employer, how to size up an applicant intelligently, to spot the weak and the strong links in your organization, where to promote and where to get rid of. Dr. Heady is a national expert of twenty years' experience in this line. He has analyzed some 15,000 people and has written and delivered many books and lectures on the subject. He studied under Dr. Hugo Munsterberg of Harvard, head of the Boston Vocational Guidance Bureau, the first in the country. During the war Dr. Heady was on the examining staff of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation. He lectured at the San Francisco World's Fair and opened the first free employment office and vocational guidance bureau in Los Angeles. He was instrumental in bringing about the State Free Employment Bureau and has acted in an advisory capacity to many large employers.—Ed.]

The Normal, or Well-Balanced Head.

Located in the region of the crown of the head are what are known as the selfish sentiments, cautiousness, approbativeness (or a desire for the approval of others,) self-esteem and firmness.

A person in whom cautiousness is overly developed has a head that is especially prominent at the very center of the crown. One absolutely devoid of cautiousness would be fearless, and the characteristic could be easily seen. (See No. 3.)

Approbativeness is a desirable faculty which we find to be lacking in the criminal type, and can be recognized in a person by the development of the area designated.

Self-esteem of the right order, which is entirely different in the main from egotism, is the faculty which, when fully developed, characterizes a person who likes to rule because he is capable. This sentiment or faculty is usually coupled with firmness, and when the four traits that we have enumerated are well balanced we find an individual with dignity, ambition, prudence and stability.

The semi-intellectual sentiments are located in the region of the temples in the upper and forward side head (see No. 5.) They are constructiveness, ideality, imitation, mirthfulness, human nature, and agreeableness. When well developed in a person we find that they supply the artistic, mechanical, conforming and refining elements of character.

The selfish propensities are located on the side-head about the ears. (see No. 2.) When these faculties are well developed, they give width to the head in that region. These are the characteristics that are disclosed by a person in whom this area is developed. They love life and are able to hold on to it. They are inclined to be combative, destructive, acquisitive and secretive. In some people, of course, one faculty predominates. For illustration, a surgeon is compelled to have some degree of destructiveness in his make-up. If this destructiveness is coupled with kindness and human nature and other faculties, he is a benefit to humanity, but if a person with the destructive faculty is lacking in the propensities that would give him balance, he would become an anarchist or other type of criminal. Likewise combativeness is a trait that is either for good or ill, depending upon the development of other traits of character.

Last we consider the domestic propensities, (see No. 1.) These faculties are located in the posterior part of the head, and they relate to people in domestic and social life. An understanding of the characteristics as disclosed by the development of this area is all important. I know of no other way in which a person who desires to become a character analyst can form his conclusions regarding these all-important characteristics except by a study of the area that I am about to describe.

Beginning at the lower end of the line of the group of mental organs that I have classified as domestic propensities, is the faculty of amativeness. It is an index of physical love between the sexes and is a factor for good or evil, depending upon the balance of the individual. The other faculties in this group located in this area, and depending in a large measure upon the force of the development of amativeness, are conjugal love, parental love, friendship, and inhabitiveness. The degree of the development of these faculties is an index of the character of the person.

Tomorrow we shall study what are classified as big, little, high and low heads.

The number of letters addressed to Dr. Heady asking for individual character analyses has become so large that The Times has arranged with him to make such analyses for those sending in a three-month subscription to The Times. This may be either a new subscription or a renewal of an old one. Send name, address and subscription, paid in advance, with your request for an individual character analysis and a blank will be sent you to fill out. Address the Circulation Department, Times, Los Angeles.

SPORTS MOTORING FILMLAND DRAMA

PROFESSIONAL TAINT REACHES INTO THE UNIVERSITY OF IOWA.

FOOTBALLERS DENY CHARGES.

Varsity Gridders Accused of Professionalism.

Locke and Devine Declare Their Innocence.

Say They Did Not Receive Pay for Playing Ball.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

IOWA CITY (Iowa) Feb. 2.—Denial of published charges that Gordon Locke, all-western fullback, and Aubrey Devine, all-American quarterback, members of the University of Iowa's 1921 championship team, had played professional baseball, was made here today by Prof. Lambert, chairman of the eligibility committee of the university's athletic board.

Prof. Lambert called Devine and Locke before him this morning to hear of the charges reported to have been made by Herbert Hoover, coach of the Taylorville (Ill.) Independents. Locke flatly denied the charges that he had played professional ball. He said he had received many offers, but had never accepted any of them. Devine, in his statement, also denied the charges.

CEDAR RAPIDS (Iowa) Feb. 2.—H. Johnson, president of the Kanawha Baseball Association, asserted today that Gordon Locke, fullback and captain-elect of the Iowa University football team, had played with the Kanawha semi-professional baseball team last summer, according to reports of investigators to university officials.

KANAWHA (Iowa) Feb. 2.—Gordon Locke, all-western fullback and captain-elect of the University of Iowa's football team, on a visit to this town of 800 last summer, acted as catcher in a number of baseball games with the Kanawha baseball team, according to Oscar H. Johnson, Kanawha druggist and ex-president of the club. Mr. Johnson said that so far as he knows, Locke was never paid for his services.

DECATUR (Ill.) Feb. 2.—Grover Hoover, coach of the Taylorville Independents, absolutely denies in a statement to the Decatur Review, this morning, that he had given any interview to a Chicago paper in which he charged Aubrey Devine and Gordon Locke, of Iowa, or any other big ten athlete, with being professionals.

"I am tired of the whole mess," said Hoover, "and many of the statements charged to me the past few days have been absolutely without foundation."

Pasadena	1	2	.333

Lincoln	0	2	.000
L. A. High	0	3	.000

Games today: Pasadena at Hollywood, L. A. High at Long Beach, Jefferson at Manual Arts, Polytechnic at Lincoln.

Something is due to pop in the City League basketball situation. So far this season only one upset has been recorded—L. A. High's surprising victory over Pasadena—and if the preps run true to form the dopsters are about to receive a rude shock. High school athletes have a knack of doing the unusual, so the wisest thing to do is to expect the unexpected.

Long Beach, Manual Arts, Hollywood and Pasadena began winning games at the start of the season, and except for the Bulldogs, are on top yet. Today's bunch of games shouldn't make much difference as far as the standings go, but there is room enough to push over the dope bucket.

If Pasadena's casaba demons hope to stay in the running for the City League title they will have to trim Hollywood's rapid quintet in their game this afternoon on the Foothiller's floor. Comparative scores give the movie city men a slight edge, but a hot scrap is anticipated by both squads.

Long Beach entertains the Pioneers this evening, although the Jackrabbits will undoubtedly enjoy the entertainment more than their guests. According to all reports the beach city has turned out a squad equally as fast as the one that took State honors last season, and Long Beach is favored for the City League title.

Unless the Democrats revert to their system of the recent football season, Manual should defeat Jefferson without much exertion. The Toilers are especially anxious to stamp out the memory of their trouncing at the hands of the Democratic football team, and won't let overconfidence interfere.

Lincoln made Hollywood sit up and look interested last week, and if the Railsplitters play the brand of ball they displayed then, Poly will have a hard time of it this afternoon. The game will be played in Lincoln's new gym.

Following are the probable line-ups:

At Hollywood: Pasadena.		Hollywood.
Jarred	F.	Archer
Burlingham	F.	Douglas
Black	C.	Rich
Stark	G.	Dorsey
Downs	G.	Nason
At Lincoln: Poly.		Lincoln.
Koelter	F.	Thompson

At Manual Arts: Jefferson.		Manual Arts.

At Long Beach: L. A. High.		Long Beach.

Mercury Five Tangles With Gobs Tonight.

The L.A.A.C. basketball aggregation will be seen in action tonight for the first time in quite a while when the Mercury representatives take on the melon manipulators from the U.S.S. Tennessee, in the club gym.

In the recent fleet championship tournament the Tennessee five was barely nosed out by the victorious U.S.S. California squad, which is an indication of the sailors' class. The doings will commence at 8:30 p.m., and Charlie Keppen announces that the public will be admitted.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WALLA WALLA (Wash.) Feb 2.—Carl L. Nelson of Walla Walla won his wrestling match from Ray McCarroll of Pendleton, Ore., last night after fifty-two minutes of wrestling, when he clamped a toe hold on his opponent and tore the ligament of McCarroll's leg so bad that the Pendleton man had to give up. Chris Geiek flopped Frank Allison of Portland twice, taking eighteen minutes for each fall. A reverse neck lock that shut off Allison's wind won.

Threatens to Quit Baseball.

Says He Feels the Urge of a Business Career.

None other than Charley Deal, one of the six players turned over by the Chicago Cubs to Los Angeles. Batted .290 and led both major leagues in field last year, and would look mighty good in an Angel uniform. But Deal, who is in Los Angeles, says he'll drift East tomorrow and go into business because nobody has offered him enough money to play baseball. Anyway, some of the big-league clubs haven't waived on him, so it's just as well Angel rooters didn't start to crow.

DIEGEL-BOWLER VICTORY.

Golfers From New Orleans-San Antonio Successfully Pair in Amateur-Pro. Medal Play.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 2.—Leo Diegel, New Orleans professional, paired with J. L. Bowler of San Antonio, today won the amateur-professional medal play, the first event of the Texas open championship tournament over the Brackendridge municipal links here. Bob McDonald, Chicago, and F. J. Jordan, San Antonio, were second.

Diegel and Bowler turned in a best ball score of 68 on a course with a par of 71. McDonald turned in a score of 69, which also proved to be the best ball score for his team.

Tom Lally, San Antonio Country Club, paired with Commodore Bryan Heard of Houston, finished third with a best ball score of 70. Fifty-four amateur - professional teams entered the event.

Gene Sarazen of Pittsburg, who recently defeated Jock Hutchison, British open champion, eight up, was one of the number that carried a large gallery.

The playing of Mortie Dutra, professional from Del Monte, Cal., was one of the surprises of the day, when he turned in a score of 72. Dutra was paired with Lamar Zeligson, a local amateur. Tom Boys, Algonquin Country Club, St. Louis; Abe Espinosa, San Francisco; Hutt and Ernest Martin, Los Angeles; Alfred Lesperare, Kansas City; Charles Hall, Birmingham, and Frank Adams, Gulfport, Miss., showed the spectators that they will figure strongly in the running tomorrow.

TO TRY GLASS BACKSTOPS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BERKELEY, Feb. 2. — University of California's basketball team may go to Stanford University tonight to practice in the new Stanford basketball pavilion in preparation for the first game of the big series there against the Cardinals Saturday night.

The pavilion has glass backstops for the baskets, something new in the West, and the local men feel they will be playing under a handicap if they do not practice throwing against the backstops before the game.

The second game of the Stanford-California series will be played in the Oakland Auditorium February 23. If a third game is necessary, it will be played March 3.

APPLEBY WINS AT BALK LINE.

NEW YORK, Feb. 2. — Francis S. Appleby of New York won the tenth game of the national class A, 18.2 balk line championship tournament under auspices of the National Association of Amateur Billiard Players today. The holder of the eastern title defeated Edward W. Gardner, Montclair, N. J., 300 to 183.

M'LAIN WANTS TRIPLE CLASH.

Advocates Three-Team Meet on the Same Day.

If Plan Succeeds Event Will Come Off March 11.

Oxy Manager Secures Assent of California Tech.

If present plans go through, U.S.C. will hook up in a track meet with Occidental on March 11. This is the day Oxy and Caltek are scheduled to come together, but the great idea brewing in the mind of Manager McLain of the Tigers is to have all three teams run and jump and hurdle on the same day.

In other words, Occidental will meet U.S.C. and Caltek at one and the same time. What athletes from U.S.C. do in the 100-yard dash for instance will have no bearing on the Caltek-Oxy scramble for points. Only the Tiger point column will be affected by the doings of the Cardinal and Gold wearers.

PLAN IS O. K.

This plan is satisfactory to U.S.C., Graduate Manager Gwynn Wilson said yesterday, and all McLain had to do to put his idea over was to secure the assent of Caltek. This he did late yesterday afternoon.

Oxy has a fine chance of licking U.S.C. this year, Paddock or no Paddock, but the February 11 date was weeks too early to suit the Trojans, who are just getting over a siege of "exes," and have had none of the advantages of early season training.

The U.S.C.-Occidental meet in conjunction with the Occidental-Caltek meet will be held on Patterson Field in Eagle Rock.

KILLEFER REFUSES TO WORRY

Feels Confident Deal Will be Seen in Angel Uniform When Ball Season Opens.

Along the Rialto yesterday afternoon many Angel baseball fans were concerned over the report that Charley Deal, who, it is expected, will hold down third base for the Pacific Coast champions this year, will leave for the East tomorrow and probably go into business in Chicago unless he gets what he regards as a fair two-year contract. Fans feared that Charley might slip through the Seraphs' clutches and thus leave the club with a crippled infield.

However according to Red Killefer, who was queried last night on the Deal proposition, Charley will be seen at Washington Park this year at the difficult corner.

IS POSITIVE.

The Angel manager was rather positive in his assertion and he, more than any other man in Los Angeles, should be in a position to give out the right dope about the crack third-sacker. The general belief in local circles is, that Deal is holding out for a stiffer contract than that which has been tendered him by the Angel management. Killefer has set his heart on Charley and feels, with his acquisition to the fold, that the infield of the champions of 1921 will be of a stonewall character.

As a rule, when players are taken out of the big leagues for the minors, the waiver objection is usually surmounted. William Wrigley, Jr., who owns both the Cubs and the Angels, has probably given assurances to Killefer that Deal will play on the Coast this year.

TOMMY GIBBONS LICKS McCARTHY.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEGRO BOXER DIES AFTER A KNOCKOUT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 2. — Sailor Miller, a local negro boxer, died tonight shortly after having been knocked out by Spike Boyer, another negro in the first round of their six-round match. Miller was unconscious when carried from the ring.

KERR IS NOT SURPRISED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PITTSBURG (Pa.) Feb. 2.—Andrew Kerr, coach at the University of Pittsburg, said tonight that he was not surprised at the dispatches from Stanford University that Glenn Warner, head coach of Pittsburg, had been appointed advisory coach for football at the California institution.

Warner may not be in position to accept the offer immediately, however, Kerr stated, owing to his contract with the Panthers for two years more.

Kerr, who, it is reported, will succeed Warner, has been with Pittsburg for eight years, as coach in track, basketball and football.

There appears to be nothing in football rules and regulations to prevent the more powerful institutions proselyting among the players of the lesser colleges.

I do not know how general the practice is, but there are frequent reports of such activities, and one specific case has been called to my attention.

Ed Suggett, fullback and open field runner of the Poets, is said to have been approached recently by an emissary from a nationally known university, and asked to attend.

He is said to have been offered free tuition, dorm, board and a good job on the side. These, I believe, are the usual inducements. Suggett turned the rather attractive opportunity down. Other good players in the Southern California conference also have been approached, it is alleged.

Players, however, dislike to make such a change chiefly because of the rule which prevents them from playing for a year after making the shift. Possibly it is all for the best, but would it not be more to the interests of the game to force all colleges and universities to look to high schools for their future varsity material?

In this respect baseball is more finely organized. Tampering with the players of any team in organized baseball by a rival is strictly forbidden. But we aren't saying it isn't done.

According to Les Henry, a California alumnus, an attempt may be made to establish a rule in the Pacific Coast conference to permit a college athlete to engage during vacation in professional sports providing these sports are not the ones in which he engages or specializes in college.

A football player would not be permitted to play professional football, but would be allowed to earn needed money by playing base-

STRUNK MAY GO TO YANKS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Feb. 2.—Talk of a deal whereby Amos Strunk, outfielder of the Chicago White Sox may go to the New York Yankees, was renewed today about the baseball rialto. It was said that a three-cornered deal might be arranged shortly whereby the Yankees will obtain pitching talent from one of the other clubs in the league in exchange for some of their players or by purchase and then complete the deal by sending the pitchers to President Comiskey for Strunk.

It is well known that Owner Comiskey wants pitchers; also that he could spare Strunk providing the Yankees are successful in getting the twirlers to complete the deal. Strunk is wanted by the New York team to fill the shoes of Babe Ruth, who will not be in the line-up at the start of the season because of his suspension by Judge Landis, commissioner of baseball, which resulted from his barnstorming trip after the world series.

Famous Wrestler Has it on Sullivan When Fighter Threatens Him.

GRAPPLER WINS MORAL VICTORY OVER JOHN L.

Boston Strong Boy Easily Handled by Whistler During Brawl in San Fransicso Saloon.

BY ED O'MALLEY.

Sponsors for the fighter against the wrestler in the much-discussed subject, "Who would win in a scrap—a boxer or a wrestler?" probably will hike to rear seats when they digest the story of Ben Sturges, an old soldier of San Francisco. The veteran run up with a copy of The Times some few days ago and, glimpsing the views of several boxers on the moot question, sat down and wrote a case in point to Walter Miller, the famous wrestler.

The narrative has to do with a meeting between Clarence Whistler the great Australian wrestler of almost two generations ago and John L. Sullivan, regarded by many as the daddy of all heavyweight fighters. The result of this near-bout was a moral victory for Whistler. Sturges's story in substance is about as follows:

SAUNTERS IN.

During the spring of 1884 John L., who happened to be in San Francisco, about this time on his tour of the country, when he was offering $1000 to any person whom he couldn't knock out in four rounds, sauntered into a saloon near the old Mechanics pavilion. John was in his cups and ugly. He was hurting to start something and needed but a little incentive to cut in—clean the whole place out and then handsomely reimburse the distracted saloon keeper. This was one of Sullivan's pet stunts.

Alongside the bar stood Whistler who liked nothing better than flicking a toe or heel on the third rail. Both men were accompanied by several of their followers. John L., in all his glory, shouted in that deep, hoarse voice of his "fill 'em up for the house." He then leaned toward Whistler and with a partly drawn down mouth which always proclaims the rowdy, shrilled at the wrestler, "say, young fellow, won't you join us?"

Billy Muldoon, the champion grappler of his time, who was with Sullivan, pulled the fighter toward him and half whispered, "that's Clarence Whistler, John." With a malicious sneer Sullivan bent his brow and snorted, "so youse are one of those fellows who work an hour or two to get a fellow's shoulders to the mat. Why, a plug ugly like youse, I could put to the mat with one clout on the jib." Whistler turned scarlet—stood nonplussed for a moment, then rallied quickly, and determinedly stepped close to the infuriated scrapper. In somewhat loud and distinct tones he cried:

"Well—here's a man you can't knock out, so square away and let loose." The challenge cut John L. to the quick and drew fire from his eyes. Muldoon grabbed the big ruffian by the sleeve warning, "Oh—let up John, we didn't come here to create a disturbance." Whistler's color immediately left him, his face turning pallid. He trembled with nervous energy and stood like a panther ready to pounce upon its prey.

SOBERS HIM.

"So youse don't think I can paste youse, eh?" whined John L.

"Not in a hundred years," retorted Clarence. Some quickly whispered words from Muldoon must have shot a sense of intelligence into the fighter's brain for he suddenly sobered—drew a puckered lip and in a somewhat tamed voice, purred, "What would youse do if I let loose?"

"It all depends how damned mad I am," shot back the grappler, with firmly set teeth. The saloon by this time was flooded with a bunch of tough hangers-on and rowdies.

"Youse are a big bluff," ventured Sullivan, while his followers laughed derisively.

"Bluff, nothing," was the quick rejoinder, "you just make a movement to hit me and I will either break your damned wrist or wrench an arm out of socket until you howl like a cur dog. Damn you—why don't you strike—try it and I'll lay you on the shelf for some time."

Sullivan's look suddenly changed from contempt to sodden astonishment. He gave vent to a gruff laugh and then cupping his hand on his mouth turned toward Muldoon as if to whisper something contemptuous before sailing into his man. Muldoon fairly alarmed, threw his arms around Sullivan and drew him down the bar rail.

It required little strength to handle the famous John L. at this moment, which was proof most positive that some kind of judgment had augured its way into the befuddled senses of the fighter and made him think better of Whistler's pretensions. Be that as it may, the wrestler won a moral victory over the famous Boston Strong Boy and the stunt was the talk around San Francisco sporting hangouts for many days afterward.

Farmer Bill Bacon,

THE SPORTING LIFE

BY W. E. PHELON.

THEN AS NOW.

The Greeks and Romans, as they watched their games,
Shouted tremendously, with vast applause
For those who showed true courage, man to man,
Or standing calm before the Hon's jaws.
And how they hooted—what a frightful howl—
Greeted a yellow showing, or a foul!

The Greeks and Romans, when the games were done,
Went in processions, singing on the way
To some large meeting-place, where cheers and wine
Greeted the victors of each furious fray.
And (history says) such goodly drinks were brewed
The Greeks and Romans got extremely stewed!

The Greeks and Romans acted,
man for man,
By day and night, in their old classic clime,
Exactly as the sportsmen, nowadays,
Perform in this so-called degenerate time!
Through all the centuries it seems —how strange—
The nature of the people does not change!

AT LATEST REPORTS THE BOXING COMMISSIONERS OF PAPUA, SOUTH BORNEO, AND BAFFIN'S BAY HAD NOT BARRED JOHNNY WILSON.

There evidently have been no new houses built in Kentucky for George Spencer, a new bantam from the Coast, is showing remarkable neatness and dexterity in eastern bouts. A fine Spencerian hand, as it were.

Yes, Mark Twain and Bill Nye ranked high among American humorists, but they were pikers compared with the fellows who kept the official score of the late world's series games.

BASE-STEALING, 1922.

A sudden start; a lightning sprint; a spike-flashing slide; a cloud of dust; the call of "safe." and loud applause.

BASE-STEALING, 1921.

A lagging start with two men gone; a cow-like gallop; a stumbling fall; a cloud of dust; the call of "out," and raucous raspberries.

BARNES AND HUTCHISON AT SAN GABRIEL TOMORROW; WOMEN'S CHAMPIONSHIP AT ANNANDALE.

BY PAUL LOWRY.

Jim Barnes and Jock Hutchison, the galloping golf champions, whirl their way to Riverside for an eighteen-hole round over the links of the Victoria Country Club this afternoon. Tomorrow will find them playing Bill Bacon and Professional Arthur Rigby and the latter's assistant, Grant Halstead, in both portions of a thirty-six-hole match at San Gabriel.

And early in the week the debonair Jock and the elongated James have a contract to disport their wares to the good folks of the Midwick club. With La Jolla and one or two other clubs to hear from and a return match with Dr. Hunter and Eddie Loos, who twice have walloped them, the boys ought to keep pretty busy.

From R. M. Modisette, the popular president of the Annandale club, comes the information that Annandale is to hold the State amateur championship for women.

This is good news. The dates have not been set, but the tourney will come off some time in April. Heresford in San Francisco staged it last year, and Miss Doreen Kavanagh of the Los Angeles Country Club captured the crown.

The northern fair ones will be down in force to regain lost laurels this year, but the south will be well fortified with such sterling players as Miss Kavanagh, Miss Margaret Cameron, Miss Mary Browne and others.

The next tourney of the Rotary Club will be held at the Hollywood Country Club with Dave Roth, the memory expert, in charge of the arrangements. Dave is offering one of the prizes—a memory course for those who can't remember how many strokes they took on various holes.

As golfers the Rotarians think they have the best team extant. They have challenged every club and organization that will accept a challenge. Their four cracks are Norman Macbeth, Elmer Henderson, Henry Minor and Leo Starr, scratch, 5, 8 and 11 handicap players, respectively. Tentative matches that may become realities in the near future have been arranged with the Pacific Fleet boys and the dentists, Drs. Spinks and Humes are scouring the dentist ranks for two good teammates.

John Gage, proprietor of the Pig'n Whistle, is one of the newer converts who has taken to golf with much ardor and sincerity. Last September he played his first portion of a round at San Gabriel, negotiating thirteen holes and giving up in disgust. But he saw the possibilities of the game from the physical standpoint and now he's beginning to reap some of its pleasures. Rarely a day passes but what he spends a few odd moments in the batting cage of some sporting goods store.

Hugo Bergwald, a past president of the Rotary Club, is another ardent golfer. He had something like 156 in the last tourney at the Los Angeles Country Club, but he gets as much satisfaction out of his game as the scratch man with a 72.

According to Clare Kemp of Bullock's the best professional-amateur team in Southern California is made up of Ernest Martin and Bill Nevin. They have beaten every combination that has gone against them. They took Hutt Martin and Norman Macbeth into camp with ease, and after George Patterson and Wilson won the amateur-pro event that preceded the State open championship hung the crape on them. This happened at Annandale the day after the close of the open championships.

• • •

Dr. Charles Hartley has joined the hole-in-one club and his name has been posted on Clare Kemp's bulletin board. Incidentally Dr. Hartley won a dozen golf balls, offered by the Burke Golf Company of Newark, O., and a membership in the Burke Hole-in-One Club, of which Jock Hutchison is a charter member. Anyone is eligible for membership, the only credentials being the ability to negotiate a hole in one swipe from the tee.

• • •

Dr. Paul Hunter, Everett Seaver, George Thomas and F. M. Hunter made up a foursome at Flintridge last Saturday, getting a line on the links where one-half of the southern amateur championships will be played in April.

TENNIS DELEGATES HOLD CONFERENCE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 2. — Delegates to the annual meeting Saturday of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, arriving today held informal conferences.

Charles Garland of Pittsburg, secretary of the association, and Joseph W. Thurston of Hartford, Ct., a member of the ball committee, were among the early arrivals.

U.C. BOXING SQUAD MAY PERFORM HERE.

ball on the outside as long as he did not engage in college baseball.

"This would serve every purpose of the more drastic rule now in effect," said Henry. "A lot of fellows are compelled to work their way through college. "If a football player or track man has talent as a pitcher, why should he pitch hay for less money than he could get for pitching a baseball?"

We will leave the answer to those closer to the situation.

Talk of Charley Deal and "Twin Six" Stats being used in a possible trade for Eddie Roush of Cincinnati is said by the Wrigley baseball interests to be without foundation, yet it is interesting to contemplate such a transaction.

Cincinnati could easily use both Stats and Deal, while Roush, great player that he is, appears in his present frame of mind to be rather useless to the Reds.

Roush had a three-year contract with Cincinnati calling for a grand total of $45,000, which has two more years to run. He is now attempting to break this and have it rewritten for $54,000, possibly not with any expectation that the Red owners will do so, but to show his complete dissatisfaction with his present surroundings in the hope he will be sold or traded.

What a pip of a player Eddie would be except for that disposition. Rangy, fast, a brilliant fielder and hard hitter, and an arm as true as a bullet, he may have an equal, but we doubt whether his peer as an outfielder exists, and we say this after having seen Speaker, Cobb and practically all the kings in that division.

But it is to be doubted whether he is of much more value to Cincinnati than an average big league performer.

I will recall an incident on which this statement is partly based. One day at the Polo Grounds, the Reds, still holders of the world championship, and still in the race with a good chance to repeat, were playing the Giants in New York.

The crowd was riding the champions rather roughly, and Roush was their particular target.

George Kelly drove a long one to left center, but far more toward center than left. It was palpably Roush's ball, and he would not have had to run far in order to intercept the drive and cut it down to a single.

But did Eddie, standing out there with folded arms, shake a leg? He did not. Neither did he move a foot. So Pat Duncan in left field, away to a late start, shagged the ball, but by the time he had fielded it, Kelly was resting at third.

Roush was neither fined, nor publicly reprimanded. And his present fat contract was signed since then. The game needs players of his ability, but what is it going to do with dispositions like that?

Out here most people think Capt. Russell Stein of W. and J. about the best player of that name in the country. But Glenn Warner avers there is one just a little bit better, that being Russell's li'l brother, Herb, center for Pittsburg. Herb is a trifle lighter than Russell, and also a trifle better than Russell, avers Warner.

Herb won a place on Camp's All-American in 1920, but was dropped in 1921 and Russell allowed to represent the Steins in that position of honor. Possibly a bit of policy to keep peace in the family.

CHAMP FLOPS CHALLENGER.

Miller Retains Title as the Wrestling King.

Defeats Paul Prehn in a Spectacular Match.

Hammer Lock Does the Work for L.A.A.C. Man.

The middleweight wrestling championship crown still adorns the noble brow of Walter Miller, although Paul Prehn almost shook it off last night in the L.A.A.C. gym. Miller retained his title by winning two out of three falls in a spectacular match that was loaded with action.

Prehn's fall came via the toe hold, which he snapped on the Mercury marvel quite unexpectedly. The hammer-lock was used to advantage by Miller in both his falls.

After examining each other's manicures, the grapplers got down to business. Prehn tried every trick on his list, but Miller succeeded in writhing out of the ring whenever things looked bad. The athlete spent most of the first thirty minutes sparring for holds. Miller securing the first fall with a head scissors and hammer-lock in 32m 56s. Prehn gave up to save his arm.

TOE HOLD.

Spectacular work on the part of Prehn gave him the second fall in 15m. 7s., the result of a deadly toe hold which forced Miller to pat the mat in token of submission. Prehn had Miller's leg in position to break it had the latter resisted longer.

Just previous to this, Prehn got an arm scissors on Miller and all but pulled the latter's arm out of socket. That Miller suffered excruciating pain was evident by the look of distress on his face. The champion wormed out of this hold by sliding across the ring and under the ropes.

The men were ordered back to the middle of the ring, and Prehn surprised Miller by snagging a toe hold. Caught unawares Miller was unable to combat this successfully and slowly, but surely was forced into position where he either had to quit or accept a mangled leg.

Prehn used a head lock several times in the final period without much success, and tried to snatch another toe hold. The elusive Miller finally clamped a reverse hammer lock and face lock on his opponent, and Prehn tapped the canvas. Time, 22m. 55s.

In the preliminaries Ferguson defeated Gilman by decision, and Coumas threw Kohlmaier twice in succession.

Joie Ray's Time to Stand as a World's Mark.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—The record set last night by Joie Ray of the Illinois Athletic Club, in defeating a field of stars in the mile and a half Wanamaker cup event at the Millrose A. C. games, will stand as a world's mark as the distance is not run abroad.

He made the distance in 8m. 42 2-5s., 4 1-5 seconds faster than the previous record, set by him in the Millrose games of 1917.

MOLLA MALLORY IN INVITATION FINALS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 2. — Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, national women's tennis champion, today won her way into the finals of the invitation indoor tournament at Heights Casino, Brookiyn, by defeating Miss Martha Bayard of Short Hills, N. J. The score was 6-0, 6-4.

STAGE DOUBLE MAIN EVENT.

A double main event is on the fight card at Hollywood tonight. Young Brown and Joe Coffey meet in the tailpiece and Bobby Ertle and Spec Ramies mix in the opener. Brown and Coffey have met twice in former main events at Hollywood with indifferent success, each having a bout to his credit.

The Ramies-Ertle scrap also is a repeater. It was all Ramies in the last battle, but the Oakland mauler believes he can reverse the verdict tonight.

Racehorse Roberts, the 154-pound Oaklander, has returned from the north to do battle with young Stanley Ketchel in the feature preliminary affair tonight. Roberts has been enjoying wonderful success in the northern rings, but is stacked up against a tough one in Ketchel.

Frankie Novey is here again on a furlough from the Army, and will mix with that clever 118-pounder, Jimmy Dunning. Other bouts on the program are: Jimmy Marcus vs. Jack Spar, 138 pounds; Sailor Ashmore vs. Larry Osbrink, 136 pounds, and Bud Omar vs. Sailor Thode, 135 pounds.

Roy Marshall announced last night that the arena will again be specially heated.

SPIKE HENNESSEY BREAKS INTO SIGMA CHI FRATERNITY HOUSE, BUT STAY IS SHORT.

Editor's Note—Spike Hennessey, the writing pencil pusher, once more hints his best and strays into the frat house of the Sigma Chi, where he puts on the feed bag and makes a number of new friends.]

SIGNAL CHI Frat HOUSE,
Near Univ. of So. CAL. U.S.A.
Day before FRIDAY nite.

Mister WARDE FOWLER,
Auto Ed. TIMES paper,
America de La. Los Angeles.

Dear WARD:—

Well WARDE hear I am out among the classic atmospheres of the sunny South basking in the sunshines of the smile of some of the CO-Eds. But the Co-Eds is not Auto Eds. or Sporting Eds. like Paul Lowry but City Eds. because U.S.C. collich is in the city limits of Langeles. Only Warde they is not no Co-eds here 2 the Signal Chi house. It is against the rules of the FRATERNITY which is for men only like the Kapper Kapper Gammer, Alpha Pee, Phi Betcha Kappa and Etc. But WARDE I knowed you was a collich man from that Female Cemetary for men ONLY called Occidental UNIV. of Eagle Rock & I knowed U wood be interested to know how I was also a well educated bird which had already got 3 degrees from the police DEPT. cops out to Univ. Station.

FRED KELLY which is also a good A.O.H. or should be with a name like he has, met me on the corner of Spring St. & BROADWAY and invited me out to his ALPHA Mater to see the track boys work out. Fred is a member of the SIGNAL CHI and when he found out I was a Brother NOBLE from the ELKS B.P.O. Protective ORDER, he invited me to eat dinner at the Frat HOUSE and help wash the soup plates and cocktail glasses after we have got through.

SERVE SOME FEED.

It was a swell supper we had with a lot of fine carruts cooked in banana Bands and dressed up in tights like Zigfeld Polly girls and pork sausage Almd De Rosenblatz. It made me think of that time I and yod was eating in the Cafey De Paree that nite before we went to see Daphnie Pollard at the Pionies Zig Zag and I and the Hon. Attorney of Paris and Herb Simon and ART Klein and you got sig-nazzed up so we had to borrow Eddie RICKENBACKER'S bicycle to ride to the show on.

Warde you better get up purty airly in the A.M. and go out on the front lawn and get the TIMES paper so your Mrs. wont see about you and me getting swacked in Paris and I will go down in the lobby of the Hotel Alexandria and take out the sport page of all the TIMES papers so my Mrs. Cant get nothing on I either.

While we was eating dinner in the Pi the course, Mr. Johnny Leadingham, one of the Signal CHI boys stood up and said BROTHERS we will now sing the old Frat Him. I was glad Leadingham told us it was masculine tenor because I had forgot if Limberger was female or nuter. The song was sang in Latin which was taken from the Figi and it went: Cheese! Cheese! Limberg Cheese—Nothing For Supper, But Limberger Cheese. And it ended with a long Ahhhhh Ch-eee-zzzz which Fred Kelly made very effective by holding the tenor in a high bass voice and I joined in with my Mc Cormack profundo en tone. Ward I wish you was there because it wood of made you feel very patriotic because the cheese they sang about was so old.

THE HAILING SIGN.

Its a legend Warde and the first brother of the SIGNAL Chi met the other first brother out on the desert and they was so thirsty for a drink of Budwiser which comes from the GREEK meaning to Foam that they could not talk but only signalled to each other and said Chi, meaning that they both was from Chicago, but had commuted to colleges at Vassar which is a famous mens college in Ohio. Well the two boys walked along making a lot of signals and purty soon they come to a city called Paduka, Kintucky, where they found a lot of Green River cheese. Both being well educated men like I and using only the classicle English language they remembered that Green River in Arabian Nites is Limberger so now the La Paloma of the Signal Chi frat is the cheese song.

After we 3 dinner Fred took me over to introduce me to Chas. Dean and he purty near shook my hand off when we met and Fred Explained that he got so much practice shaking hands with Crip Toomey up at Berkeley last Nov. that he just shakes every birds hand till he knocks him for a loop of parashoots.

Johnny BOYLE was standing under a lamp post out in frunt of the U.S.C. school house (But they both could stand O.K. without the other) and I says Jno. my name is SPIKE HENNESSEY and maybe you have herd of my product 3 Stars Hen—Johnny interruppted me with a question. "HOW MUCH a quart? and then I knowed he was a real chap. I tolt Johnny that Walter Camp overlooked a great bet for his All-AM. teem and said I was going back to the New HAVEN Clock Co. where Walter works and tell him to put Johnny and Charlie the U.S.C. stars on the All AM. teem or I wood fix his clock with a bust on the crystal meaning his right eye.

COULDN'T SING.

Fred Kelly then said I shud meet the music teacher of the college mr. ELMER HENDERSON and I said I was not in no condition to sing unless I had a little Monogram Oil and of course it was not possible to get none so I didn't go in to the singing dept to meet mr. Henderson.

It was so nice of Fred KELLY to take me out to the collich I am going to speak to Mr. J. C. Griffin of the Griffin-Brannaman Studios about having him in the next pitcher of mine which I am going to rite for them and it will be called HARRY HART THE BOY SPEED KING or the Sardine's Revege.

Well Warde as they is nothing more of great importance to rite about this P.M., I am going to say Old Loug Sang, Till we meet again.

NAVY NOTES.

Lieut. Thomas G. Berrien, personnel officer at the Submarine Base, returned to his post yesterday after an absence of ten days during which he acted as technical director for Allan Holubar in the filming of "The Soul Seeker," featuring Dorothy Phillips. Several of the scenes deal with Navy life and these were taken at San Diego, the Navy destroyers and seaplanes working with the company in producing the film. Lieut. Berrien, who has assisted in the direction of several pictures calling for Navy scenes and who wrote the scenarios for the "Bob of the U.S.N." series of pictures for Universal, will write the scenario for Miss Phillips's next picture, it is said.

Lieut. Commander James T. Alexander has been detached from duty at the Naval Station, Pearl Harbor, T. H., and assigned to the Tennessee of the Pacific Fleet, as senior assistant engineering officer.

Lieut. Samuel V. Dunham has been assigned to duty aboard the Idaho as assistant disbursing officer. He comes from the Naval Training Station, Great Lakes, Ill.

The flagship California entered yesterday on the last lap of her gunnery practice program and the performance of her gun crews to date indicate, Navy officers say, that she will complete her work with an enviable record. The practice program will be completed in time for the ship to sail for San Diego on the 16th inst.

Yost Gives His Views About College Pros.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ANN ARBOR (Mich.) Feb. 2.—Fielding H. Yost, athletic director of the University of Michigan, in discussing professionalism among college students, said today he knew of no improper offers being made to promising high school athletes to induce them to enter any western conference college. In the twenty years he has coached the Michigan football eleven, he said, not more than ten students enrolling here had been high school stars.

Coach Yost said he had never appealed to Michigan alumni to round up promising athletic material, although on one occasion he told the Detroit alumni that good material was necessary to good athletic teams.

"I made no appeal, but merely stated the premise," he added.

S.C.Y.A. TO HOLD MEETING TONIGHT.

The present officers of the association, the newly elected commodores of the various clubs and the board of governors representing the San Diego Yacht Club, Santa Barbara Yacht Club, Newport Harbor Yacht Club, Los Angeles Motor Boat Club, Los Angeles Yacht Club and the Los Angeles Athletic Club are to be present.

WHITTIER THROWS IT INTO OXY FIVE.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

WHITTIER, Feb. 2.—Whittier College honeydew hurlers handed the hungry Oxy Tigers a handful last night when they met the fierce five on the Franklin High court in a conference basketball game and annexed the score: Whittier, 30; Occidental, 11.

All of Oxy's scoring was in the first half, when the score looked equally promising to each team and was Quakers, 12; Tigers, 11. Occidental has been playing in hard luck this season, but as only half of the conference games have been played, she still has a chance to hang the for rent sign on the cellar. The line-up:

Whittier (30.)		Occidental (11.)
Brownson (8)	F.	Right (3)
Pickett (6)	F.	V. Norton (4)
Buckmaster (4)	C.	Brahms (4)

SEATTLE FEARS FOR SHIPPING.

Protest Rails Abrogation of Agreements.

Declare Jap Lines Would Transfer Trade.

Friends Are Pushing Local Harbor Work.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2. — Representatives of Seattle business men and shippers today protested against what they say is another effort to cripple their oriental shipping. Some time ago the Shipping Board after a conference with the railroad carriers, who had special contracts with foreign shipping lines as to export and import freight shipments, announced that the roads were willing to abrogate these contracts. Two of these contracts were between the Japanese steamship lines and the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul and the Great Northern Railroad and the point of transshipment from rail to ocean steamer was at Seattle.

WOULD DIVERT SHIPPING.

When it was learned that the time was near for the actual termination of these arrangements Seattle business and industrial leaders demanded and were granted a chance to protest. Today they asserted that if these contracts were abrogated the Japanese would divert the large tonnage now cleared through Seattle to Victoria and Vancouver to the consequent ruination of a large part of the oriental trade through the port of Seattle.

A compromise was made suggesting that the contract only prevails where the shippers routed the freight via the Japanese lines and that all other freight be divided equally between the foreign lines and the American bottoms.

It was intimated that when the Shipping Board began operation of ships under the coastwise laws to the Philippines this business might not be given to railroads who insisted on the preferential contracts with foreign steamship lines.

The attitude of the Seattle leaders indicated that they feared such a move as this together with the proposed formation of a great Pacific pool might prove detrimental to the growth of the port in the oriental trade, but seemed to look at the situation differently when assured by the officers of the Shipping Board that the present situation left the port largely at the mercy of the foreign ship companies and that the present offered an opportunity for the present foreign service to be replaced by an all-American service by means of Shipping Board vessels operating in close co-operation with the transcontinental railroads.

WOULD SPEED WORK HERE.

United efforts of the friends of Los Angeles Harbor in the House and Senate will be made to secure Congressional authority for the first steps in a vast improvement in the harbor of Los Angeles. Congressman Osborne will confer tomorrow with Senator Shortridge in an effort to have the plans for the greater harbor carried on with alacrity in both Senate and House.

Every effort will be made to have the new rivers and harbors bill provide for a new survey of the Los Angeles Harbor to show the desirability and necessity of the extension of the present breakwater from a point where it now ends to the Long Beach shore and for the deepening of the present channel in the Los Angeles Harbor to a depth of thirty-five feet.

COTTON FACTORIES TO REDUCE WAGES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BOSTON, Feb. 2.—Cotton manufacturers employing approximately 50,000 operatives in New Hampshire, Massachusetts and Maine today notified their employees of wage cuts amounting in most cases to 20 per cent, effective February 13. New Hampshire plants also gave notice of an increase from forty-eight to fifty-four hours in the weekly working schedule.

The announcements brought Northern New England manufacturers into line with those of Rhode Island and Connecticut.

GENOA POSTPONEMENT IS BELIEVED LIKELY.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PARIS, Feb. 2.—Postponement of the international economic conference at Genoa is regarded in official circles here tonight as the probable outcome of today's resignation of the Italian Cabinet.

Officials believed that the time required for the creation of a new minintry certainly would prevent the opening of the conference March 8.

MINERS KILLED IN TWO BLASTS.

Twenty-five Known Dead in Pennsylvania.

Alabama Convicts Caught in Explosion.

Frick Company Workers Are Asphyxiated.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

GATES (Pa.) Feb. 2.—Twenty-five miners are known to have been killed in the explosion at the Gates mine of the H. C. Frick Coal and Coke Company here early today, it was reported by coal company officials tonight.

There is a possibility that the number of dead may reach twenty-six. Thirty men were working in the section where the explosion occurred, four of whom escaped.

Sixteen of the dead were taken to a morgue at Masontown tonight. Six bodies remained at the bottom of the shaft awaiting the discovery of the three or four which remained buried under debris.

The cause of the explosion, which occurred a mile and a half back in the workings, has not been determined.

From the appearance of the bodies it was indicated death had been caused by asphyxiation.

CROWD ASSEMBLE.

Hundreds of persons assembled from near-by mines and a detail of ten State policemen were sent to the shaft to hold them back. In the crowd were said to be many members of the families of the dead and missing miners.

The mine is one of the largest in this vicinity and normally employs about 1000 men. It has been working day and night shifts and a large number of men were in the entries and rooms when the explosion occurred.

The mine shaft is 680 feet deep, and the explosion occurred in a section so far back in the workings that its force was spent before it could reach the bottom of the shaft and damage the hoisting machinery.

A number of men quit work at the usual time and were making their way to the shaft on foot when the accident happened. They immediately organized rescue crews and under the leadership of Supt. Brown set out to work.

NINE CONVICTS DIE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BIRMINGHAM (Ala.) Feb. 2.—Nine convicts were killed from a local gas explosion in the Belle Ellen coal mines in Bibb county today, according to reports received here by C. H. Nesbitt, State mine inspector.

Mr. Nesbitt said he had only received a meager report on the accident, but that the superintendent of the mines told him the explosion was a local one; that all the bodies had been recovered, and that the mine was clear.

SHACKLETON WILL BE BURIED AT GRYVICKEN.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

LONDON, Feb. 2.—The body of Sir Ernest Shackleton, now at Montevideo, Uruguay, will be taken back to South Georgia Island to be buried, according to the Daily Mail. This decision the Mail attributes to Lady Shackleton in deference to what she believes would have been the explorer's wishes.

Shackleton left no instructions respective to his burial, but relatives and friends the Mail says, feel that it would accord with his desire to be laid to rest at the gate to the Antarctic. Shackleton's grave, therefore, probably will be beside the English church at Gryvicken.

BROTHER OF KAHN IN FEDERAL BERTH.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—California Senators have agreed on some additional patronage matters in the North. Congressman Kahn, whose record in Congress is only second to that of Uncle Joe Cannon in length of service and importance, has been rewarded by the appointment of his brother, Bert Kahn, as appraiser of merchandise at the port of San Francisco. This is one of the most important Federal appointments in the North and is for a term of four years.

Jacob Schene has been named first assistant appraiser, and while not entirely settled, it is believed that D. E. O'Keefe will be the choice of the Senators for the second assistant appraiser of the port.

ONE BIG UNION PLAN BROACHED

Miners Seek Aid of Railway Men in Fight.

Attorney-General to Oppose Unlawful Plan.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Feb. 2.—Four distinct and highly important moves were made today in the coal mine situation which is rapidly going forward to a crisis. Mine union officials are seeking an alliance with the railroad unions, a sort of "one big union" plan, to fight reduced wages, and the entire country is waking up to the dangers in sight from such an alliance.

The second move was made by the Indiana Bituminous Coal Operators' Association in session here when announcement was made that at the expiration of present contracts with the miners, radical and sweeping reductions in the present wage scale would be demanded.

The third move was the announcement from Atty.-Gen. Daugherty, in Washington, that the Federal government will invoke its legal powers to prevent the disastrous consequences of a coal strike or a strike threat.

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, made the fourth move when he summoned the scale committee to meet February 8 in Indianapolis to formulate the miners' demands for a wage agreement to take the place of the one expiring March 31.

Atty.-Gen. Daugherty made it plain that the long-suffering public is to have a voice and some consideration in the disputes between the miners and operators. "The people of the country," he said, "are getting tired of strikes and quarrels and being forcibly fed on both. They want fuel to keep them warm and food when they are hungry and they can't have either without work."

Unions, he said, cannot do anything an individual is not permitted to do and he does not think it lawful for a man or set of men to prevent others performing services to their employers under contract.

Men on the inside predict that a majority of the rail unions may agree to pool their interests with the mine unions to resist any wage cut, but these men say they feel certain the "big four" brotherhoods, which stood alone in the recent rail strike threat, will not accept the plan offered by the mine unions.

FLASHES.

VAUDEVILLEAN WEDS.

HARRY FOX MARRIES PARTNER, BEATRICE CURTIS.

By Grace Kingsley.

Echoes of a romance beginning in Los Angeles, and which has just culminated in a wedding reached Los Angeles yesterday, when it became known that Harry Fox, vaudeville star, and his partner, the beautiful Beatrice Curtis, were married in Chicago a few days ago.

It was while in Los Angeles, it is understood, that Harry Fox and Miss Curtis became engaged. Fox is the divorced husband of Yansci Dolly, of the well-known Dolly Sisters. The two had been separated a long while.

Miss Curtis is considered one of the most beautiful girls on the American stage. She is but 18 years old, but has been on the stage all her life, coming of a theatrical family.

Marie Denies It.

Now comes Marie Mosquini, Harry Pollard's leading lady, and denies that she is engaged to marry the star of her company.

The denial comes as a distinct surprise, inasmuch as the announcement was given out officially from the Hal Roach studios the other day, and this is the first time that denial has been made.

"I'm not engaged to anybody," said Miss Mosquini, yesterday, "I'm free lancing."

Beaudine with Sennett.

William Beaudine, well-known in Hollywood and Los Angeles picture production circles as a successful director of comedy, has been engaged by Mack Sennett to produce the next Ben Turpin two-reeler.

Beaudine has been in conference with the Mack Sennett scenario department making ready for the next Turpin special, which will be put into production inside of a week. Beaudine was connected with the Sennett comedies in the old Triangle days.

Tommy Meighan's a Mean Thing.

They're not speaking, Thomas Meighan and a certain beautiful lady star on the Lasky lot and the fault, says the lady, is all Tommy's.

It happened thusly: Meighan always has an orchestra to play for him in his dramatic scenes, for, big husky though he is, or maybe because he is, he claims he needs music to awaken his deep emotions.

The lady, for some reason, has been out of luck in the music line, having drawn nothing better than a phonograph. So she sent word to Meighan the other day, asking him to lend her his orchestra for a couple of scenes.

"Also please send me a piece that will make me cry," she said.

Mr. Meighan lent the orchestra. He also sent a package along.

This was placed by one of the cut-up musicians right under the piece of cloth on the table over which the lady star had to bend her head and weep. As she bent her head, an odor arose familiar to her from the old days down on the farm.

She wept all right. And when the scene was over she lifted the cloth. Under it attached to the package was a note, reading, "Here's a piece to make you cry!"

Sure, you guessed it; it was a piece of onion.

HIGHBROW DISCOVERS CHARLIE'S ARTISTRY.

Max Eastman, in his interesting, though learned new book, "The Sense of Humor," quotes Aristophanes. Then he says:

"And those who are not satisfied with classical authority upon this point will be interested to know that Charlie Chaplin has the same thing to say of his art as Aristophanes."

"I make them conscious life," Mr. Eastman quotes Mr. Chaplin.

"'You think this is it, don't you?' I say, 'well, it isn't, but this is, see?' And then they laugh. I bring home to them by means of a shock the sanity of a situation they think is insane."

"I doubt," says Mr. Eastman, "if any joker ever gave a more penetrating analysis of his art."

So they've found Charlie out, even the scholars who shudder at slapstick for its own sake and who like to figure out why and wherefore they have laughed.

They've found out that Chaplin's an artist even when dissected. Something the rest of us knew all along.

JURY AWARDS MONEY TO ACTRESS.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 1. — After three hours' deliberation a jury in the Supreme Court yesterday awarded $12,500 damages to Miss Reine Davies, screen actress, in her suit against the Briarcliffe Lodge Association and Sime Silverman, publisher of Variety. She had asked $500,000 damages for injuries sustained in an automobile accident June 18, 1919. The award is given against both of the defendants.

'CELLIST FEATURED.

Constintin Bakaleinikeff, Russian 'cellist of note, now a permanent member of the California Concert Orchestra, will be featured on Carli Elinor's musical program starting next Sunday. M. Bakaleinikeff is a graduate of the Moscow Conservatory and traveled all over the world with the famous Moscow Trio. Prior to his coming to Los Angeles he was solo 'cellist for seven years with the Russian Symphony Orchestra in Moscow. He will offer melodies from Liszt's Hungarian Rhapsodies, which are well qualified to display both the tone and technique of this eminent 'cellist.

HONORS FOR STRONGHEART.

Blue ribbons, cups and testimonials galore have been awarded in this country and abroad to Strongheart, the remarkable dog who plays so important a role in "The Silent Call," the big special photoplay which H. O. Davis will present at the Miller Theater for a limited run beginning Saturday. Kathryn McGuire, James Mason, John Bowers, William Dyer and Robert Bolder are the principal players supporting the dog star.

Pavlowa is Well Sped on Her Glad Way

Before "standing room only," Anna Pavlowa made her last bow of the season to a local audience yesterday afternoon at the auditorium; and if speeding the parting guest means sending him or her away with every possible expression of whole-hearted enthusiasm, surely few guests of Los Angeles were ever better sped.

The audience was of the sort known as "brilliant;" a variety not easily excited as a general rule. But the personal popularity of Pavlowa is greater than requirements of decorum, and it is likely that many gloves emerged from yesterday's ordeal a total loss.

Of course, nothing is so open to argument as dicta on the subject of dancing; here, more than in any other art, it is what strikes the response in you that you gauge quality by. Yet one other test remains; which picture persists most strongly in retrospect? What flash of beauty seems most likely to remain for ever unforgettable?

To the present reviewer, it is the "Chopinina" that will so remain. Lovely as many of the other numbers were, here in these haunting, wistful poses beauty awoke for him. In their delicate quaintness, in the strange sadness of their music, in their fleeting moonlit passion there was something more than interest or admiration; there was a definite opening of gateways too often closed upon a land we dream of sometimes, but seldom enter.

These dances had that precious feeling of completeness, of inevitability, which one who loves beauty would willingly go twice around the world to encounter once. It may, in this instance, be best expressed, perhaps, by saying that one felt Chopin must have seen just such pictures when he composed the music. This is truly re-creation.

The Fairy Tale ballets, lost none of their charm by repetition. And here, too, occurred one of those unforgetable moments—the pas de deux of Princess Florinda and the Bluebird, Mlle Butsova and M. Domoslawski. Here again one escaped from the world of pretty irritations to something perfect and ineffable—only for a moment, it may be, but art is measured by moments, as is life.

The other high spots were the Dragonfly by Mme. Pavloma and the Bacchanale of Pavlowa and Novihoff, especially the former. The Bacchanale was hardly Bacchanalian enough; physically, the abandon was there, but it was conscious abandon. Pavlowa's art seems too spiritual a thing to fit kindly into such a part.

"ELEGANT GIRLS."

Lubitsch Says Americans are Most Beautiful.

"The elegance of your American girls was most amazing to me," said Ernest Lubitsch, the European director of "Deception," "One Arabian Night" and other pictures, who has just returned home, after spending three weeks in the United States.

"Even the check-girls in hotels and telephone operators have the manners of ladies. They wear smart clothes, have manicured hands and conduct themselves with an air such as belongs only to women of the higher class in Europe. There doesn't seem to be any classes in America, especially in New York. I never before saw such beautiful working girls."

Lubitsch will begin work on another spectacle as soon as he gets back to his studio. He was unable to say just what the story would be, but intimated that it probably would have a historical background like most of his pictures. He brought to this country what he declares is his greatest picture, "Pharaoh's Wife," soon to be shown on Broadway.

NAZIMOVA IN IBSEN.

Nazimova's photoplay version of Ibsen's much discussed drama, "A Doll's House," has just been booked by Fred Miller, and is to be shown at the California Theater following next week's engagement of Benjamin B. Hampton's thrilling photoplay, "When Romance Rides."

ARLINE PRETTY AT INCE'S.

Arline Pretty, another film favorite to desert New York's fast diminishing film circles for those of Hollywood, has been engaged for a leading role in "When the Devil Drives," a special independent production being made at the Thomas H. Ince studios. "Cross Currents," which Miss Pretty completed before leaving New York, and in which she is to be given stellar honors, is scheduled, for release next month. The most recent picture in which Miss Pretty appeared was "Life," made by William A. Brady.

TRIO IN CONCERT.

The Los Angeles Trio, May MacDonald Hope, pianist; Calmon Luboviski, violinist; Ilya Bronson, violoncellist, will present the fourth concert of their series Monday evening, at Ebell Auditorium. The program is one of especial interest to students and lovers of chamber music. The Mendelssohn Trio in D Minor will be played, as also the big Dvorak in F Minor. The last named has not been given before in Los Angeles, and is a work of profound musical worth, making great technical demands on all the instruments, but yet written in the romantic style so typical of Dvorak. Mr. Luboviski and Mrs. Hope will be heard in the Sonata for piano and violin of Cesar Franck. This is a request number.

MUSICAL.

HELEN STANLEY.

CONCERT SINGER SHOWS HER ARTISTIC FERVOR.

By Edwin Schallert.

Concert singing as it should be—that is what your feeling is regarding the work of Helen Stanley, the American soprano, who gave a program of quality unusual last night at Philharmonic Auditorium. It was her first recital locally in several seasons, and while it did not attract an aurience of numbers sufficient to compensate its worth, it brought a thorough delight to those who attended. They came to hear something of musical and artistic value, and they heard it.

Mme. Stanley—as apparently from the program she chooses to be called—asks no concessions to popular taste. This in itself is an estimable thing. Not a single number that she gave but was typical of high ideals. Her encores were dignified, as well as her programmed songs. For one encore she sang "Si Mes Vers Avalent des Ailes," by Hahn; for another she repeated the "Panis Angelicus," by Franck, which stood out as having the largest appeal of any number. It was sung by special request, the accompaniment being provided by Ray Hastings at the organ, C. Bakalenikoff, 'cellist, in addition to Mme. Stanley's own pianist, Imogen Peay.

Such rare judgment does the singer display that she even eliminated the programmed "Le Printemps," by Fevrier, because it might break the continuity from the Franck song which preceded.

Such small things are the evidence of taste. It is a similar taste which Mme. Stanley discloses in her rendition of her songs. Each and every number she dignifies with a character that makes it signify something.

Primarily it is intellect which regulates her style. Emotion, if she feels it strongly at any time, is in her instance subservient to thought. There is no great heart thrust in her art, but that in no sense detracts from the beauty of what she has to give, for she is absolutely certain of what she is doing, and makes you feel her sincerity.

She is at her best, perhaps, in sketching pictures before your eyes and in songs of spiritual fervor. Her "La Pluie," for instance, a charming number, revealed a whole French landscape. "The Lark Now Leaves His Watery Nest," by Parker, was filled with nature's radiance. The highest spiritual elements entered into her Cesar Franck interpretations. In "Panis Angelicus" the music was but the symbol for a choir of angel voices.

In general the singer's tone is rich and brilliant. There are moments when a certain hardness, a brittleness is discernible in her voice that verges on the displeasing, but as a rule she tempers the quality of her tone very agreeably. She is intense in the intellectual way, vibrantly so at times, and holds your interest with the keenness of her spirit and her mind.

While on the whole we are inclined to give our highest adulation to a more emotional type of singer, it must be admitted that Helen Stanley represents a distinguished perfection in the art of concert stage.

Imogen Peay accompanied with a fine understanding of the singer's needs.

Sennett in on Large Gold Strike.

A gold mine that may prove more fabulously rich than the legendary mines of King Solomon has just been uncovered in Northern California.

Such was the news brought to Los Angeles Wednesday by Mack Sennett, motion-picture producer, who has returned from a hurried trip to Grass Valley, 150 miles northeast of San Francisco.

Sennett came prepared to back up his statements, for he brought with him a large amount of gold-bearing quartz, which he says has assayed as high as $560 per ton.

The mine is known as the Normandie, and is owned outright by Sennett and two Los Angeles capitalists, Ed Featherstone and Al Greenwald.

Grass Valley, on the American River, where the strike was made, is one of the most famous gold-bearing districts in the world. It was the scene of a mad gold rush. It has long been sung in song and fable by mank of the authors of the late nineteenth century. It was there that Bret Harte penned most of his stories. And it is there today, that several of the greatest gold mines in the world are operating at full blast, among them being the Empire, the Lone Star and others.

HE CRANKS FOR POST.

Turning the camera crank for Guy Bates Post, America's most distinguished actor, who is now making his film debut in "The Masquerader," a Richard Walton Tully production, is Georges Benoit, "the king of double exposures." Benoit gained his title through his record performance of making forty-nine exposures on one strip of film. In "The Masquerader" he will reveal a new method of double exposure in those scenes where the two characters played by Post share the action.

Your share in Five hundred million dollars

One hundred thousand new Los Angeles residents within ten years have chosen to live on the shores of the blue Pacific. For 25 miles from Santa Monica to Long Beach gleam the lights of the suburban cities they have built, with land values ranging up to and above $1000 a front foot, and becoming hourly more valuable.

Look at the Map

The map on this page reveals the key-position of Palos Verdes Estates in the very heart of all Los Angeles seashore suburbs—the cream of all the properties fronting the ocean.

Held intact for 100 years, these estates constitute the last and most valuable of all large Los Angeles seaside suburban areas to be developed. Every new house and every new resident in Long Beach, San Pedro, Wilmington, Redondo, Hermosa Beach, Santa Monica, Beverly Hills, Hollywood and a score of other suburbs seaward from Los Angeles has built into this property new values. Its 14 miles of coastline and 16,000 acres of superb natural terraces, rising above the ocean and sloping again toward Los Angeles, are already rich with the values forced into them by the suburban cities that hem them in on three sides.

$500,000,000 Who Will Get the Money?

Los Angeles County land values have increased nearly Four Hundred Million Dollars in ten years.

They will increase Five Hundred Million Dollars in the next ten years, at the same rate of progress.

Two things alone will determine who shall share in this super-fortune—an equivalent of $500 for every man, woman and child in Los Angeles in 1930. They are

1. What undeveloped lands in Greater Los Angeles are the most desirable?

2. Who owns and develops these lands?

"A Home by the Summer Seas"

These questions answer themselves.

Seashore lands, and those adjoining, are the first preference of 100,000 residents in the last ten years. You cannot shift these people, nor those who come after them. They will not go elsewhere. And Palos Verdes Estates, with their wonderful natural terracing and their miles of shores and beaches, comprise the most beautiful as well as the most central residential and business properties in the entire Los Angeles coast line. Development of Palos Verdes Estates will therefore be in accordance with their natural pre-eminence and the owners and underwriters of this development will divide the profits of the enterprise.

Briefly, the enterprise—

Palos Verdes Estates cost $5,000,000. Improvements under the direct management of nationally known city-planners, architects and engineers, are contemplated to aggregate $30,000,000. Making full allowance for all public sites, streets and donations, the average cost of the improved property, complete with improvements, will be less than $15 a front foot, 208 feet deep. Estimating the improved valuation at only $50 a front foot—far below the average in surrounding communities—the returns from this property would be $110,000,000 as against an investment of only $35,000,000—a gross profit of $75,000,000 to be divided among the owners and developers of Palos Verdes Estates.

Subscriptions to Palos Verdes Estates

1. For all subscriptions to Palos Verdes Estates development the Title Insurance and Trust Company, one of the oldest and strongest title and trust institutions in the United States, is absolute trustee. No money can be expended without the authorization of this institution.

2. It is agreed that $15,000,000 must have been subscribed before any expenditures are undertaken. Should subscriptions in hand June 1, 1922, aggregate less than $15,000,000, all payments received will be returned in full and without any deductions or commissions, or allowances other than the trustee's charge of 1% on amounts paid.

3. Each subscriber receives, upon entering his subscription, either (1) the trustee's receipt for a convertible note subscription, entitling him or her to select properties in the improved estates at cost, or (2) a non-convertible trustee's receipt, entitling him or her to a pro rata share in the profits realised from sale of the improved estates at market price to the public. You may elect to receive either form of note.

4. As is standard underwriting practice, 10% of the amount subscribed must accompany the subscription. The remainder is payable at agreed intervals.

5. The minimum single subscription is set at $100 with $10 accompanying the subscription when made.

Most of the Five Hundred Million Dollars in new wealth through increased land values will pile up on property already owned and developed. Buildings, houses, garages and lots all will advance in value. It cannot be too strongly emphasized that Palos Verdes Estates are the only extensive properties remaining in the Greater Los Angeles seashore district.

Two Buds Complimented at Dance.

In honor of Miss Ruth Huston of Philadelphia, who is visiting Miss Florence Marsh, and for Miss Eleanor Carlisle of Michigan, who is a house guest of Miss Anne Dorr Moras of Pasadena, Misses Mary and Dorothy Gray entertained with a supper-dance last evening that was one of the most delightful affairs the younger set has enjoyed this season.

The dance was given at the handsome home of the young hostesses' parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Gray, in Berkeley Square, and was attended by 140 guests.

In the drawing-room and reception-hall, where the guests danced, pink roses with fruit blossoms were massed with ferns and a wood fire blazed in the fireplace in the drawing-room. At midnight supper was served in the dining-room, which was adorned with pink roses, Chinese lilies, violets and other early spring flowers. The girls were assisted by their mother and Misses Marsh, Moore and Miss Katherine Short. Miss Mary Gray greeted her guests in a lovely gown of pale-blue chiffon embroidered in gold, and her sister wore a dancing frock of deep French blue Salome velvet cached with silver cloth.

Efficient Housekeeping

MORE ANSWERED LETTERS.

Old subscriber: "Is there any remedy for Buffalo Bugs?"

Answer: Buffalo Bugs (or "Carpet Beetles") feed upon carpets, woolens and silks. To rid your home of them spray your carpets with benzine (but not near heat nor flame) and wash the floor beneath with hot water. Pour kerosene into floor cracks and under base boards, then fill the cracks with plaster of paris. Tarred paper, if laid under carpets, will often prove a good exterminator. Replacing carpets by rugs is also most advisable. Many housewives use this method: place a damp cloth over the infested carpet and iron upon this with a hot iron. Steam will pass through the carpet, killing insects directly under the ironed part. Another method is this: have your druggist dissolve 60 gr. corrosive sublimate in 1 pint of alcohol; apply this to edges and under sides of carpet. This destroys larvae. But great care must be taken in using corrosive sublimate as it is poisonous.

An interested reader: "Can you tell me what will bring the luster back to a black satin skirt which has become dull? I have made a new part to it and now wish to renew the appearance of the rest of the skirt. Here is another problem that troubles me: I have made up a silk comforter and the cotton bat must have been damp and musty, for there is now a decidedly musty odor about it even though I have sunned it well and warmed it at the register."

Answer: Here is a mixture which renews the luster of silk, and it is said to be equally successful with some grades of satin. Apply it first to an inconspicuous portion of your skirt, to try it out. Dissolve one tablespoonful of cooking soda in 1 quart of cold water and sponge the silk, wringing out the sponge as dry as possible. Then take one quart of water and add 2 tablespoonfuls of household ammonia to it, and sponge the silk again with this. Dry and press. You will have to throw away the mouldy cotton inside your silk comforter, for you will never have any satisfaction from trying to renovate it. Burn it up, expose the inside of the silk covering well to the sunlight (sunlight kills mould) then put new, dry cotton inside.

Constant reader: "I have just finished my guest room and it is done in French gray, the furniture and woodwork. But it has no closet, so where will my guests hang their clothes?"

Answer: If it were my guest room I'd buy a second-hand old-fashioned black walnut wardrobe — the kind our grandmothers used, which are very high, broad and massive, with doors. I would wash this well, then enamel it in French gray.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Kirkman, in care of the "Efficient Housekeeping" department, will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be inclosed with the question.—The Editor.

FUNERAL CONDUCTED.

Many Friends Attend Rites for Miss Hunsaker.

Funeral services for Miss Florence King Hunsaker, who died at her home, 417 South Mariposa street, Tuesday, were conducted yesterday morning in the Bresee Brothers' chapel. Rev. George Davidson officiated. Cremation followed at Rosedale.

Miss Hunsaker, who was 40 years old, had been ill for the last ten years. She was a member of St. John's Episcopal Church and her patience and kindly spirit during her many years of pain served as a constant lesson in fortitude to all members of the parish. The funeral services were attended by scores of friends whose floral offerings were an indication of the affection in which Miss Hunsaker was held.

Besides her parents, Hon. and Mrs. W. J. Hunsaker, Miss Hunsaker leaves a brother, Daniel M. Hunsaker, and two sisters, Mrs. Rose H. Steehler and Mrs. Mary H. Brill.

WOMAN CHARGES SLANDER.

After-Dinner Tricks

No. 110—Dissolving Coin.

A coin is placed beneath a handkerchief, and held over a tumbler partially filled with water. Some one holds the coin through the handkerchief, and then drops it into the tumbler, where it is heard to fall. Removing the handkerchief, the coin has disappeared.

A small watch crystal, or a glass disc, about the size of a half-dollar, account for the mystery. The disc is previously placed in the handkerchief, and the person assisting is given it to hold through the cloth, instead of the coin. When the disc falls in the tumbler, it adheres to the bottom, and cannot be seen.

The Daily Fun Hour.

BY HONOR WALSH.

SNOW-DARTS.

This North American Indian game can be played only on a snowy slope. Mr. Stewart Culin describes it as having originated in the Cree tribe. The Cree Indians chose a hillside or a sloping bank covered with snow. Upon this they made a long "trail," or slide from the top to the bottom of the hill. To insure its slipperiness they threw water on the trail-slide and allowed it to become icy before beginning the game. "Hummocks" or barriers of snow were built in four places down the trail.

The snow-darts are round sticks, about nine inches long, gradually pointed toward one end, and rounding to the other or heavier end, where the dart terminates abruptly in a sharp point. The dart-starters may play individually, or as partners, or in teams.

Each player in turn starts the snow-dart at the top of the trail-slide. We must not push it; it must descend without help. Each dart that slides over all the barriers without leaving the trail counts four points for the player; if it slides over only one hummock, it counts one point, and so on. Game is won by the player, partners, or team having the highest score at the end of a given time. A player who has succeeded in sending the dart over all four barriers four times in four successive turns wins the game for his side, no matter how high the opposing score may have been before his coup.

New Peruvian Consul Takes His Post Here.

Alberto Leon Porta yesterday became provisional consul from Peru in Los Angeles, taking the place of Manuel L. Ayulo who turned all official business over to him at noon. The following wire from Peruvian Ambassador Pezet at Washington was received by the new provisional Consul Wednesday:

"By cablegrafic order of the Minister of Foreign Affairs please take charge provisionally of the Consulate. Consul Ayulo instructed to permit your assumption of the business of the Consulate."

[Signed]
AMBASSADOR PEZET

Offices of the Consulate were moved yesterday from the Chamber of Commerce Building to 2113 South Grand avenue, telephone 271067, where the Provisional Consul will establish his headquarters.

SITE FOR AUTO CAMP PLEASES OFFICIALS.

COMMITTEE IS EXPECTED TO FAVOR LOCATION IN GRIFFITH PARK.

Following the visit of city officials yesterday afternoon to Commonwealth-avenue canyon at Griffith Park, the Public Welfare Committee of the City Council, the members of which took part in the inspection trip, is expected to make a report to the City Council recommending that the 150-acre site be set aside for the establishment of a municipal automobile tourist camp grounds.

Representatives of the Chamber of Commerce and of the Automobile Club of Southern California were enthusiastic over the possibilities of the development of the site for an automobile camp.

The Park Department will make a survey as to the cost of equipping the camp with water, gas and electricity to supply service to the tourists. The establishment of an adequate municipal automobile camp ground has long been urged by the Chamber of Commerce and other organizations as a needed attraction to bring visitors to Los Angeles. It is planned to at first provide facilities for 100 machines and later increase the equipment so as to accommodate 200 or more parties. The camp will be self-supporting, a fee of 50 cents a day, which will probably be charged, being sufficient to return to the city the cost of equipment and to meet running expenses, it is stated.

THREE FACE COURT ON ARSON CHARGES.

TRIO ACCUSED OF TRYING TO BURN HOUSE IN BROOKLYN AVENUE.

That an attempt at arson was made by Mike Marcella, James Pizutto and George Leoto is the charge made yesterday in Justice Baird's court. The three are accused of arson in attempting to burn property located at 1531 Brooklyn avenue in an attempt to defraud an insurance company, which held a policy for fire damage upon the place.

The three, who were arrested by Detectives Simpson and Hamilton and Capt. Enos of the fire department, were in court yesterday for a hearing. The case was continued until today, after Dep. Dist.-Atty. Costello adduced testimony indicating that a large amount of cotton had been soaked with coal oil and spread about the place, with lighted candles apparently to ignite it. The fire, say the officers, was halted by a board that stopped the blaze from spreading. The fire occurred on January 21. It is charged.

Mr. Fredericks writes of the new home of the chamber and Mr. Weaver reviews accomplishments of 1921 and forecasts progress in 1922. The number also contains articles my Henry M. Robinson, president of the First National Bank and Los Angeles Trust and Savings Bank, who writes on the importance of harbor improvement as a means of developing foreign trade; G. UPHOLD PLACER CLAIM.

Land Office Officials Hold Lang Land Contains Gold.

An opinion that there is gold in commercial quantities in twenty acres of land, lying south of Lang and that therefore the area is patentable under the placer mining laws of the United States, was filed yesterday by Register Groves and Receiver Mitchell of the local Land Office.

The government contested the patent asserting that the land was not mineral in character, but the evidence showed that John A. Larralde, the original settler on the land, had lived there from 1097 until his death in 1918 and a quantity of gold had at intervals been taken from the land, that was known as the Lone Cabin placer mining claim. The government loses the contest.

FILE NEW CHARGES.

Charging incompetence and the acceptance of money other than his salary as an officer, an amended complaint against Sergeant G. A. Llewellyn of the Long Beach Police Department, was filed with the Civil Service Commission today by Attorney Charles D. Wallace, in behalf of Rev. O. P. Ball, pastor of the United Presbyterian Church.

A former complaint was filed three weeks ago and charged incivility and inefficiency. Sergeant Llewellyn refused to comment on the charges. The amended complaint charges that on January 7 of this year Sergeant Llewellyn lifted the headlights on an auto of one W. J. Moorehead and adjusted them. Three days later, the complaint asserts, the officer halted Moorehead on a local street and arrested him for driving a machine having defective headlights.

Dr. Rourke, as well as Dr. Taubman, formerly was a minister in Ohio. Prominent among the registrants were Dick Foye Harding, cousin of President Harding, who now makes his home in Santa Ana; S. R. Hays, an uncle, and C. B. Hays, a cousin of Postmaster-General Will Hays.

WOMAN IN JAIL.

Officers Charge Driver of Car Was Intoxicated.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA ANA, Feb. 2.—Held in the Orange County Jail here on a charge of driving while intoxicated, Mrs. Betty Marks of Balboa is making every effort to obtain $500 cash bail, asked by Justice J. B. Cox.

Mrs. Marks was arrested at Newport Beach last night by deputy sheriffs following a call from the beach. The automobile which she was driving had become jammed between two pilings of the Newport pier on each side of the archway through which the roadway travels.

There are two openings beneath the pier through which the road runs. Mrs. Marks missed both and was caught in a narrower opening into which her car was wedged.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

VENTURA, Feb. 2.—Jennie Carranza sought divorce from John Carranza. John appeared in court to protest, but made such an excellent witness for his wife, that the decree was awarded her.

John Brakey, a well-known merchant, was granted a divorce yesterday from his wife, Martha Brakey, on the grounds of desertion. They were married in 1901 and nineteen years later, Mrs. Brakey left him. A property settlement was made out of court.

LION FLEES BEFORE STORM IN MOUNTAINS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

VENTURA, Feb. 2.—Driven down by the deep snow on the hills, a huge mountain lion was found stalking a colt on the Hoffman ranch, which adjoins Foster Park, the great playground of the county eleven months of the year.

Three men took up the lion's trail and Will Chamberlain succeeded in shooting the animal in the shoulder. However, the big cat made its escape in the brush apparently not badly wounded.

Judge Cox in Ultimatum to Violators of Eighteenth Amendment.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SANTA ANA, Feb. 2.—Bootleggers in Orange county will not be fined by Justice J. B. Cox when they appear before him in the future. A statement to this effect was made by Judge Cox today when he sentenced Jesus Herrata, a Mexican, to ninety days in the County Jail on two different charges.

The second term will begin at the expiration of the first. The prisoner stated that the man from whom he bought the liquor had gone blind as a result of drinking his own brew. "Yes, and you will go blind too if you keep on drinking the stuff," said Judge Cox.

BIG FINANCIER AT CROWN CITY.

Gay Throng Attends Big Social Function.

Youthful Yeggs Tell Story to Police Officers.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PASADENA, Feb. 2.—The economic situation of the farmer and raisers of all kinds of crops must be improved somewhat before general business conditions throughout the country will improve very fast, said George M. Reynolds, head of the Continental and Commercial Bank, Chicago, now said to be the biggest in the world, at the Hotel Huntington here, where he has just arrived to spend the winter, today.

However, Mr. Reynolds believes that the farmer's situation will be improved and that already business is slowly, gradually improving. "Things will work out satisfactorily," he predicted. "Americans have no call to feel downhearted. The United States is so much better off than any other country on the globe that we all ought to feel pretty thankful and optimistic," said the Chicago financier. "We must remember that the business hurt (as a result of post-war readjustment) was world-wide and deep; its ramifications were many. So we cannot expect too quick a recovery. The worst is passed and now, as I said, business conditions are gradually improving."

During the holidays the Continental and Commercial Bank took over the Dearborn banks, Chicago, which had been poorly managed. Thus Mr. Reynolds and his associates are credited with having averted a failure there. The banking situation in Chicago is good, according to Mr. Reynolds. "If it wasn't I would not be out here, to remain until April," he said.

Mr. Reynolds recently was elected chairman of the clearing-house committees of the Chicago banks, succeeding the veteran James B. Forgan, who resigned. The banker is in much better health than when out here last season. Mrs. Reynolds accompanied him to Pasadena. They are popular members of the winter colony here every season.

MIDWINTER BALL.

The formal opening ball at the Hotel Huntington, always one of the smartest affairs of the winter season in Pasadena, was held tonight. It marked the beginning of midwinter social festivities at the Oak Knoll Hotel.

Many dinner parties preceded the ball and after dinner in the main promenade and lounge there was presented an elaborate entertainment, entitled "California, Old and New," Spanish colonials, represented by the Mission players, vied with the latest modes from Los Angeles and Hollywood.

Among those who entertained at large dinner parties at the affair were: Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Clemson of Cleveland, who are wintering here; Col. and Mrs. John Lambert of Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Turner, Misses Helen and Beatrice Horst of San Francisco, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Coulston, Mr. and Mrs. John Steven McGroarty.

BURGLAR CONFESSES.

In the arrest of Edmund F. Doty, 23 years old, 70 Waverly Drive, and Frank Verges, 23, of 105 West Bellevue Drive, the Pasadena police believe they have the men responsible for a number of burglaries and hold-ups here this winter.

Doty has made a confession, implicating Verges as his accomplice, according to Chief of Police C. H. Kelley. About $5000 worth of goods, alleged to have been stolen by the two men in burglaries and hold-ups in Pasadena stores, have been recovered by the police.

Doty is the adopted son of the late James Doty, a Pasadena pioneer.

APARTMENT-HOUSE FIRE.

Tenants in the Devonshire Apartments, 99 North Euclid avenue, fled from the building today when fire, starting in the apartment of Mrs. N. E. Walworth, threatened destruction of the building. According to Fire Chief Coop a gas heater had been left burning when the gas pressure was low.

Later in the day the force of the gas suddenly became stronger, the flames shooting out from the stove and licking at the furniture. The apartment was damaged to the extent of about $2000.

If you wish an elephant, goat, monkey, duck, rabbit, lion, tiger, dog, cat, deer, pig, or any other special charm carved in jade, amber, crystal, carnelian, agate, amethyst or ivory you will find them at Grace Nicholson's World Famous Pasadena Oriental Shop. —[Advertisement.

BEACH BANKS MAKE BIG GAIN LAST YEAR.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA MONICA, Feb. 2.—The bank clearings in Santa Monica, Ocean Park and Venice during the year 1921 were approximately 108 per cent greater than those of 1920, according to the Santa Monica Bay Clearinghouse Association. The total for 1921 was $46,799,905 while that of the previous year was $23,466,057. The 1921 figures represent $1300 per capita for the Bay District, excluding the Sawtelle and Culver City clearings. The large percentage of increase is attributed to an increased public appreciation of the value of banking in the home town and to the normal increase in commercial activities.

The clearinghouse association officials for 1922 are: H. E. Hudson, president; W. D. Newcomb, vice-president; H. J. Engelbrecht, secretary-manager. The clearinghouse committee is composed of Herman Michael, T. H. Dudley and E. J. Vawter, Jr.

FIND BOY HUNTERS IN CABIN.

Santa Barbara Youths Seek Protection from Storm in the Mountains.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SANTA BARBARA, Feb. 2.—Robert Jinks and John Scudder of Montecito, who are attending "cat shoot" at Carpinteria, were snowbound several days in a cabin on the Mono, and for days were the objects of a search through the snow fields on the northern side of the mountains, fears for their safety having spread through this end of the country.

The searchers broke their way through the snow finally reaching the cabin and rescuing the boys who last Friday had gone to the mountains on a camping trip. Caught in the snow they were unable either to get back to Carpinteria or get word out to their friends.

During their long imprisonment by the snow they suffered no hardship, it is said, as the cabin in which they had taken shelter was well stocked with provisions, bedding and fuel.

POMONA PROGRESSES.

New Business Block Adds to City's Commercial Equipment.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

POMONA, Feb. 2.—That the business district of this city is soon to receive a remodeling seems certain with the sale today by E. W. Smith of the business block at the northwest corner of Second and Main streets, to H. E. Ware of Long Beach. The present building on this corner is a one-story brick structure and is occupied by the Witman jewelry store.

Mr. Ware has already secured long-term leases for the first two floors of the building which he contemplates building and it is practically certain that construction will begin within the year on a new business block of several stories.

With new business enterprises being launched with remarkable rapidity it is a known fact that Pomona's business district is due for expansion as all available store locations are occupied at the present time, and when the proper time comes it is certain that several new business blocks will be erected.

CAPTURE TRAIN.

Jobless Army Rides Freight Into Santa Barbara.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SANTA BARBARA, Feb. 2.—A jobless army numbering fifty men took possession of a southbound freight train in San Luis Obispo last night and surrendered to the officers early this morning on their arrival here. Several of the vagrants left the train on the outskirts of the city.

When the mob of ragged, hungry, vagrants charged the train the crew capitulated, realizing the captors were in no mood to be ordered off, no effort was made to break into sealed cars, and when the train pulled in here and the vagrants found uniformed men drawn up to meet them, they submitted to arrest. They were fed here and left for the south during the day.

FACTORY GOES TO ONTARIO.

New Company to Commence Active Operations Before End of Month.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ONTARIO, Feb. 2.—Ontario was assured another manufacturing plant today, following a meeting of a group of prominent business and professional men who have subscribed for stock in the concern to reorganize the Positive Seal Piston Ring Company.

The company has plans for the establishment of a plant here in the immediate future and expects to commence production within twenty days.

Members of the board of directors are all Ontario men, and include J. B. Draper, S. F. Holmes, Arthur J. Stinton, Fred E. A. Alford, W. D. Gillett and Dr. Calvert L. Emmons. The board organized with Mr. Draper, president; Mr. Stinton, vice-president; Mr. Alford, secretary, and Dr. Emmons, treasurer.

The piston ring to be manufactured by this company is said to have been given the unqualified indorsement of all automobile men and mechanicians who have examined and tested it. Local motorists who have looked into the thing are enthusiastic over its merits.

The ring was invented and patented by R. A. Lovell, a Los Angeles mechanic, who originally organized the company with himself as president, C. O. McNulty as vice-president and A. E. Petremont as secretary. After looking over the manufacturing field, these men decided that Ontario had the most advantages to offer in the selection of a factory site and for the organization of a company to put the ring on the market.

McNulty and Petremont have been busy here for several weeks with the necessary preliminary organization steps and their efforts reached a successful climax today when the formation of the company was completed and plans laid for actual production at an early date. It is expected that the factory will give employment to a score of men at the outset, and that the number will be increased as the business grows. A ready market for the product is said to be already assured.

MADE A MISTAKE.

There is no evidence to justify the holding of United States Deputy Marshall S. J. Shannon at Los Angeles on charges of violating the Volstead Act, according to T. J. Nicely, Federal prohibition enforcement agent for this district. "I don't think that Shannon violated the law and I don't think he should have been arrested at all," he said here today.

PORT NOTES.

Responsibility for the collision at Los Angeles Harbor on the night of January 25 between the steam schooners Port Angeles and the Willie Higgins was placed yesterday by United States Inspectors S. A. Kennedy and Carl F. Lehners on Capt. James P. Higgins, master of the Willie Higgins. The inspectors suspended the license of Capt. Higgins for a period of ten days. The Port Angeles sustained damage estimated at $2000, and is now undergoing repairs at the harbor. The Willie Higgins escaped injury in the collision and is now at San Francisco.

A pilot's license has been issued by the United States inspectors to Walter Madler, an officer on the passenger steamer Harvard. Madler is well known at the harbor as a former policeman and a member of the Naval Reserve during the war.

A second mate's license has been issued to Harry N. Krog, son of Capt. C. N. Krog, chief pilot of the Port of Los Angeles.

Purchase of the freighter Wabash by the North Atlantic and Western Steamship Company for service in its intercoastal freight trade was announced yesterday by officials of the Admiral Line, Pacific Coast agents. The ship is now berthed at Baltimore. The Wabash was built at Newcastle England, in 1900 for the French-American Line, and was operated between New York and Liverpool for several years.

The Norwegian motorship Tosca arrived at Los Angeles Harbor yesterday on her maiden voyage from Antwerp with more than 2500 tons of cargo, all consigned to the local port. Her cargo includes 12,000 cases of plate glass, 500 tons of pig iron, 1800 tons of steel and 1000 tons of rags.

The Tosca is one of the most modern motorships in the European-Pacific trade. She is of 10,000 tons deadweight and has a length of 435 feet. Her motive power is supplied by twin Diesel engines. She is in command of Capt. O. H. Sellbach and is operated by the Norway-Pacific Line.

NAVY TRANSPORT LANDS PASSENGERS.

SOLDIERS FROM GERMANY ON ARGONNE BOUND FOR PHILIPPINE DUTY.

On a 25,300-mile voyage from the east coast to the Asiatic station, the new naval transport Argonne, with 136 naval officers, 250 soldiers, thirty-two sailors, seven marines and tons of household goods, arrived at Los Angeles Harbor yesterday, en route to Manila.

The ship was turned over to the Navy Department by her builders at Philadelphia on November 9 last.

Among the officers aboard was Lieut.-Commander R. L. Berry, who is assigned to the division flagship, the New York, as executive officer. He is accompanied by his family.

The soldiers were from the American Army of Occupation in Germany and landed from the transport Cantigny just in time to be transferred to the Argonne. The men were given an opportunity to visit their homes in the United States following their long service in Germany, they said.

The 136 first cabin passengers are naval officers and their families, bound for Asiatic ship and shore stations. The Argonne sailed last night for San Francisco and will leave there for the Philippines, via Honolulu and Guam, on the 7th inst.

Nearly 100,000 boxes of Oregon apples will go out from here on the Royal Mail Packet Line steamer Narenta for Europe, when that vessel comes here about the middle of this month. ABERDEEN (Wash.) Feb. 2.—Eleven deep-sea freighters, including the 12,000-ton Danish motorship Parana, are berthed at Gray's Harbor mills taking cargoes which will amount to 20,000,000 feet of lumber, destined to practically all parts of the world.

Two big freighters cleared Monday, carrying in the neighborhood of 5,000,000 feet.

The Parana, owned by the East Asiatic Steamship Company, is said to be the largest ship ever to enter Gray's Harbor. On her initial voyage from Copenhagen she brought a cargo of general freight for Coast ports, a part of which, destined for Seattle, will be unloaded there next week. She will take approximately 3,000,000 feet of lumber to Australia.

VANCOUVER (B. C.) Feb. 2.—Total grain bookings through this port this season have reached the total of approximately 126,000 tons, about ten times as much as the entire movement last season, according to figures made public today.

The fact that the steamship Dollar sailed on the Orient Mail line has led to the belief in shipping circles here that the strike of Chinese seamen is over. The Dollar Company officials here have not received word that their vessels were affected, though they employ Chinese crews and the first dispatches from Hongkong indicated that all vessels would be tied up.

The steamship Empress of Asia sailed at noon today for the Orient. Her Chinese crew, it was said, was in favor of remaining at work when the ship reaches China, but is under the control of the Chinese Guilds.

The initial consignment of Fiji bananas is nearing the coast on board the Canadian government merchant marine steamer Canadian Scottish.

It is reported on Transportation Row that a Japanese tramp is offering space for bulk grain to the United Kingdom at 30 shillings. The regular companies are maintaining the 35 to 40-shilling rate. It is reported there is considerable tonnage offering for export through Vancouver if the rate is acceptable to the grain men. John Gill, agent for the Mitsui steamer United Maru, reported the ship here shortly to load 1,500,000 feet of lumber and logs for Japan.

The City of Vancouver, which will load a part cargo of lumber at the Puget Sound Lumber Company mill for the Orient, is now expected Saturday to commence taking her cargo.

Bound for Quartermaster Harbor, where the vessel will lay up awaiting a charter, the big sailing ship William J. Lewis will shift Friday. The point, with Dockton the headquarters, has been the mooring place of windjammers in those long past. The tanker Bacoi is at present moored at this place.

VICTORIA (B. C.) Feb. 2.—For many years under charter as a regular unit of the Dominion lighthouse fleet operating out of this port, the steamer Leebos of the Crescent Shipping Company is now being operated in the general freighting trade. She will sail from Nanioo this week with a cargo of salt herring for Seattle. The vessel has a carrying capacity of 400 tons and is under command of Capt. James Hunter, who has been associated with her during her lengthy career as a lighthouse tender.

TACOMA (Wash.) Feb. 2.—On account of additional cargo offering the motorship Kennicott this vessel may not get away for East Coast ports until Saturday morning. The vessel is loading considerable lumber at the port dock and was due to shift to the smelter Thursday night to load copper.

Officers of the vessel claim the Kennicott is working in most satisfactory shape. The vessel was built at the Todd shipyards here.

The Nome City arrived Thursday afternoon from San Francisco with a big cargo of general freight for Tacoma firms. The vessel has a lot of cargo to load here. It was thought by the Baker Dock Company agents that the Nome City would sail Friday morning for California.

From San Francisco the Wahkeena, arrived late Wednesday night at the terminal docks. The Wahkeena had local freight.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 2.—Officials of the longshoremen's association and the waterfront employers' organization will meet tomorrow to decide upon a reduction of wages for stevedores. It was reported a reduction of approximately 10 cents an hour to 80 cents would be announced. Employers say this would still be 15 cents an hour higher that the scale paid in New York.

The amount of the reduction in overtime pay, which now is $1.35 an hour, had not been decided upon today.

Steam schooner operators say wages on three vessels will soon be reduced. Capt. Frank McGraw of the Waterfront Employers' Union stated today that the ranks of unemployed seafaring men on the Pacific Coast are daily being swelled by arrivals from the Atlantic and the Great Lakes. He said he had shipped several lumber-carrying men recently as able seamen because there were no berths open for them at their grade.

The British tanker Anatinia, departing today with 62000 tons of oil, was the first of six scheduled to leave San Francisco this month for account of the Shell Company with oil for the Far East. They will carry nearly 40,000 tons of oil, the heaviest oil movement out of this port for the Far East in many years.

The Norwegian motorship Theodore Roosevelt, 2004 tons, has been chartered by the Australian Dispatch line for carrying lumber from Puget Sound to Australia.

ANNAPOLIS GRADUATES AFFECTED.

Number of Midshipmen to Receive Commissions is Held in Abeyance.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2. — The decision as to how many of the class of 540 midshipmen at the Annapolis Naval Academy will be permitted to receive their commissions as officers in the Navy after their graduation will not be determined by the government until after the Arms Conference is out of the way.

It is said that the number of future admirals of the Navy will depend upon the agreements reached by nations now participating in the deliberations at Washington with a view to effective reduction in naval armaments. The number of ships that will be scrapped by the United States government has already been determined upon, but until a final agreement and ratification of the treaty with the nations involved is completed, no decision will be made with respect to the number of commissions that are to be issued to this year's graduating class at Annapolis.

The number will have to be determined in the end by Congress although that body heretofore has usually followed the recommendations and wishes of the Secretary of the Navy.

It had been reported that but a small percentage of the graduation class would be commissioned as ensigns in the Navy, but it was authoritatively stated today the entire matter is being held in abeyance pending the outcome of the Arms Conference.

The Secretary of the Navy has made no recommendations whatever upon the matter and cannot until it is definitely determined how many ships will be available for use of the new officers after the treaty providing for the limitation of naval armaments is ratified.

Move to Extend Harbor Joined by Long Beach.

The City Council was formally notified yesterday by Long Beach officials that they will co-operate with Los Angeles in urging Congress to authorize construction of the breakwater at Los Angeles Harbor to the westerly side of the flood control channel.

The Navy is particularly anxious that the breakwater be extended, so as to provide sheltered anchorage for the Pacific Fleet. The Chambers of Commerce and shipping men of Los Angeles and Long Beach are anxious that the improvement be made, so as to make possible the building of docks and terminals on the now exposed frontage of Terminal Island and other parts of the harbor. The proposed breakwater extension would be four and one-half miles in length and would add an area of thirty square miles of sheltered anchorage to the harbor.

J. P. Sutherland, now head of the passenger and mail section of the United States Shipping Board, has been appointed eastern passenger agent of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company. This announcement was made here yesterday by W. A. Young, Jr., general passenger agent, who returned from New York after preparing for the inauguration of the passenger and freight service between New York and San Francisco via the Panama Canal, the West Coast ports of Central America and Mexico and Los Angeles. Clay Hutchinson has been put in charge of passenger traffic here, and J. S. Durie in charge of freight with offices in the Alexandria Hotel Building. The Venezuela will sail eastbound next Wednesday, and the Santa Ana on the 25th inst. Both ships are booked to capacity.

OLD-TIME COLD CURE—DRINK TEA!

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of this Hamburg tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacupful at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once.

It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.—[Advertisement.

Have You Kidney or Bladder Trouble?

READ THIS:

Madera, Cal.—"I suffered for three years with catarrh of the bladder, having tried every remedy I heard of, but without relief. Finally I saw Dr. Pierce's Anuric advertised and, like a drowning man grabbing at a straw, I thought I would try it also, which I did with great success, as it relieved me almost immediately, before I had taken all of the first package, so I continued, and would say to all those suffering from their kidneys or excess uric acid, try Dr. Pierce's Anuric Tablets and suffer no longer! I have great faith in Dr. Pierce's remedies."—S. P. Hensley.

EXTRA TAXES TO PAY BONUS.

Impractical to Count on Funded Debt.

Mellon Tells House What is Necessary.

New Sources of Revenue Are Suggested.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—Funds to finance a soldiers' bonus must be raised by internal taxes as it would be impracticable to depend on proceeds from the refunded foreign debt for this purpose, Secretary Mellon declared today before the House Ways and Means Committee.

Reiterating his objection to bonus legislation at this time, he said that in levying taxes Congress would have to tap mostly new resources, as the levies now in effect were abnormally high for peace times. He opposed a general sale tax, re-enactment of the excess profits tax, or an increase in existing taxes, except possibly those on cigarettes, tobacco and documents.

NEW REVENUE SOURCES.

New sources of revenue, he suggested, included 2-cent first-class postage to raise $70,000,000; an increase in second-class postage rates to produce $30,000,000; a 2-cent tax on bank checks to yield $30,000,000, and a license tax of 50 cents per horsepower on automobiles, to produce $100,000,000. Mr. Mellon estimated increased documentary stamp taxes would produce $40,000,000, and that an additional $25,000,000 could be had from an increase of 50 cents per 1000 on cigarettes and 2 cents a pound on tobacco.

Figuring that the bonus would cost $425,000,000 a year for the first two years, the Secretary said Congress could pick out other sources of taxes where the burden would fall with the least hardship in order to make up the deficit of $125,000,000 as between the yield from the specific suggestions he had made and the cost of the bonus. He called attention that there had been suggested consumption taxes on tea, coffee, sugar and other articles, and a tax on gasoline, but he did not approve such taxes.

FOREIGN DEBT PROCEEDS.

As to the use of any part of the proceeds from the foreign debt, the Secretary said the time that returns would be had from that source was problematic and that the ultimate cost would be greater than if direct taxes were laid. He explained that if the interest were used the government would have to extend its domestic debt refunding operations that much longer at a cost to the taxpayers, while if the foreign bonds were sold in the United States, the government would have to guarantee the interest and the principal, and even then the securities probably could not be sold at par.

TREASURY CERTIFICATES.

To a suggestion that the Treasury issue certificates of indebtedness to raise the $850,000,000 for the first two years and retire them out of interest from the foreign debt, Mr. Mellon said this would hinder the domestic debt-refunding operations. The amount to be refunded, he asserted, was so large that no additional securities should be thrown on the market during the operations. He also called attention that the government was facing a deficit of $600,000,000 in 1923, which must be made up.

Asked as to the imposition of a tax on light wines and beers, as a means of raising the bonus funds, Mr. Mellon declared that with the "high tension" in the country on the prohibition question, it was not feasible to depned upon this as a source of revenue.

Brig.-Gen. Lord, budget officer for the War Department, told the committee that the department had estimated that if all the soldiers took cash, the total cost of the bonus to the Treasury would be $1,982,400,000, but he declared that he and other officers believed this total too low. Members of the committee agreed that the figure was small.

TALK PROHIBITION.

With the present "high tension on the prohibition question" it would not be practicable to undertake the bonus payment with a tax on light wines and beer, Secretary Mellon declared to the committee. Mr. Mellon had been asked by Representative Garner, Democrat, Texas, whether such taxes could be levied, and of so, whether they would disturb economic conditions.

The Secretary said that in view of the prohibition situation there appeared to be no reason for going into the question of the economic effect, but added that such taxes would not disturb the country any more than other taxes.

Representative Garner said it had been suggested that a tax on light wines and beers would raise $450,000,000 yearly, or enough to pay the bonus. Chairman Fordney suggested that there was a Constitutional prohibition against beers and wines, and there the discussion ended.

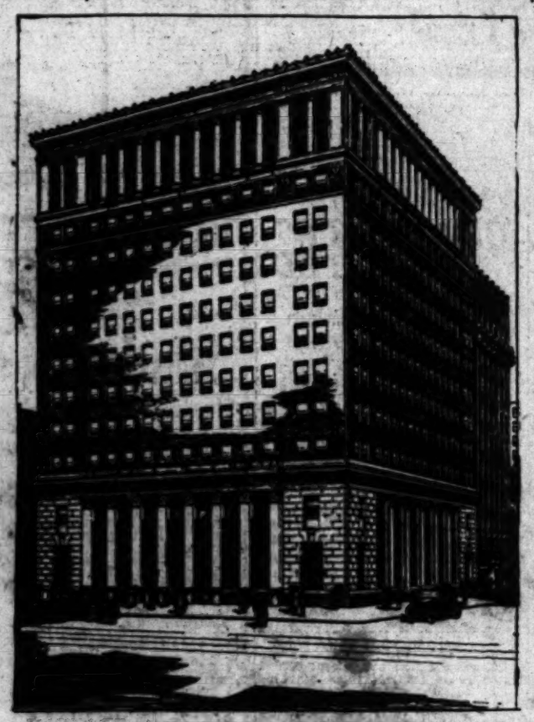
BANK .. PLANS .. ARE .. COMPLETED.

Home of Financial Institution to Be Twelve Stories.



Bank of Italy Building.

PLANS for the new home of the Bank of Italy at the northwest corner of Seventh and Olive streets have been completed by Architects Morgan, Walls and Morgan, and excavations for the building, which will represent an investment of approximately $1,500,000, are well under way. The structure will be twelve stories in height, 113x115 feet, and of steel frame, class A construction.

The main banking room will be 92x108 feet, with a height of twenty-three feet. The basement, first, mezzanine and second floors will all be occupied by the Bank of Italy, while the ten upper stories will contain 300 offices. The basement, which will contain the safety-deposit vaults, will also provide space to meet the future growth of the bank.

The lobby entrance will be located on the Olive-street side, and the lobby itself, which will contain four high-speed elevators, will be finished in the same style as the main banking room. A notable feature of the Seventh-street frontage will be thirty-foot columns across the main facade, with pilasters on the Olive-street frontage. In the big wrought iron grills between the columns and pilasters will be worked the designs of the shields of the various Italian provinces. The exterior will be finished in brick and terra cotta, while the interior finish throughout will be of hardwood and marble. It is expected to have the structure completed and ready for occupation early next year.

TO LINE UP DEMOCRATS.

Underwood Will Call Conference to Explain All Treaties; Seeks to Allay Opposition to Pacts.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—In an effort to allay opposition to the Pacific treaties, Senator Underwood of Alabama, Democratic leader in the Senate, let it be known today that immediately after the Armament Conference adjourns he would call an informal conference of Democratic Senators and endeavor to explain all disputed points in the various pacts.

Mr. Underwood's qualities of leadership will be put to a severe test, it is generally conceded, but he has every confidence that he will be able to swing a sufficient number of Democratic Senators into line to assure prompt ratification of the various treaties. He will make no effort to bind Senators to united party action, but will urge them as individuals to support the treaties.

CHALLENGES POWER.

Rising to a question of privilege in the House today, Representative Bourke Cockran of New York, Democrat, challenged the power and the jurisdiction of the Arms Conference and the administrative branch of the government, to bind the nation by treaty regarding the size of its military establishment.

Representative Cockran sought immediate consideration of his resolution as one of privilege, but later withdrew the request when Speaker Gillett indicated his preparedness to rule that it was not privileged and should go to the committee.

RESOLUTION TEXT.

The Cockran resolution follows: "Be it resolved, that the size and nature of the military establishment to be maintained by the United States is a matter to be decided exclusively by the Congress and any attempt to affect or control the extent of our armed forces on land and sea by treaty between this government and the government of any foreign power or powers is an invasion and breach of privilege of this House, as a branch of said Congress."

TOO MUCH UNCLE.

Minnie Tornberg Says Husband's Attitude Too Parental.

Her husband was also her uncle and, in that capacity, assumed a parental attitude, according to a divorce action filed yesterday by Minnie Tornberg against Leopold Tornberg, harbor merchant. According to Mrs. Tornberg's complaint, she married her father's brother, who was twenty years her senior. From then on discord reigned. Mr. Tornberg felt that he was more than a husband and so exercised his rights. The couple were married in Providence, R. I., Jan. 26, 1921, and parted exactly one year later.

CONGRESS GETS FORD'S OFFER.

Muscle Shoals Contract is Submitted by Weeks.

Secretary Would Modify in Several Instances.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—Secretary of War Weeks in submitting to Congress today Henry Ford's proposal to take over the government water power projects at Muscle Shoals, made no recommendation for its acceptance or rejection, but made several suggestions for modification and amendment should Congress consider accepting the offer.

SHOULD BE MODIFIED.

If Congress should receive the proposal with favor, the Secretary believes it should be modified so that the public grant to Mr. Ford would run for fifty instead of 100 years, and thus conform to existing law relating to water power concessions.

Secretary Weeks also called attention to the fact that if the proposal is accepted, the government must make new appropriations, $40,000,000 to $50,000,000 of which Mr. Ford will have the benefit for approximately 100 years at 4 per cent.

The government, in case Congress rejects Ford's plan, according to Mr. Weeks, should complete the Wilson Dam at Muscle Shoals on its own account, the expenditure being warranted by power requirements for commercial purposes, benefits to navigation, as well as possible emergency needs of the government.

CAN SELL PRODUCT.

"If this were done," said Secretary Weeks, "the government may itself undertake to sell the product to the best advantage. In such case the amount of the government's present proposed investment would be very materially reduced, because Dam No. 3, costing from $15,000,000 to $25,000,000, would not be built," and it would not be necessary to make the full installation of power plant on the Wilson Dam until the market required such installation.

"This partial installation," the Secretary said, "would effect a saving on present investment of at least $3,000,000, leaving, according to the chief of engineers estimate, not to exceed $22,000,000 to be invested by the government at this time, instead of $40,000,000 to $50,000,000."

TO MILITARY COMMITTEE.

The report which was submitted to the House was referred by Speaker Gillett to the House Military Affairs Committee. Members of the Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee, however, are said to feel that they should have been given jurisdiction over the matter on account of the power and commercial phase of the project, and it was considered likely that an attempt might be made to obtain re-reference of the report.

Chairman Kahn of the Military Committee decided today that his committee would act without delay on the report. While some hearings probably will be held, it was not thought likely that they would be protracted. A number of members of the Military Committee have visited Muscle Shoals and are familiar with the projects.
